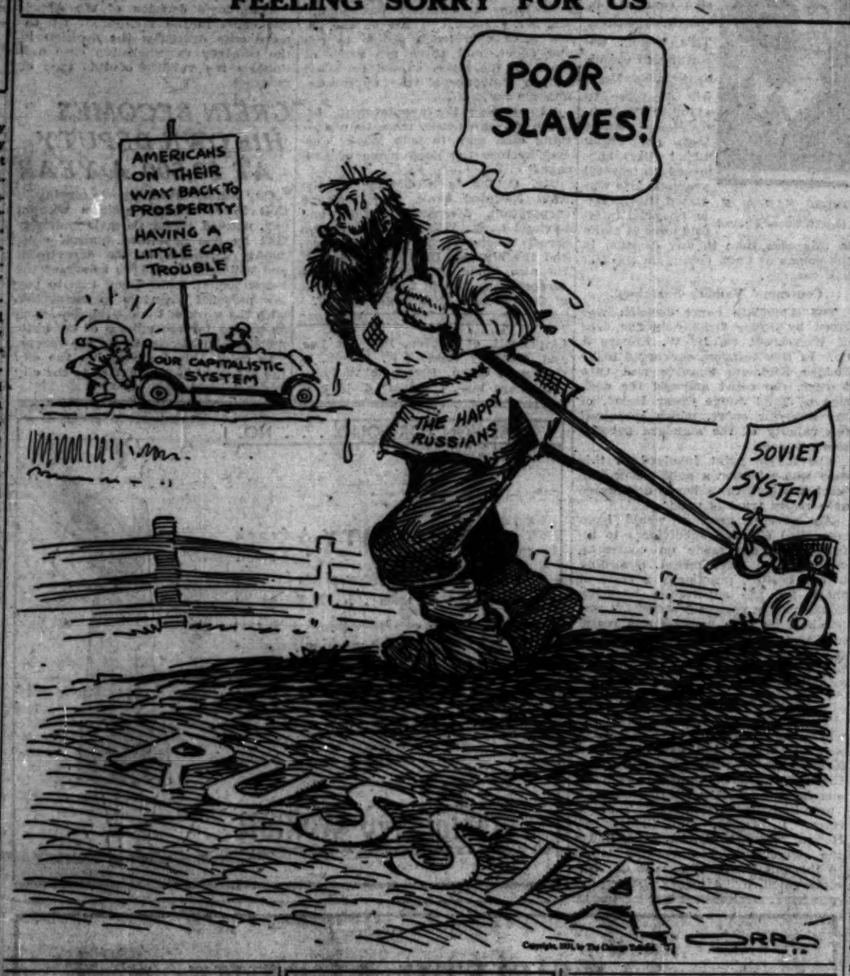
FEELING SORRY FOR US



Find Body of General, Hero of Landslide

BULLETIN.

PARIS, May 20.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Maj. Robert L. Wash telephoned the American embassy today that Brig. Gen. Robert H. Dunlap, U. S. M. C., was dead and that his body had been recovered from the wreckage of yesterday's avalanche at Tours. Maj. Walsh said that the body of the farmer, Denis Briant, who was struck down at the same time, also had been recovered. He said nothing further about Mme. Briant, who he reported earlier was still alive within the cave.

PARIS, May 19.—A battalion of engineers, aided by an army tank and working in the light of a blazing battery of searchlights, is battering away desperately tonight at 20,000 tons of rock and débris in a practically hopeless effort to save the life of Brig. Gen. Robert H. Dunlap, U. S. marine corps. Gen. Dunlap was caught today in a landslide while making a gallant effort to rescue a dairy maid in the village of Cinqmars-la-Pile, twenty miles from Tours.

The dairy maid and her husband were also caught in the slide and all three are believed to be dead. There is one slight chance, if any of them managed to crawl into the far recesses of a cave milk house, which was cut into the hillside. No sound issues from the débris.

Recently Arrived in Paris.

Gen. Dunlap, who had recently arrived in Paris to study strategy in the French war college, was taking a brief vacation with his wife before beginning his studies. He stopped during his morning constitutional for a chat with Denis Briant, a hired man on the farm where the general and his wife were staying. A woman's screams interrupted their conversation. It was Briant's wife, working in the milkhouse. Rocks from the hills above were crashing through the front wall and had already barred the milkhouse door, preventing her escape. The general rushed to her aid, closely followed by Braint. Both men were buried before they reached the woman.

The prefect of the department immediately took personal charge of the rescue work, but the pitiful clawing of the villagers at the formidable mass of rock produced no result all afternoon. The real work began when engineers and tank, ordered by the minister of war from Tours, arrived on the scene.

Mrs. Dunlap in Collapse.

Mrs. Dunlap, who was still frail from a recent illness, was in collapse tonight.

Gen. Dunlap was stationed for two years in Washington, D. C., before coming to France. Prior to that he was in active service in Nicaragua. He also participated in the Boxer uprising campaign in China. He was a native of Washington. He was about [illegible] years of age, and a graduate of [illegible].

POLICE TO LET HOME WINE MAKERS ALONE, MAYOR CERMAK SAYS

The resident of Chicago who buys grapes to convert them into wine need not fear any interference from the police. This was indicated yesterday by Mayor Cermak when he stated a policy for the police that eliminates snooping for evidence of wine or beer making for home consumption.

"I think that the police have sufficient work to do without snooping at the back doors of homes," said the mayor. "I don't see why the police should be concerned with the small manufacture of wine or beer in the homes, which is intended for home consumption."

The manufacture of wine in Chicago homes has fallen off in late years, according to one commission merchant, because the police have discouraged it. This merchant said that while the poor man has had his troubles with his home made wine, those who can afford it may buy a grape concentrate which becomes wine in sixty days.

Reinhardt, Noted Dramatist, Divorces Actress Wife

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, May 19.—Prof. Max Reinhardt, German dramatist, was granted a divorce from his actress wife, Elsie Helms in the Riga courts today. It was said that Mr. Reinhardt established his residence in Riga to take advantage of the easy Latvian divorce law which grants a decree upon proof of three year's separation. The Reinhardts were married in England in 1910.

Blast Seaway Dam as Rains Swell Stream

Two blasts, each of two tons of dynamite, late last night swept away the center of the coffer dam barriers at the Brandon road lock of the Illinois waterway and permitted the swift waters of the swollen Des Plaines river to swirl into the new channel for Chicago-New Orleans barge traffic.

The lock and dams are about three miles southwest of Joliet. The flash of the explosive as it tore away sections of the coffer dams thirty feet wide was seen in Joliet and by farmers for miles around.

Increase Flows At Lockport.

For several days the locks had been ready and it had been intended to blow out the protecting dams, sixty feet upstream, sometime later in the week. But yesterday's heavy rains in Chicago compelled the sanitary district to release an extra 4,000 second feet of water at Lockport to prevent the Chicago river reversing its flow and moving toward Lake Michigan.

The Connolly Construction company, which had started its $500,000 contract on Feb. 20, was notified and it was decided to open the channel at once. Under the direction of A. W. Marshall, the company's resident engineer, the charges were prepared and placed by Jack Knufisto, powder expert.

Waters at Top of Dams.

Long before the touchoff was made the waters had crept up and were at the top of the coffer dams. These dams, 1,000 feet long, 16 feet wide and 11 feet deep, contained a vast amount of material which will be useful in the damming of the old channel, still to be accomplished. Had the blasting not been resorted to, much of this would have been swept away. By opening the narrow channel the remainder will be saved.

The Brandon road project, when the retaining walls and the dam across the old channel are complete, will have cost a little less than seven million dollars. Col. W. C. Weeks, resident engineer for the war department in Chicago, has been in charge of the plans for this section.

DENVER MAYOR LEADS IN RACE FOR RE-ELECTION

Denver, Colo., May 19.—(AP)—With one-third of the precincts reported and about one-sixth of the estimated vote in today's mayoralty election count-ed, Mayor Ben F. Stapleton late tonight was leading in compilations made by both the Denver Post and the Denver News, each supporting different candidates.

Figures of the Post on 102 precincts of 314 in Denver gave Stapleton 13,872, George D. Begole 13,562, Otto Bock 12,830. Other candidates, far behind, were not counted.

The News' compilation was of 125 precincts and gave Stapleton 17,076, Begole 16,107, Bock 14,821.

Doctor's Testimony Is Barred.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Valparaiso, Ind., May 19.—[Special.]—A desperate attempt of Virgil Kirkland to avoid the electric chair for the rape and murder of Arlene Draves was begun this afternoon with an attempt to blacken the character of the 13 year old girl whom he called his sweetheart.

The first witness for the defense was Dr. Harry Kahn of Gary. Objections of the state stopped his testimony after he testified that a girl giving the name of Arlene Draves came to him for "medical advice" in 1929 when Arlene was only 16 years old.

The physician declared that he was not certain that this girl was Miss Draves and Judge Grant Crumpacker ruled that Dr. Kahn might not testify concerning the nature of the services the girl requested.

Tells of Near Elopement.

Another witness was Evan Madera, a guest at the party in the David Thompson home in Gary, which ended in the death of Arlene. In addition to describing the Thompson party, he told of another party at the home of Henry Shirk three weeks previously when the guests hilariously suggested that Arlene and Virgil get married. The party drove to Valparaiso to get a marriage license and a justice of the peace, Madera testified, but then rejected the idea and returned to Gary.

With the close of the state's case the defense made a number of motions, including a petition to direct a verdict of not guilty which was refused by the judge.

The court, however, did announce that he would allow the jury to return one of three verdicts:

Guilty of first degree murder:

Guilty of rape;

Not guilty.

Dr. R. N. Harger, toxicologist of the University of Indiana, testified that he analyzed the contents of the dead girl's vital organs. The defense attempted to show that Arlene might have died as the result of drinking poisonous liquor, but the physician declared that no poisons were present in sufficient quantities to cause even a slight illness. The report showed traces of wood alcohol and formaldehyde.

Defense Calls Physician.

The examination of Dr. Kahn was conducted by Defense Attorney Ronald Oldham.

Q.—Did you know Arlene Draves? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you see her in the spring or summer of 1929? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did she come to you for treatment or advice? A.—Advice.

Prosecutor John Underwood here interposed an objection, and began quizzing the witness.

Dr. Kahn asked Judge Crumpacker if he might make an explanation and was given leave to do so.

"I want to state here," he told the jury, "that I didn't know this girl at the time as Arlene Draves. She might have been some other girl who used her name."

Tells of Another Party.

Madera, who gave his age as 22 years, declared that Kirkland had seemed drunk at the Thompson party and that he had seen Arlene drink both an alcohol and water highball and a glass of wine.

Q.—Did you ever see Virgil and Arlene together before? A.—Yes. At a party in Tony Skirk's home about two or three weeks before.

Q.—How long did the party last? A.—Till midnight.

Q.—What happened then? A.—We all went to Valparaiso. Virgil and Arlene were going to get married. But after we got there, we got something to eat and went back to Gary.

Policeman Defense Witness.

Policeman Paul Roberts, who was a state's witness at the first trial, but who was not called by the prosecution this time, was the third defense witness. He told of taking a statement from Kirkland five hours after a doctor had pronounced Arlene dead.

"I was told by Lieut. Thixtun to try to get Virgil to confess to attacking Arlene on the porch," he testified. "But Kirkland wouldn't say it. He said she fell to the porch and hurt her head. He said he slapped her twice to bring her out of her drunken stupor."

"Did he say anything that is not in this statement?" asked Attorney Oldham.

"Yes, he said he loved Arlene and was sorry it all happened; that it was the fault of the booze," replied the witness.

Petrillo Lays His Trouble in Il Duce's Lap

James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, yesterday spent $175 for a cablegram to Sig. Benito Mussolini, informing the premier of Italy that his consul general in Chicago, Sig. Giuseppe Castruccio, is in the bad graces of the city's union musicians.

The request was made that the dictator in Rome send a letter to Sig. Castruccio "suggesting that he cooperate a little more with the recognized musicians' union" as a means of promoting a better feeling among the parties involved.

Mr. Petrillo's Protest.

In part Mr. Petrillo's cablegram went as follows:

"I respectfully, but firmly, protest certain activities on the part of Sig. Castruccio. Of the many consuls in this city, the Italian consul, I regret to say, is the only one with whom we ever have a dispute. Disputes have occurred on several occasions and in every instance are the result of Sig. Castruccio's determination to use nonprofessional musicians for social and state functions.

"I regret exceedingly the necessity of bringing this matter to your attention, but I do not feel as if I want to be continually arguing with Sig. Castruccio.

Points to Mussolini Policy.

"I feel quite sure that you will not approve of what your Chicago representative is doing in this matter, because it is not in line with your policy where organized labor is concerned.

"Thanking you for whatever interest you may take in this matter and wishing you a continuation of that good health which you are reputed to be enjoying, and which means so much to the present and future of Italy, I remain, very respectfully yours."

The charge was made in the cablegram that the consul general, seeking to employ nonunion music makers, was taking employment from some of the 8,000 of union affiliation, about 2,000 of whom are of Italian descent. These, President Petrillo said, urged him to tell the story to the premier.

The Pageant Starts It.

It was the International pageant, to be held in connection with the Chicago Jubilee last night, that brought Mr. Petrillo to the cabling point. Although the pageant was called off on account of the weather, the musicians' chief learned that the Italians alone of twenty-nine nations proposed to have their music from other than union men.

When he protested the musical organization which had been invited by the consul general to play was withdrawn. Then an appeal was made for a band from Fort Sheridan to help out the Italians. Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, learning of the situation, recalled an army rule that prohibits military bands from interfering with regular musicians.

As the matter stood when the pageant was called off the Italians were to be represented musically by one singer and one piano player, the latter a unionist. Mr. Petrillo had insisted that the accompanist be a union member.

View of Sig. Castruccio.

When Sig. Castruccio was informed of the cablegram he said he was sorry it had been sent.

"What have I to do with musicians and unions?" he asked. "I have never hired any musicians. All I did was to attempt a friendly gesture in cooperating with the Jubilee. At my request some of the Italian organizations agreed to bring musical entertainment. Would it have been courteous for me to specify what sort of musicians they brought, and did I have anything to do with the hiring? No.

"I have nothing to do with musicians and nothing to do with unions. As for Petrillo, he can go to—well, you know where!"

UNION DECLINES TO TAKE ANNUAL INCREASE OF PAY

Members of the Electrical Workers' union, local 134, employed by the Illinois Bell Telephone company, yesterday voted not to accept the annual wage increase of 25 cents a day, as provided for in the five year contract with the company which is now in its third year. The ruling affects approximately six hundred men. The action, taken at a meeting in the Union temple, was, according to union officials, the result of a feeling that economic conditions would improve more rapidly if union labor did not ask for wage increases. The union policy was described as "demanding no raises and accepting no cuts."

California-Chicago Train Derailed; Engineer Killed

Waynoka, Okla., May 19.—(AP)—The engineer was killed and several persons injured, believed not seriously, when the Santa Fe's California-Chicago passenger train, the Missionary, was derailed southwest of here tonight. The body of James Tallferro, the engineer, was buried underneath the wreckage.

RAINS HOLD UP 500 AIR CRAFT FOR 24 HOURS

Great Sky Spectacle On Tomorrow.

BULLETIN.

The flying weather bureau at the Chicago airport at 5:30 o'clock this morning announced that from Chicago to Indianapolis flying conditions are good with high ceiling or clear skies. Between Indianapolis and Dayton the skies were overcast and light rain was falling, making "visibility fair." However, it was stated the conditions from Indianapolis to Dayton would improve within three hours.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

Stormy weather which yesterday halted the flight of the 500 army air corps planes from Dayton to Chicago has resulted in the postponement of the air corps maneuvers in Chicago until tomorrow. Weather permitting the army fleet will fly here today, remain tonight and stage their division review on the lake front tomorrow morning.

BRIG. GEN. B. D. FOULOIS.

The announcement of this decision was made last night at the air corps concentration base at Dayton, O., by Brig. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, commanding officer of the force, after a long conference with his staff.

Same Schedule a Day Late.

The movements of the great air armada will be carried out according to the schedule previously arranged for yesterday and today if the weather improves across Ohio and Indiana by mid-morning. The army chiefs felt confident last night that weather would not block their plans again today.

Scattered showers were indicated across Indiana this morning, but these were not expected to be serious, and the squadron leaders were planning to take off from Fairfield and Wright airports at Dayton at intervals beginning shortly after 10 a. m. and to proceed along a direct course to Chicago in scattered groups. The units are expected to arrive here at the same hours scheduled yesterday and will be quartered at the bases they were formerly assigned to.

Act to Prevent Mishaps.

Drenching rains yesterday flooded the runways of some of the Chicago airports, but these were expected to dry off sufficiently by noon to permit landings. All the army flying personnel were ordered to be cautious in their landings here and extra measures were being taken to avoid mishaps at the five temporary Chicago bases—Ford-Lansing, Chicago, Palwaukee, Curtiss and Sky Harbor airports.

Earlier in the evening the army chiefs had planned to execute in one day the schedule they formerly planned to carry out yesterday and today. Under this program the air fleet would have left Dayton at dawn, landed at Chicago before noon for a hurried fueling, staged the lake front review and hiked back to Dayton before nightfall.

New Plan Is Announced.

Night reports indicated, however, that weather conditions would not be favorable for an early morning take off and for a time cancellation of the whole Chicago engagement was considered, so that the remaining 12 days of the division's national maneuvers could be carried out on schedule.

At 10 o'clock last night, however, Brig. Gen. Foulois conferred with his chief of staff, Col. Ira Longenecker, and other group commanders and it was finally decided to set the entire two weeks' program one day ahead so that Chicagoans would be given an opportunity to view on parade the greatest air force assembled since the world war.

"We are still confronted with the same weather problem that appeared

Monday night, but reports indicate that the worst of the bad weather will pass the r a of our operations in time to permit a takeoff before noon tomorrow," said Col. Longenecker.

The army planes were lined up ready for the signal to start for Chicago at 8:45 yesterday morning, but periodic reports relayed from here reported a low ceiling, fluctuating from 400 to 200 feet. A steady downpour continued throughout the day and the tops of skyscrapers along Michigan avenue were hidden in the low hanging fog.

No attempt was made to blunder through the unfavorable weather, for the division is operating under orders from the war department to take no unnecessary risks which would lead to the loss of life. The air corps hopes to come through these maneuvers with a new safety record.

Another aim of the maneuvers is to learn the effect of weather upon the operation of a huge air fleet, and in this the flyers have gathered a wealth of experience during the last two days. They have also had an opportunity to test the reliability of weather and gathering and disseminating agencies.

Advance scouting ships left Dayton early yesterday in an attempt to fight their way through to Chicago to relay weather data to the Dayton base. The scouts encountered varying success. Col. F. M. Andrews landed at Chicago airport at noon to report almost prohibitive conditions.

Other flyers in the observation unit experience less luck and were forced down in farm fields in Indiana.

PRAISE FROM THE NAVY

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ingalls, in charge of naval aeronautics, returned today from viewing the concentration of army air craft at Dayton and said the lessons learned would be of material benefit in perfection of national defense.

"The concentration of the army air corps at Dayton represents an extraordinary achievement in the procurement of aircraft, training of personnel and organization of various ground forces," he said.

"To see these aircraft take off in groups numbering from five to eighteen, rendezvous en masse at some designated point, then sweep in perfect formation over the objective, and, gradually circling downward, land again in large formations, gives one confidence that the development of our army air corps is in safe and able hands. The extraordinary cooperation which has been displayed and the many safety measures that have been taken were the two outstanding features.

"It is absolutely essential that the war department acquire knowledge and experience in the handling of large numbers of aircraft, for the rapid development and expansion of aviation means that in the unfortunate event of another war airplanes will be involved not in tens and twenties but literally in thousands."

CALL OFF PAGEANT

The International night celebration and pageant, scheduled to be presented in Soldiers' field last night as part of the Chicago Jubilee, was canceled late yesterday afternoon because of the rain. The cancellation was final, it being impossible to make arrangements for its presentation later in the week.

Frederick J. Ashley, chairman of the Jubilee coördinating committee, said the rain had soaked the field so as to make the celebration impossible.

AIR JURISDICTION IS ASSUMED BY COMMERCE BOARD

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday assumed jurisdiction of airways in Illinois with consideration of the application of two companies to operate planes for freight and passengers between Chicago, Peoria, Springfield and St. Louis. The companies applying for writs of convenience and necessity are the American Airways, Inc., which has the government contract for carrying mail, and the Century Air lines. A third company, National Air Transport, Inc., of Delaware, has notified the commission that its application is now being prepared to cover all lines operated in Illinois. The first indication that jurisdiction over airways rested with the state commission was the filing of the petition by the Century lines.

JUBILEE FOUND SPUR TO TRADE IN U. S. REPORT

Results Analyzed in an Official Bulletin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—A message from the Chicago Association of Commerce telling of the impetus given to business in that section of the country by the Jubilee celebration was included in the bulletin on general business conditions issued today by the President's emergency committee for employment.

According to the committee statement the Chicago association reported that Chicago retail and wholesale mercantile firms had shaken off the adverse effects of several days of cold, rainy weather and transacted a steady volume of business during the last week.

The committee statement, based on reports from the Association of Commerce and other central states groups, follows:

"With retail sales centering to a great extent on 'necessity' articles, activity in the semi-luxury lines experienced a period of slightly lessened demand. Staple clothing lines and household accessories proved the best sellers.

Many Wholesale Buyers.

"Wholesale firms were cheered by the response received from invitations sent to thousands of out of town merchants, asking them to visit Chicago during the city's Jubilee celebration, May 10 to 20.

"Sales may be expected to reflect the buying of these groups during their stay in the city, leaders in the wholesale field declared.

"Typical of the attitude shown by merchants throughout the midwest is the reply received from W. R. Whittenburg, president of the Central States group of stores and head of Jorgenson-Blesch company of Green Bay, Wis., who sent word that he and his entire group of buyers would be in Chicago to take advantage of the many Jubilee merchandise offerings announced.

"The general Chicago business situation changed little during the past week, the leading lines, including automobiles, furniture and radios, holding firm at recent levels.

Steel Outlook Promising.

"It was stated that with pipe business again coming out in good volume, fabricated steel demand active and the automobile industry taking a steady tonnage, the outlook in the western steel industry in the next few months is promising.

"Operating schedules of large producers of steel in Chicago and in the east held at slightly under 50 per cent of capacity for the third consecutive week. This is in line with predictions of steel officials in the Chicago district, that there would be little change in output during May and possibly in June."

Kid Weil Indicted Again, if That Means Anything!

Decatur, Ill., May 19.—(AP)—Joseph "Yellow Kid" Weil and Fred Buckminster were indicted by the Macon county grand jury today on charges of operating a confidence game and conspiracy. The indictments charge Weil and Buckminster with obtaining $2,500 from Walter Danziesen of Decatur in a mining stock scheme. Both are under heavy bonds, having pleaded not guilty in preliminary hearings here several weeks ago.

EXHUME AN UNCLE'S BODY IN INQUIRY ON HIS NEPHEW'S DEATH

The suspicions of relatives of Thomas Summers, who died on Aug. 9, 1930, resulted in the exhumation of his body yesterday. His death will be investigated in connection with the inquiry now being made into the death of Thomas Meyer, 17, years old, a nephew of Summers' widow, Mrs. Margaret Summers, 632 West North avenue. A report on whether poison was found in Meyer's stomach is expected today.

Summers' death was due to heart disease and pneumonia, according to the death certificate, but his sisters want the cause of death definitely determined.

Their decision was reached after a physician refused to sign a certificate as to the cause of the death of the Meyer boy on May 14. Meyer had been a patient at the County hospital for a paralytic condition, which indicated some form of arsenic poisoning, according to physicians.

Coroner's Chemist Clarence Muehlberger was directed to make an examination of the stomach content. Pending the result of the chemical analysis no action has been taken by the corner's office regarding Meyer's death.

Mrs. Summers was questioned by the police of the Hudson avenue station. She told of unfriendliness existing between her and her husband's relatives. She said she was the beneficiary of insurance policies in small amounts on the lives of her husband and her nephew.

The decision to make a post mortem examination of Summers' body was reached yesterday and late in the afternoon the coroner's office had the body removed from the grave and taken to the county morgue.

U. S. BEAUTY WHO KILLED HUSBAND DENIES FLIRTING

NICE, France, May 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger burst into sobs when she was brought into court today to stand trial for the killing of her husband, Fred Nixon-Nirdlinger. Dressed entirely in black, she was too overcome to answer her name and could only nod to questions. She presented a pitiful appearance as she tearfully eyed the men called on the jury which will decide her fate.

When the name of Mrs. James B. Nash of Overland, Mo., her mother, was called as a witness Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger showed her emotion in labored breathing. Mrs. Nash is expected to be the star witness for the former beauty queen.

The magistrate gave a brief resume of the case, and made out what appeared to be an easy case for the defendant, but charged her with indiscretions which she denied almost inaudibly. When he said she had danced and flirted, arousing her husband's jealousy, she disclaimed the accusations vigorously.

When told to describe the events leading up to her husband's death, she said: "He came into the bedroom and said such disgusting things to me that I can not repeat them. I fired—I did not mean to kill him." Here she broke down and was unable to proceed.

Police Keep Order as Drys Raid N. Y. Cafe; Seize 25

New York, May 19.—(AP)—Police reserves were called to keep order among several hundred spectators tonight when prohibition agents raided an upper Broadway restaurant, ordered the patrons to the street and arrested the manager and 24 employés. The agents said they seized beer and liquors valued at $5,000.

COURT UPHOLDS THE CONTRACTS OF SUBDIVIDERS

Realty Men Win Fight Involving 200 Millions.

BY AL CHASE.

Judge Martin M. Gridley, of the Appellate court, yesterday handed down a decision which sustains the validity of more than $200,000,000 of subdivision contracts in the Chicago area. This ruling, according to prominent subdividers, will do more to stabilize the subdivision market than anything that has happened in several years. It also was stated that greater financial interests were at stake in this case than in any decision in the courts of Cook county in the last half century.

JUDGE MARTIN M. GRIDLEY.

Contracts' Validity Sustained.

The Appellate court decision was given by Judge Gridley in the case of Weissbrodt vs. H. W. Elmore & Co. In this decision, concurred in by Judges Kickham Scanlan and Otto Kerner, the court affirmed the decision of Trial Judge Oscar Hebel, of the Superior court, which sustained the validity of the standard subdivision contract.

The major point involved in this case was whether a subdivision contract in which the seller is designated as a realty trust is valid.

An adverse decision would have compelled Chicago subdividers to refund payments made on contracts, which would have meant, according to one realtor, practically a state of chaos for the subdivision business. Consequently yesterday's decision was heralded by both bankers and realty men as an important victory for them. It was not learned whether the contest will be carried on to the Illinois Supreme court.

Based on Standard Form.

The subdivision sales contract on which the Weissbrodt vs. Elmore suit was based was the usual standard form of this type of contract in which the seller was designated as "Elmore's Westchester Realty Trust." Three individuals, William C. Tackett, Harry L. Drake, and Charles F. Hough, were the beneficiaries under the agreement creating this trust. In the suit H. W. Elmore & Co. was represented by Attorney Harry W. Lippencott, of Deneen, Healy & Lee, and Attorney Charles F. Hough, of Beckman, Olson, Hough & Woods.

In May, 1929, the same division of the Appellate court handed down a decision, written by the late Judge Jesse Holdom, in the case of Gardner vs. Shekelton, in which a similar form of contract was held void because the seller was described as a "trust," and consequently was neither a corporation, a partnership, nor an individual and there was no one that could sue or be sued.

The Gardner vs. Shekelton case had been appealed to the Appellate court from a decision by Judge Joseph E. David and the Appellate court at that time upheld Judge David's decision.

Thousands of Suits Result.

The decision in the Gardner vs. Shekelton case was broadcast through the subdivision field and through the legal fraternity. As a result thousands of suits were initiated against subdividers, banks, and trust companies who had collected cash under these contracts. This made the subdivision contract of this type worthless for loans or other business purposes.

Millions were involved in these suits and in the last six months more and more litigation had been started or threatened by reason of this adverse decision.

Yesterday's decision of the Appellate court in the Weissbrodt vs. Elmore case overrules the decision in the Gardner vs. Shekelton case and upholds the validity of this type of contract.

RICHARD J. COLLINS NAMED PRESIDENT OF CIVIL SERVICE BOARD

Richard J. Collins, appointee of Mayor Cermak to the civil service commission, was sworn into office yesterday and immediately afterward was elected president at a meeting of the commission. Mr. Collins is the last of the three members to take office. He was out of the city when appointed.

The new president was greeted upon his arrival at the commission offices in the city hall by the mayor, whom he had not met before. He was introduced by the mayor to his colleagues on the board, Prof. Leonard D. White of the University of Chicago, and Joseph Geary.

In a statement issued after he had been elected president, Mr. Collins said that he has no sympathy for "cheating policemen," and promised that if any such appear before the commission political influence will not be able to save them from discharge.

"I hate a cheating policeman," said Mr. Collins. "Those on the police force who teach people to rob and shoot, and there are some of those on the force, cannot be saved by any influence if they appear before me for trial.

"I accepted the appointment because Chicago needs, more than anything else, men to help Mayor Cermak restore the good name of Chicago."

Mr. Collins is a director of the First National bank, First Chicago corporation, Mercantile Trust and Savings bank, Wilson & Co., Fulton Street Wholesale Market company, and the Murphy Door Bed company. He also holds positions with other corporations, and is a past president of the Chicago Athletic association.

GREIN BECOMES HIS OWN DEPUTY AT $3,600 A YEAR

City Sealer Grein, who is serving in that $5,000 a year position without pay, notified Mayor Cermak yesterday that he has appointed himself chief deputy inspector in the department and will take the $3,600 salary of the lesser job. "I am doing this to pay my personal expenses in connection with the work of the department, such as paying for the upkeep of my automobile," Mr. Grein wrote the mayor. "In doing this I am saving the city the salary of $5,000 allotted to the city sealer."

FOUR BANDITS ROB 9 PASSENGERS AND DRIVER ON MOTOR BUS

Four colored bandits robbed the driver and nine passengers on a south bound motor bus on South Park way at [illegible] street at 11 o'clock last night. This is the first robbery of its kind here and police were making strenuous efforts to trace the robbers.

Edward Brennan, driver of the bus, which was of the one man type, reported by telephone that three of the robbers drew revolvers as soon as they boarded the bus and the fourth wielded a long knife. The passengers were terrorized, he said, when one of the Negroes warned:

JUSTICE FARMER RESIGNS SEAT IN SUPREME COURT

Ill Health Ends His 25 Years' Service.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Vandalia, Ill., May 19.—[Special.] William Farmer of Vandalia, the Nestor of the Illinois Supreme court, today sent his resignation to Gov. L. L. Emmerson. It is to take effect July 1. The venerable jurist has been on the Supreme bench a quarter of a century, in all he has been a judge of various courts 34 years and has been in public service a full half century.

JUDGE W. L. JOHN. (Pictures Photo.)

For the last few years, Justice Farmer has been in ill health but has kept up with his work. He is unwilling to let his physical impairment hinder the work of the court, and in his letter of resignation he says he has picked July 1 as the date in order that his successor may be elected to take his seat in the next October term.

Will Call Special Election.

Governor Emmerson will call a special election in the Second district, which has not yet determined. For months past, several candidates have been mentioned. General opinion at Springfield today was that Judge James L. Jones of Carrollton, who was Democratic candidate for governor in 1926, is likely to be the successor. It's a Democratic district.

The retirement Justice Farmer is entitled to draw a pension of $7,500, which is half the salary paid a member of the high bench. Justice Farmer plans to come to Springfield June 1 to spend his 78th birthday with old associates and friends.

Four years ago the bench and bar of Illinois celebrated his 74th birthday at Vandalia and unveiled his portrait, which now hangs in the chamber of the house of representatives when Vandalia was the state capital, Illuminated by the window through which Abraham Lincoln, then a legislator, was hoped to break a quorum of the house, the doors having been locked.

Causes Little Surprise.

The resignation occasioned little surprise at the statehouse, as reports had been current for some time that Justice Farmer was contemplating the step, as indicated in THE TRIBUNE two weeks ago. In his letter the jurist said he had announced it to his colleagues at the April term. It did, however, precipitate much admiring comment upon the "Spartan of the bench" and his exhibition of will in keeping up with his cases despite infirmity. He does his work at his home. As cases come into the Supreme court they are dealt out to the justices in rotation, each thus getting a nineteenth share of the cases filed. In his library at Vandalia, despite his handicap, Justice Farmer has kept up with his cases, and his colleagues point out that he has been spared by the appointment of two commissioners to help the court out of the mass of his cases has ever been referred to a commissioner.

"Judge Farmer," said Gov. Emmerson, "is one of the most able and conscientious members of the supreme bench. We all regret to see him go."

May Affect Commissioner Bill.

The Farmer resignation may react on the bill to retain the two Supreme court commissioners. Legislators have raised the question as to whether invalidism has handicapped the court and in a recent hearing Chief Justice Frank K. Dunn, questioned by Thomas A. Snell [Dem., Belleville] admitted one judge wrote a opinion in a year and a half. Representative Snell said he referred to Justice Warren W. Duncan of Cairo, who has been in ill health for two years.

In his letter of resignation Justice Farmer said:

"During the last five years I have suffered from a physical impairment which has made my work on the court difficult. However, during that time I have attended the sessions of the court and the conferences of its members and have been prevented from performing but one function—that of sitting with the other members of the court during oral arguments. During my twenty-five years of service I have received my regular quota of assignments and have written an opinion in every case assigned to me, although during the last five years this has been accomplished under a trying handicap.

"By reason of the tremendous growth of the state in wealth and population the business of the Supreme court requires the constant and diligent efforts of its members to dispose of the cases. I feel that it is necessary that my successor be elected in time to take his seat at the October, 1931, term, and to that end I am advising you in advance that I have chosen July 1, 1931, as the day of my retirement. The court needs the help of my successor at as early a date as possible."

Judge Norman L. Jones, who appears to be leading for the succession, as Democratic candidate for governor in 1924, polled 1,021,000 votes in the face of the Coolidge landslide, getting almost twice as many votes as Davis for President. Other Democratic candidates mentioned are Judge F. R. Dove of Shelbyville and Judge A. Clay Williams of Pittsfield. Judge Thomas M. Jett of Hillsboro, it is said, will not be a candidate. Among Republicans mentioned dare Judge Jesse R. Brown of Madison county and Maj. June C. Smith of Centralia.

LAKE FOREST PICKS ITS FAVORITE CO-EDS

Vote Is Announced

Ruth C. Adams of Milwaukee has been voted the most popular co-ed at Lake Forest university and Mildred A. Marshall of Sycamore the most attractive. The election was held in March, but the results were withheld until yesterday to insure the first announcement being made in the yearbook of the senior class, The Forester.

Helen Buck of Waukegan was second in the popularity contest. Other results were: Most popular man, Harry L. Fordham of Dixon; most versatile individual, Charles Steele of Rhinelander, Wis., editor of the 1931 Forester; best dressed man, Walter Haase of Milwaukee; best all-around athlete, Petes Stralko of Calumet City; most thorough gentleman, Donald Carter of Providence, R. I.

John A. Komar of Chicago was granted the title of biggest bluffer. Among the faculty members Dr. F. C. L. Van Steenderen was voted the most popular and Prof. Daniel Ford the most interesting.

DRUGGIST FIGHTS THREE ROBBERS; BYSTANDER SHOT

John Gleason, 72 years old, 5040 Quincy street, was shot in the back and seriously wounded last night by robbers in a holdup of the drug store owned by Morris Gans at 200 South Cicero avenue. Gans was back of the prescription counter when three robbers entered and he heard them say, "Hands up!" He looked over the top of the counter. His brother, Elfis, who was back of the cigar counter, and Gleason, a friend of the Gans brothers who had dropped in for a chat, had their arms above their heads.

Gans said he was robbed of $63 a month ago and had been held up five times in six years. He had a gun ready last night. He fired four times at the robbers who started running for the door, but they turned to fire back at Gans. In the exchange of shots Gleason dropped.

No money had been obtained by the bandits and they escaped.

PRIEST FLAYS ROMANTIC VICE OF PRESENT DAY

Calls New Morality "Plain Immorality."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kenosha, Wis., May 19.—[Special.]—The new morality is in essence immorality, the Rev. Francis J. Haas, Ph. D., professor of sociology at Marquette university and St. Francis seminary, Milwaukee, told delegates to the state convention of the Wisconsin Council of Catholic Women at the Kenosha Country club tonight. He said a return to the old morality was imperative. Delegates from 30 cities heard the talk.

"The old morality had a sturdy honesty about it," he said. "It did not romanticise vice. It called things by their right names. It called a 'whoopee party' a debauch; a 'sugar daddy' a paramour; an occupant of a 'love nest' a kept woman. It did not speak of the infidelity of a husband or wife as a 'little love affair'; it called this adultery. It did not know the words 'co-respondent' or 'party husband,' but did know the words mistress and philanderer, and even stronger terms which our Puritanical conventions make taboo."

Rags Companionate Marriage.

"The new morality advocates trial and companionate marriage, simultaneous and successive divorce, and even extra-marital relations before marriage," he said. "And it lacks courage to call things what they are.

"The new code of marriage assumes men and women are mere male and female animals. With only a few exceptions animals are promiscuous. The male parent has little or no care of the offspring. To these depths the new moralists reduce men and women."

Companionate marriage and divorce are at best forms of promiscuity, he said.

"In the same way, those who claim the unmarried cannot be virtuous and the married cannot be continent, assume human beings cannot exercise any more control over themselves than animals can. It is no different regarding divorce. Those who advocate remarriage after separation put children on the same basis as the young of animals, making them shift for themselves."

Discusses Old Code.

The old code of marriage, he said, started from entirely different premises.

"While it admits human beings are in part animal, it insists they have a spiritual nature besides," he said. "This nature gives them the power of self-control and saves them from being mere creatures of their instincts and external environment. They are able to distinguish between the beauty of good and the deformity of evil, and to see that right order requires the physical to be subordinated to the divine.

"The old morality held sex was social as well as personal; that society, as well as individuals, was concerned with marriage. The new morality making marriage a personal matter exclusively disregards the rights of the community, and can bring only death and destruction to the nation that accepts it."

Women especially should recognise Christian marriage alone can give them true equality with their husbands and sons, he said.

"The patrician women of pagan Rome saw this truth as soon as Christianity was preached. They compared their own degradation with the doctrine that in Christ there is 'neither bond, nor free, neither male nor female.' Here they saw their true emancipation.

"Today, too, the only protection of women as well as of society is the same concept of the sacredness of marriage."

SINCLAIR LEWIS HAS ANOTHER QUARREL; WITH YALE THIS TIME

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—That it is easier to win the Nobel prize in literature than it is to dispose of the four inch solid gold medal symbolic of this achievement was discovered by Sinclair Lewis when he attempted to give the plaque to the Sterling Memorial library of Yale university.

There were so many formalities to be gone through and library officials were so indifferent to Mr. Lewis' suggestion that the medal might be a literary souvenir of interest to future generations of Yale students that Lewis took himself and his rejected offering off to his farm in Bethel, Vt., in a high dudgeon. He'll "be damned" if Yale will ever have his medal or anything else from him now, he says.

"I thought the Yale library was the natural place for the medal, and so, while I was motoring from Westport to Bethel last Saturday, I stopped off at New Haven," said Mr. Lewis. "I learned better, however, than to try to make any presents to the Yale library. They just did not seem interested and said there was not any place in their collection for such an item. In my innocence I had thought there might be just that but I learned better, all right."

Yale library officials say Mr. Lewis made no mention of gifts in general or the Nobel medal in particular. He talked vaguely of coin collections and library exhibits, they assert, and suddenly grew quarrelsome, stalking out of the building without further ado despite the courteous concern of attendants and librarians.

Indian Police Kill Five as Mob Attacks Them

SIMLA, India, May 19.—(AP)—Five persons were killed and fifteen injured in a clash between villages and the police at Khuyan Sawar in the Ferozeport district of the Punjab. The trouble began when a detachment of police was attacked by 200 natives. Three natives were killed outright, two were fatally wounded and fifteen others less seriously wounded by police fire.

HOLD SUSPECT AS "BLUEBEARD SLAYER" PERRY

San Francisco, Cal., May 19.—[Special.]—A man believed to be George W. E. Perry, bigamous brakeman of Milwaukee, who slew one of his five bride, Mrs. Cora Belle Hackett of Chicago, on their honeymoon trip last July 6 near Eagle River, Wis., was arrested here today.

Police Inspector James E. Johnson was passing an idle hour at headquarters perusing a detective story magazine when his eye lit on a photograph, to which was appended a synopsis of the murder of Mrs. Hackett. He beckoned his partner, Inspector Richard Hughes.

"Isn't that the witness we questioned two months ago in that Market street auto accident?" Johnson demanded. Studying the photograph a moment, Hughes agreed.

Suspect Is Arrested.

A search of Johnson's memoranda book disclosed that the suspected Perry had identified himself at the time of the accident as Frank J. Moran, business agent of the International Brotherhood, a communist organization.

"Let's go," said Inspector Johnson. The self-identified Moran was found at the Brotherhood headquarters, searched, and arrested.

A description of the man, who is partially bald, with a cleft chin, a scar under one eye and the other clouded by a cataract, was telegraphed to Sheriff Thomas McGregor at Eagle River. The sheriff replied that the description tallied closely with Perry's, adding a request that the San Francisco police forward finger prints.

Prisoner Claims Alibi.

"I've never been in Eagle River in my life," was the prisoner's defiant statement. "If this woman was murdered on July 6 I can prove an alibi. I was in New Orleans on that day."

The suspect admitted being in San Francisco only since last October. It was on Oct. 7 that an Indian trapper came upon a woman's body near Eagle River. She had been shot through the head.

Within three days the body was identified as that of Mrs. Hackett, daughter of a pioneer Milwaukee banker, widow of a federal agent, and, at the time of her marriage to Perry a subscription solicitor for the Chicago Art institute. She was 40 years old, one year Perry's senior.

Many Marriages Unearthed.

His first and only legitimate wife, Mrs. Mary Perry, was found living in poverty in Milwaukee with three minor children. Perry, she said, had deserted his family in August, 1929.

The trail led thence to Cleveland, where Perry had appeared within a few days of Mrs. Hackett's death, giving some of her clothing to one of the bigamous wives, Mrs. Kathryn Gebhardt Perry, Cleveland seamstress.

He remained with the Cleveland wife until Aug. 12, departing on the pretext of a business trip to Texas. En route to the southwest he stopped in Eldorado, Ill., to marry Mrs. Lida Downey, and at Albion, Ill., where he courted and won Elizabeth Morrison, 40 year old spinster of Harrisburg, Ill.

Posed as an Heir.

To each of these women he represented himself as the spendthrift son of wealthy parents, who had insisted he marry respectably and settle down before coming into his inheritance. From each he obtained cash loans.

The trail led to St. Louis, where he paused to court Mrs. Harriet Milligan and Mrs. Dorothy Haggerty. Records show that he married Mrs. Milligan at Belleville, Ill., then hastened on to Blytheville, Ark.

In Blytheville he was attracted by the petite Miss Dorothy Davis, 22 years old, and, needing money, left the slain Mrs. Hackett's car as security for a $150 loan.

Meanwhile the murder was discovered and police, finding a letter from Miss Davis in Perry's hotel room in St. Louis, laid a trap in the Arkansas town. The fugitive returned there, apparently to claim the car, but escaped before police arrived. There the trail was lost.

CERMAK SUPPORTS MOVE TO BRING 1932 CONVENTIONS HERE

Mayor Cermak pledged the aid of the city administration yesterday in a campaign to bring the presidential conventions to Chicago in 1932. He gave assurances of city cooperation to Col. Robert I. Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"I told Col. Randolph that the city will cooperate," the mayor said. "We hope also to bring the Shrine convention here during the World's Fair and many other conventions that have not been coming to Chicago."

A convention committee to urge Chicago's advantage upon the leaders of the national committees of the two parties will be announced today, Col. Randolph said.

Acquit Escort of Girl Who Died After Drinking Party

Belleville, Ill., May 19.—(AP)—James E. Smith, St. Louis, charged with manslaughter in the death of Miss Dorothy Mae Strecker, 21 year old school teacher of East St. Louis, was acquitted today by a jury. Smith was the school teacher's escort on a drinking party March 22 which ended in her death, thought to have been due to poisonous moonshine whisky.

HEAVY RAINFALL SWELLS STREAMS OF MIDDLE WEST

Heavy rains in Chicago and the middle west in the last 24 hours obliterated all signs of drought and started streams swelling to stages not reached for months.

The downpour in Chicago during the last 24 hour period was set at 2.68 inches by the weather bureau last night. The rain flooded subways and streets in many places.

In Peoria and other downstate cities the rainfall had been even heavier, Peoria reporting 2.42 inches, with the Illinois river there rising above the 12 foot stage, the highest it had been in months. At Quincy the fall was 2.24 inches.

The heavy rain cheered farmers, dispelling all fear of any water shortage for the spring growing season.

In the northwest area a sharp drop in temperature brought snow flurries and frost, both Pierre and Rapid City, S. D., reporting flurries after the mercury fell below 36 degrees. In Los Angeles an official maximum temperature was 88 degrees. The heat was accompanied by a gale which swept sand into the city from the desert area to the east.

The forecast for the Chicago area today was for cloudy and cooler. Tomorrow will be fair and warmer.

BRITAIN ASSAILS WAR DEBTS AND HIGH TARIFF BARS

Holds Them to Blame for Depression.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, May 19.—Encouraged by an onslaught today on tariffs and war debts by Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, the Pan-European commission stopped analyzing the situation this afternoon and took a bold plunge toward concrete action.

The committee voted unanimously to appoint a subcommittee of 17 to consider the individual proposals which have been submitted. This does not sound like such a bold plunge, but it seems like one here at Geneva, the atmosphere being what it is. For this subcommittee, contrary to custom, will commence its labors immediately and will render its report before the end of the session. On the basis of this report the main committee will either adopt a definite program or call an extraordinary session during the summer to do so.

Will Weigh All Plans.

The subcommittee will sit down tomorrow to weigh the merits of thirteen separate plans and several informal suggestions, ranging from Aristide Briand's scheme for a united states of Europe down to Maxim Litvinov's project for an economic nonaggression pact.

Among the informal, but none the less official, suggestions is Mr. Henderson's, which amounted to a proposal for free trade and the right of debtor nations to pay their obligations in kind, if at all. Mr. Henderson's actual wording was:

"Among the causes which contributed to the present world depression, the magnitude and high level of protective tariffs rank first. Behind these tariffs is subsidized, uneconomic, and wasteful production which competes with the natural harvest of more favored countries.

Raps War Debts.

"Meanwhile the principal creditor countries have insisted on the payment of debts which are due them and have refused to accept goods which the debtor countries offer. The consequent scramble for gold has largely contributed to the recent catastrophic fall in prices.

"This sequence of tariffs, payment of debts and scramble for gold is sapping the very foundations of our economic system. Everywhere agricultural countries are being forced into bankruptcy because they are being asked to pay in gold, which they have not got, instead of foods, which they have got. Before it is too late we must call once more for a change in policy, for a reduction in tariffs and for the abolition of restrictions on trade."

Russian Applauds Speech.

Litvinov, Russian foreign commissar, smiled broadly at what might have been an echo of his own words. Mr. Henderson's attack on high tariffs was just another way of saying what the chubby commissar said yesterday about dumping. Criticism of the debt system was a development of his own remarks and the whole tendency of the Britisher's speech was toward the economic truce Litvinov urged yesterday. In fact, stripped of its academic strictures on capitalism and its sales talk for the soviets, Litvinov's speech seems to have set the tone for the meeting.

Mr. Henderson in his speech rather unexpectedly declared that the British, while favoring any plan of cooperation, were particularly sympathetic with M. Briand's plan—with reservations, of course.

He said he could endorse the financial section of the French proposals wholeheartedly, and he added: "A great part of Europe is calling urgently for credits, but the countries having a surplus seem unwilling to lend." This part of M. Briand's scheme calls for a permanent financial committee to receive requests for credit and then persuade bankers to grant them.

Henderson Heads Disarm Parley.

Mr. Henderson was unanimously chosen chairman of the 1932 disarmament conference at a private meeting of the league of nations council after the close of its public session this morning.

The location of the conference has not yet been decided, pending a report by the committee. Many delegates are said to favor London in order to facilitate Mr. Henderson's preparatory work, but the committee is known to favor Geneva. The council will probably adopt the committee's report.

GANDHI INDUCES BRITAIN TO FREE 11,000 PRISONERS

Will Halt Plots of Violence in Return.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—Indian agents in London today received details of the agreement reached between Mahatma Gandhi, Nationalist leader, and Viceroy Lord Willingdon at their recent conference. As a result greater optimism is shown on the part of Indians here who feel that they are closer in touch with realities than Gandhi, the mystic.

The first subject discussed between Gandhi and the viceroy was the release of about 16,000 prisoners, who are still held in Indian cells on the theory that they are guilty either of violence or plotting violence against the government. Gandhi, it is revealed, was also able to convince Lord Willingdon that about 11,000 of these prisoners were honest passive resisters, and, as a consequence, they will be released shortly.

Reveals Violence Plot.

On the other side the viceroy amazed Gandhi with evidence of the plotting of violence within the All-Indian Nationalist congress movement and the extent of soviet propaganda among his followers. Gandhi promised to deal with this immediately.

Such evidence, while convincing to Gandhi, is regarded as not sufficient for legal convictions, but the "holy man," a practical politician, has his own way of dealing with such activities outside the law, Indians in London declare.

Gandhi also expressed surprise at evidence of revolutionary activity on the northwest frontier and told the viceroy he would communicate with Sirdar Abdul Goolar Khan, who is in charge of that district for the All-India congress and who, it is alleged, claims innocence of knowledge of what is going on there. Gandhi will insist that Abdul Khan end the conspiracy.

Takes Moderate Path.

On the question of safeguards, the mahatma also declared he would take a more moderate line. The viceroy is said to have convinced him that safeguards are necessary during the transition period "in the interests of India," and Gandhi, in accepting this formula, said he would examine every proposal in the interest of India.

Gandhi has communicated with his agents here, informing them that he is convinced that the British are honestly trying to arrive at a settlement in the interests both of India and Great Britain, and that he has promised to coöperate in every case where he is certain the proposals are of interest to his country.

HOMESPUN FOR COUNTESS

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SIMLA, India, May 19.—The countess of Willingdon, wife of the viceroy, who rules over one-fifth of the human race, is the latest convert to "khaddar," the coarse homespun cloth which Mahatma Gandhi has popularized as one means of breaking British trade and finally British control in India. Mrs. Kasturbai Gandhi, the white haired wife of India's Nationalist leader, who has shared his trials and triumphs for forty years, converted her.

At least, that is what a close friend of Mrs. Gandhi confided today.

On Sunday Lady Willingdon invited Mrs. Gandhi to come to see her at the viceregal palace. Mrs. Gandhi did so, incidentally riding in a rickshaw which her husband had disdained to use the day before. The two talked for an hour.

"I would like to have some khaddar material," Lady Willingdon said. "I want to get in closer touch with the great Indian people that way."

Wants Something in Mauve.

After further picturing the simple little Indian huts, where the women folk spin all day long, Mrs. Gandhi said:

"I will send you some cloth."

"Have you something in mauve?" asked Lady Willingdon.

"Certainly, I will send you lots of mauve," Mrs. Gandhi replied. "I like your idea of getting in closer touch with the Indian people by buying homespun. You would know them better if you lived down in the plains instead of here in the Himalayan heights."

Lady Willingdon declared she herself favored a movement to keep the capital in New Delhi the year round. and Mrs. Gandhi departed, promising to send the homespun cloth upon returning to her home in Ahmedabad.

Married when 13 Years Old.

The Gandhis were married when both were 13 years old. She stayed with him through his heetic twenty years in South Africa, when he was constantly being prosecuted and jailed. The only time they have been separated in India was when he served two years in jail in 1922 to 1924, and nine months last year. She has never been imprisoned in India, but she served three months at hard labor in South Africa in 1910.

ITALIANS CHEER TOSCANINI AT OPERA; 20 SEIZED

MILAN, Italy, May 19. — (AP) — Twenty persons were arrested last night at a concert at the Scala Opera house for demonstrating in favor of Arturo Toscanini, director of the New York Philharmonic orchestra, who was expelled from Bologna recently when he refused to play the fascist anthem.

Shouting "Long live Toscanini," a number of persons in the audience interrupted the first number of the concert. Toscanini spent a large part of his professional life on the Scala stage.

Toscanini later was found at his home here, where he arrived Friday after he was asked to leave Bologna. Immediately upon his arrival, it was learned, three plain clothes detectives were assigned to guard him and his home as a measure of protection against possible demonstrations against him. No such incident occurred, however, and the guard was removed last night.

VETO OVERRIDDEN ON BILL TO TREAT EYES OF INFANTS

Ignore Opinion That Law Is Unconstitutional.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson vetoed the Thon prevention of blindness bill late today and within thirty minutes the house of representatives had passed it over his veto. The veto was 113-15 and the action was characterized by Republican leaders as "friendly."

H. L. THON. [Underwood Photo.]

The motion to disregard the veto, however, came from Democratic Minority Leader Igoe of Chicago. It faced Republican opposition at first, some coming from the Emmerson floor leader, Edgar F. Little [Rep., Champaign], but later gained support from strong Republicans and went booming through with little trouble.

Called Unconstitutional.

In his veto message, Gov. Emmerson stated that he took his action because Attorney General Carlstrom had filed an opinion holding that the forced injection of a silver nitrate solution into the eyes of every new born baby to prevent blindness—the provision of the bill—was beyond the police power of the state, an invasion of personal liberty, and was therefore unconstitutional.

At the conclusion of the reading of the message, Mr. Igoe moved to pass the bill over the veto, declaiming that if it is unconstitutional in Illinois to prevent blindness among babies, let's change the law."

Is Delay to Study Opinion.

Representative Frank A. McCarthy, Republican, Elgin] objected, saying that while he favored the bill, action should be postponed until the opinion could be studied. Mr. Little was of the same opinion.

Rep. C. Wilson [Republican, Kankakee] took the same stand, while favoring the basic provision of the measure, and added a remark about "playing politics with babies' eyes."

This brought a sharp rebuke from Mr. Igoe, who said, "If there's any politics in this bill, it's on your side of the house."

Representative Homer J. Tice [Rep., Quincy], rose at that point to support Little's motion, saying that he did so without offering offense to Mr. Emmerson.

"The governor could not have done otherwise than veto this bill with the facts before him," he said.

Rep. J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago], was of the same opinion, adding that the constitutionality should be established by the Illinois Supreme court, not by the attorney general.

"I think the governor would be the highest man in the state if we were to pass this over his veto," said Schnackenberg.

Votes to Sustain Veto.

ALONA MARLOWE.

Lawyer Tells

Hollywood, Cal., May 19.—[Special.]—Joseph Marchetti, attorney, today stated that a cash settlement had been made with his client, Alona Marlowe, film actress, by Lilyan Tashman, whom Miss Marlowe accused of beating her in the dressing room of Edmund Lowe, Miss Tashman's actor husband.

The attorney said that Miss Marlowe's complaint at the city prosecutor's office was considered officially closed.

BANKERS POOR COAL INDUSTRY DOCTORS: GREEN

Houston, Tex., May 19.—(AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor said today that "bankers have proved themselves to be mighty poor doctors in treating the economic ills of the bituminous coal industry and should not be permitted to prescribe for other industrial patients."

WILLIAM GREEN.

He reiterated charges that "powerful banking interests" were seeking to force a general reduction in wages and said it was the "solemn duty of the wage earners of the nation to resist." Mr. Green addressed the convention of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

He cited the bituminous coal industry as one where wages had been "reduced below the subsistence level" and said that the industry was, nevertheless, "on the verge of bankruptcy."

"It is most extraordinary that bankers should demand that other industries become deflated, that wages be reduced, and, as a result, employers and workers be reduced to the distressing level reached by the bituminous coal industry," he said.

It was the responsibility of management, the federation president said, to reduce production costs without reducing wages.

MABEL WARY OF MISSOURI WITH HER GRAPE JUICE

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt has blacklisted Missouri as sales territory for her California grape concentrate clients.

The former assistant attorney general and prohibition prosecutor said today she had advised Fruit Industries, Ltd., "to stay away from Missouri" in their nationwide sales campaign.

"I was uncertain as to the scope of the state law there," she explained. "The sale of grape concentrates is not illegal under the federal law, but Missouri has a very stringent statute covering fruit juices. Consequently, Fruit Industries has not so much as advertised its products out there."

Mrs. Willebrandt added that her clients plan to ask the federal farm board for another $3,000,000 loan for expansion purposes.

MAN CONVICTED OF KILLING WIFE FREED IN ENGLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—For the first time in 20 years a man convicted of murder by an English court and sentenced to death, has been freed. Awaiting hanging in the death cell three weeks for the murder of his wife, William Herbert Wallace of Liverpool, an insurance agent, walked out of the court of criminal appeal today, a free man.

"The case was not proved with that certainty which is necessary in order to justify a verdict of guilty," declared Lord Chief Justice Hewart in announcing the decision.

Only once since the court of criminal appeal was constituted in 1908 has a conviction of murder been quashed.

FIGHT CHICAGO'S RAISED HIGHWAY BILL IN SENATE

Governor's Floor Leaders Get Debate Postponed.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—An amendment to the administration's road appropriation bill, providing $5,000,000 to start construction on an elevated highway in Chicago, was read before the senate this afternoon and met the prompt opposition of Gov. Emmerson's floor leaders, Senator Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet] and Senator Harry Wright [Rep., De Kalb]. Debate was postponed until tomorrow.

A. A. HUEBSCH. [Du Bois Photo.]

Earlier in the day, the appropriation bill was advanced without argument from second reading, the amendment stage, to third reading, the passage stage. Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield] was carrying in his pocket the elevated highway amendment, which is sponsored by the Chicago Motor club. He was silent, awaiting word from the club on its attitude toward the project.

Huebsch Receives Word.

In the afternoon session, Senator Huebsch had received word.

"Because of a promise I made," he addressed the president of the senate, "I want to enter a motion to recall the road appropriation bill to second reading for consideration of an amendment. I am not sponsoring the amendment, but I gave my word that if I didn't introduce it I would let some one else do so."

"I have the amendment," said Senator Harold Kessinger [Rep., Aurora], and I'm introducing it because the motorists of Aurora and other parts of the Fox River Valley would greatly benefit by an elevated highway to Chicago's loop avoiding the delays and hazards of congested west side boulevards.

Calls for $107,300,000.

"Furthermore, it is time that the cities of Illinois, paying 85 per cent of the state's total road bill, receive something in return."

The Carlson bill, intended to combat gasoline bootlegging, was passed. It tightens regulations on the distribution of motor fuel and increases the penalty for evasion of the tax.

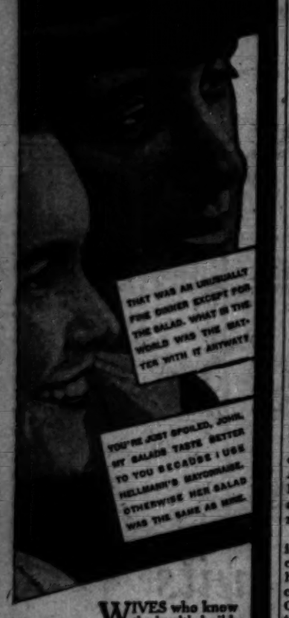
Women

who know men best insist on this MAYONNAISE



THAT WAS AN UNUSUALLY FINE DINNER EXCEPT FOR THE SALAD. WHAT IN THE WORLD WAS THE MATTER WITH IT ANYWAY?
YOU'RE JUST SPOILED, JOHN, MY SALADS TASTE BETTER TO YOU BECAUSE I USE HELLMANN'S MAYONNAISE. OTHERWISE HER SALAD WAS THE SAME AS MINE.

WIVES who know the health-building value of salads are among the most enthusiastic users of Hellmann's Mayonnaise. For the piquant, creamy flavor of this product has an extraordinary appeal to husbands. It wins them every time!

The reason for its unique flavor? Carefully chosen ingredients, first of all. Breakfast eggs, special salad oils, thrice strained vinegar, an unusual blend of Far East Spices. All mixed to the exact proportions of its famous old French recipe.

And then double whipping . . . a special scientific blending process that mixes the ingredients to a harmony of perfection.

Try Hellmann's Mayonnaise on the next salad that you serve your husband. If either of you feels that it does not measure up to every promise we make, please take back the jar and get your money.

Get a pint or half-pint jar today. Hellmann's is the mayonnaise that always has been identified by the Blue Ribbon on the label. It is sold by your grocer.

Beautiful Women Use Mercolized Wax

To keep their skin at its best—always young, smooth and lovely—women famed for beauty, use pure Mercolized Wax. It prevents the skin from becoming aged, blemished or discolored. The instant the surface skin begins to look dry, flaky or faded, it is gently absorbed. The young under skin then brought into view is clear, soft and youthfully lovely. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty. Powdered Saxolite reduces wrinkles and other age signs. Simply dissolve 1 ounce Powdered Saxolite in ½ half pint witch hazel and use daily as a face lotion.

LOST AUTO TAG RACKET BARED; POLICE TO ACT

City Clerk Prepares List to Aid Roundup.

Illegal traffic in city automobile license tags has reached such proportions that City Clerk Peter J. Brady yesterday took action aiming at a wholesale police roundup and punishment of offenders.

PETER J. BRADY.

The city clerk announced that he had ordered printed 5,000 copies of a booklet listing the numbers of 12,085 duplicate tags which have been issued so far this year. These lists will be turned over to Acting Police Commissioner Alcock for distribution among the police. The policemen will be ordered to arrest drivers of cars carrying plates reported stolen or lost.

More than $50,000 a year in revenue is lost by the city through the duplicate license tag racket, Clerk Brady has been informed by H. D. Crotty, chief clerk in charge of licenses. Mr. Crotty estimated that 75 per cent of the "stolen or lost" plates are used after they are supposed to have disappeared.

Where "Lost" Tags Go.

"John Jones buys city license tag No. 1000 for $10 in the usual way," Mr. Crotty explained. "A few days later he comes in and makes out an affidavit that he has lost his tag and we are compelled to give him a duplicate for 50 cents. Jones then gives his first tag—which he did not lose—to his brother, who uses it instead of buying a new one. The city loses $9.50.

"Or maybe a thief stole Jones' tag together with a dozen more and bootlegged them for a dollar each. The owners obtain duplicates but the buyers of the stolen tags cheat the city."

Approximately 380,000 tags have been issued so far this year for passenger automobiles of 35 horse power or less and 12,085 duplicates have been issued in the same period. The number of duplicates issued in 1925 was 9,975. Last year the number was 18,845. According to Clerk Brady one reason for the increase has been laxity on the part of the city officials, the police, and the courts.

Sees Success For Move.

"The duplicate license tag racket not only is illegal and a revenue loss to the city, but its operation is unfair to the honest automobile owner who buys his tag and keeps it," said Mr. Brady. "I believe we have struck upon the right method of stopping it and if the police and courts will help we will be successful."

As soon as the duplicate license list booklets are in the hands of the police and arrests begin, the city clerk said, many offenders, fearing punishment, will hasten to protect themselves by buying new plates.

$10,000,000 MORE RECEIVED BY CITY FROM TAX FUNDS

City Controller Szymczak received a $10,000,000 remittance yesterday on the city's share of the 1929 taxes from County Treasurer McDonough, making a total of $22,000,000 that the city and school board have received so far. The money will be used to redeem 1929 tax anticipation warrants. It will take $108,000,000, according to the controller, to redeem all the 1929 warrants of the city and school board and pay the interest on them, with the exception of the warrants held by the city in its own special funds.

Overdue pay rolls of the city yesterday totaled approximately $1,500,000. The pay rolls longest overdue are being paid as money is collected from miscellaneous sources. The miscellaneous revenue is not sufficient to keep pace with the monthly city pay rolls which total about $4,250,000.

RCA AND ALLIED CONCERNS SUED FOR $1,500,000

Suit for $1,500,000 damages, charging conspiracy in restraint of trade and violation of the anti-trust laws, was filed against the Radio Corporation of America and associated concerns in the federal court yesterday by the Zaney-Gill corporation of Illinois.

The Zaney-Gill corporation, radio manufacturers, were named in an involuntary bankruptcy petition filed on Monday. The suit started on their behalf charges that the defendants, through cross licenses, the pooling of 4,000 patents, and the exaction of confiscatory royalties, have created a monopoly to the exclusion of independent concerns.

The defendants besides the Radio Corporation of America are the General Electric company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, the R. C. A.-Victor company, and the R. C. A. Radiotron company. The bill asks $500,000 actual and $1,000,000 punitive damages, under the terms of the anti-trust laws providing triple damages.

$657,000 ADDED TO CAPITAL OF U. OF CHICAGO

President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago announced yesterday the presentation of appropriations and gifts, totaling $657,000 to the university. Some of the appropriations represent capitalization of annual income grants already in existence.

The largest of the appropriations was one of $500,000 from the Rockefeller foundation, the income to be used in development of the faculty in the social science division. The half million dollars capitalizes the annual grant of $25,000 made by the Laura Spelman Rockefeller memorial in 1927.

The Rockefeller foundation also has made a new appropriation of $150,000 to be used in a three year period for the current expenses of the graduate school of social service administration. Half of the amount is granted contingent on the university providing $25,000 annually for the same purpose.

active support of many civic and business organizations."

The advisory commission reported that in the conference with the senate revenue committee last Friday there was unanimous agreement that "a new system of assessment machinery must replace the present system, the faults of which are largely responsible for the present muddle." The advisory commission added that "these faults are not merely of personnel but are inherent in the system."

The commission charges that the present system "is complicated and decentralized," and that: "It dissipates responsibility. It cumulates delays. It invites political manipulation.

"This system must be changed in every part. The elective board of assessors must be abolished and responsibility centered in a single appointive county assessor with predetermined qualifications. The elective board of review must be abolished and in its place there must be an appointive board having no separate staff and no powers of original assessment, but with reviewing powers only."

Need Money for Bonds.

The county board has $1,900,000 in bonds due June 1 and no cash in hand or in sight with which to pay them. Deputy County Controller O'Connor asserted yesterday that unless the banks loan the money, the county must default on these bonds. The banks have not permitted any local government to default on bonds, either last year or this year.

It is reported that the county board has not made any formal application for a loan to meet the bonds.

MAY BRING SUITS

The county board yesterday took under consideration a proposal to institute foreclosure proceedings against all properties which have been forfeited for nonpayment of taxes. According to Michael J. O'Connor, deputy county controller, about $16,500,000 in delinquent taxes and penalties on 100,000 parcels of property are involved. It is expected the board will pass on the plan at the meeting next week.

Henry M. Ashton, an attorney experienced in tax matters, will be retained to prosecute the suits. The lawyer will be paid on a percentage basis. This arrangement has the consent of State's Attorney Swanson, it was said.

O'Connor reported that many of the delinquent taxes date back as far as 1890. With the filing of the suits, officials anticipate that many of the delinquent taxpayers will settle. Of the $16,500,000 outstanding about one-third represents penalties which, if collected, will go into the county treasury. The remainder will be distributed among the various tax spending bodies of the county.

ILLINOIS WOMEN'S CLUBS OPEN THEIR CONVENTION IN CITY

One thousand women from all parts of the state gathered yesterday in the grand ballroom of the Hotel Sherman in the thirty-sixth annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Louis L. Emmerson, wife of the governor, was a special guest at the opening session and was presented with a floral token of appreciation of her presence.

MRS. MARY WALL.

Mrs. J. Marc Fowler, formerly president of the state group and now a director of the national, emphasized the fact that the general federation is in favor of prohibition.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce, extended the greetings of the city to the delegates. Mrs. Grant Beebe, vice president of the Illinois federation, voiced the same sentiments on behalf of the hostess club members of this city.

Mrs. Mary A. Wall of Murphysboro, president of the federation and presiding officer, responded with assurances of the gratitude of the visitors.

A social program was presented in the grand ballroom last night, featured by a processional of state, district, club and junior chairmen of the various departments, in a demonstration of the work and scope of each.

Fog Blankets New York Harbor; Delays 3 Liners

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—One of the heaviest fogs of the year swept in from the sea shortly after 9 a. m. today, settled down over the outer harbor and had not been dissipated this evening. Three liners were still at anchorage between Ambrose Lightship and Sandy Hook. Their 1,000 voyagers are not expected to land until morning. The liners are the liner Baltic, the Mauretania, and the French liner Paris.

YOU know it well enough ::: that hot, splitting head means a badly deranged condition somewhere within your system. It demands serious attention!

Generally, doctors tell us, the trouble is that all-too-common one ::: Intestinal Fatigue!

In Intestinal Fatigue, waste material stagnates in your intestines, breeding poisons that circulate throughout your body. Headaches are one of the commonest results.

But don't think you can cure your trouble with violent purgatives and pills. Permanent relief from internal sluggishness demands a gentler, more sensible method.

For 75 years medical science has known such a method. Today it is available to you!

Eaten regularly, like any other food, Fleischmann's Yeast softens the clogging waste matter in your intestinal tract and stimulates its normal action that helps correct it.

Thus yeast corrects the cause of headaches. Your appetite picks up. You tire less easily—feel more energetic and alert.

But you must act! All drug stores have Fleischmann's Yeast—restaurants and soda fountains. Eat 3 cakes a day—before meals or between meals and as long as directions are on the label.

FIGHT PROPOSAL TO CHANGE STATE INCOME TAX BILL

Offset Plan Unfair, Says Civic Federation.

An emphatic denunciation of the proposed modification of the state income tax bill now pending before the general assembly was issued by the Civic Federation yesterday under the heading "Gold Brick Amendments."

"The much talked of amendment providing an offset of taxes paid on property against the computed tax on personal income," it read, "would have the following undesirable and unfair results:

"1. It would so reduce the amount of revenue otherwise derived from a state income tax as to make the operation of the proposed law farcical.

"No Relief for Realty."

"2. Therefore it would be disadvantageous to the average owner of real estate who would not get even the small relief from the state property tax now held forth in Senate bill 138.

"3. Two neighbors living in identical dwellings would be taxed unequally as the same amount of net personal income if one owned his home and paid taxes directly, while the other hired his residence and, over the average ten year period, paid the same thereon indirectly as part of his rent.

Calls Tax Offset Unsound.

"In addition to its obvious unfairness, the proposed property tax offset also is unsound, because it confuses two distinct objects of taxation, namely, property and income. It is not sufficient to say that because A. contributes directly to the support of government in proportion to the value of his property, therefore he should be relieved from payment of a new tax imposed to be imposed upon an entirely new object and uniform as to rate.

"Since the purpose of the income tax is to produce additional large revenue in order that real estate may be relieved of its burden, it must be obvious that such an offset, which automatically reduces the amount of new revenues, defeats the purpose of the income tax."

German Named as Cafe Raider; Bail Set at $30,000

John Wollik, 35 years old, 1622 West Ohio street, was held to the grand jury yesterday under a $30,000 bail after he had been identified as one of three gunmen who raided the C. and O. cafe, 509 North Clark street, last New Year's eve. Six persons were wounded in the holdup. Wollik was identified by Policeman John Kaier and Martin Joyce, both of whom were wounded during the raid. Two others of the alleged robbers, Sam Battaglia and George Rizzo, were wounded in the affray and were captured. They are awaiting trial.

TESTS RIGHT OF STATE TO DEMAND TRIAL BY JURY

Whether a judge, at the behest of the state, may order a jury trial after the defendant has waived it will be put to a test by Judge Joseph B. David in Criminal court. Judge David yesterday, on motion of Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin, ordered a jury trial for Frank Scarnavasche, 60 years old, notwithstanding the fact that he had waived trial by jury.

Scarnavasche went on trial Monday for the murder of Santo Lacastro, 40 years old, 2833 Princeton avenue, who was killed in a card game quarrel. The trial opened with the selection of a jury. All day Monday was spent selecting jurors. After court convened yesterday Scarnavasche arose and said he had decided to waive the jury. The judge assented and the jurors who had been chosen were dismissed.

Then Angelo Lacastro, 22 years old, eldest of six sons of the slain man, who all appeared in court in black shirts, arose and asked: "Haven't we any rights?" Attorney Lavin then made a motion for the jury trial, and the judge granted the state's motion, asserting he would test whether the state has a right to demand jury trials.

WOULD EXEMPT PROPERTY TOLL FROM INCOME TAX

Amendments Alter Tice Measure, if Passed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—Twenty-two amendments to the state income tax bill were offered in the house of representatives today as the measure was set for special order of business next Tuesday. It will be debated warmly in that session—a fight to determine if it shall be advanced to third reading, the passing stage.

HOMER TICE.

The amendments were introduced by Representative Homer J. Tice [Rep., Greenview], an Emmerson leader. Twenty-one of them are to change the wording of the bill to make it conform with the remaining one, which provides that property tax may be deducted from the income tax in computing the amount going to the state.

The Illinois Agricultural association is directly behind this amendment, but it also has the approval, tacit and outspoken, of several of the larger real estate boards of the state.

Has Emergency Sentence.

To protect the income tax itself from a possible decision declaring the offset [as the deduction of property tax from income tax is known] unconstitutional, Mr. Tice included this sentence in his amendment:

"In the event the foregoing provision [the offset] is held unconstitutional and void, it is the intent and desire of the general assembly that the balance of this act be given effect without regard to the invalidity of this provision, and that such taxes imposed on the property by the state of Illinois or any taxing subdivision thereof shall, notwithstanding the provision to the contrary, be allowed as a deduction in computing net income in the same manner as provided in the case of taxes imposed by the United States and by states other than Illinois."

If this is included in the bill, and it becomes a law, a decision voiding the offset would have no effect on the income tax itself, Mr. Tice thinks.

A number of other amendments will be presented Tuesday, it is predicted, as Cook county members seek ways of preventing what they consider an additional burden upon the cities.

Pass Firearms Bill.

The house passed several bills, including the concealed weapon act advocated by the Chicago crime commission and engineered by Rep. Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago.]. This makes it unlawful for a person to carry a firearm in an automobile if he associates with criminals of intends to use the weapon in a crime. The intention is to use this law in dealing with gangsters. It provides that no person may remove identification marks from a firearm and that possession of a weapon so treated shall be considered evidence that the possessor removed the numbers from it.

The Bolton bill to prevent the sale of habit forming drugs, particularly marijuana cigarets, was passed.

Two Chicago bills presented by Representative M. L. Igoe [Dem., Chicago] would give the South Park commissioners the right to lease land for the construction of an underground garage in Grant park, and to allow the construction of a 1,600 foot tower 400 feet south of Soldiers' field as a part of the World's Fair. This tower, Igoe said, would rest upon a base 600 feet square and would rise some 378 feet higher than the famed Empire State building in New York, now the world's tallest structure.

Shut Belgian Chemical Plant for Poison Gas Deaths

FATHER TRAMPS STREET IN HUNT FOR SON'S HOME

Glenn Howard, eight months ago, grew tired of life on a small farm near Greenwood, S. C., and came to Chicago. He wrote occasional letters to his father, Daniel, 60 years old, from a Madison street address. He said he was employed as a plumber and doing well.

A short time ago the old farmhouse caught fire, sweeping away the barn and implement shed, and leaving a barren farm. The father believed it useless to start over again. He packed up and came to Chicago to join his son.

Arriving on Madison street, he could not remember the street number and his son's letters with the address had burned in the fire. All day yesterday he tramped Madison street. Last night with 17 cents in his pocket he appealed to the Warren avenue police. Capt. Daniel Lynch arranged for the father to sleep in the station last night and this morning will assign police to search for the son.

NEW WAISTLINES FOR BASS VIOLS, SCIENTIST'S GOAL

Dr. Miller Plans 5 Year Study of Acoustics.

Cleveland, O., May 19.—(AP)—Discovery of laws permitting creation of new waistlines for fat bass viols, new curves for sinuous tubas and style changes in general for musical instruments is the object of five years of research planned by Dr. Dayton C. Miller, new president of the Acoustical Society of America.

PROF. D. C. MILLER.

Dr. Miller says there is a great demand now for the establishment of fundamental laws governing the creation of music.

Once these laws are established we may build instruments interpreting more correctly the ideas of composers and give to orchestra, radio and sound motion picture audiences more correct reproduction, Dr. Miller says.

First Flute Cut from Reed.

"Musical instruments have been built arbitrarily," Dr. Miller says. "They just happened to grow."

"The flute, the oldest example of present day wind instruments, descended from the ancient pipes of Pan. The first flute was cut from a reed or bamboo. The saxophone is another example, the Parisian who made the first one in 1843 desiring to combine a horn with a clarinet.

"Like the people who made these instruments, we don't know the principles by which the sound vibrates through the reeds and the pipes. We don't know very much about the vibration of sound in the violin or the piano.

Science of Sound Neglected.

"While other physical sciences have been advancing rapidly during recent years, the science of sound has been very much neglected. Since the great advances in radio and talking movies some fundamental laws governing sounds created by musical instruments have been very much in demand."

Dr. Miller will conduct his researches in a little room which is almost without echo, material on the walls and ceiling absorbing about 85 per cent of the sound.

To eliminate as much distortion of waves as possible Dr. Miller will use in his studies the most simple measuring instrument—a tiny mirror that vibrates and reflects the vibrations on a photographic film.

Mrs. Goodwin Garst Files Second Bill for Divorce

For the second time in four months, Mrs. Lovena K. Garst, 437 Glencoe road, Highland Park, filed a suit for divorce from Goodwin Garst in the Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday. Garst is president of the Garst Manufacturing company, makers of machinery, 549 West Randolph street. The original suit in February was dismissed after a reconciliation. Both bills charged cruelty. She asked custody of their four children, ranging in age from 6 to 13 years.

ROBBER LOCKS UP HOTEL CLERK.

ROB THREE ON TRAIN IN WYOMING; CAUGHT BEFORE LEAVING IT

Rawlins, Wyo., May 19.—(AP)—In an area of Wyoming where train banditry has been carried on at infrequent intervals for more than thirty-five years, three passengers of the westbound Union Pacific Los Angeles limited were bound, gagged with adhesive tape, and robbed of $65 and a watch by two youths early today.

Two soldiers—Russell Howarth, 19, of Philadelphia, and George A. Bachman, 18, of Milwaukee—were taken from the train at Rock Springs and brought to the state penitentiary here. Officers said they recovered the loot from them.

The victims were Mrs. Joseph E. Huber, 60; her son, H. P. Huber, 30, and Mrs. M. A. Johnson, 60, all of St. Paul, Minn., who were en route to California. Mrs. Huber was chloroformed, but revived. The robbery occurred in a Pullman stateroom.

LISBON ROCKED BY TWO QUAKES; PEOPLE IN PANIC

LISBON, May 20—[Wednesday]—(AP)—Two sharp earth shocks were felt here early today, throwing the populace into panic. No casualties have been reported. The extent of the damage is unknown.

The first shock occurred at 3:20 a. m., rocking furniture, shaking pictures from walls, and tearing wide cracks in buildings. A few minutes later the second shock was felt, lasting ten seconds. It shook the capital severely. The people fled into the streets in their night clothes.

Hickory Stick Whippings Told in Court.

Carthage, N. C., May 19.—(AP)—Fourteen of 16 girls who were indicted for first degree arson after two buildings burned at Samarcand, state institution for delinquent girls, where they were inmates, pleaded guilty today to attempted arson when they were brought to trial.

The pleas were entered after solicitor Don Phillips reduced the charges from first degree arson, a capital offense, to attempted arson. In the cases of Mary Bronson, of Rocky Mount, and Wilma Owens, of Fayetteville, he took a nol pros with leave.

The statute fixes the penalty for attempted arson at from four to ten years' imprisonment. Judge Michael Schenck will pronounce sentence tomorrow.

State witnesses examined gave testimony implicating the girls in the burning of the buildings and on cross-examination were questioned about methods of punishment used at Samarcand.

Six Girls Confess.

Lillian Crinshaw, supervisor of student government, quoted six of the girls as confessing to starting the fires. They were Margaret Abernethy, Edna Clark, Marian Mercer, Ollie Harding, Thelma Council and Rosa Mull.

Miss Crinshaw was asked in cross examination if the girls at Samarcand were ever locked up with a bread and water diet.

She said she never had known of such punishment, but said that on occasion the hair of girls who ran away had been clipped.

Hilda Godley, 16, an inmate, testified Pearl Styles, one of the defendants, told her she had helped set fire to Bickett hall.

Hilda said she had received several whippings, but only "when I needed it."

Whipped With a Stick.

Miss Estelle Stott, secretary to Supt. Agnes D. McNaughton, said refractory girls were whipped with a hickory stick.

She testified some girls received medical treatment after being punished, but said she thought this was unnecessary.

Watchman Hit Fighting Burglar Dies of Injuries

Wounded during a struggle with a Negro burglar last week, Stephen Grennan, 74 years old, 720 East 72d street died yesterday in Jackson Park hospital. His skull was fractured. Grennan, for 12 years a watchman in the offices of the F. E. Carey Coal company, 7006 South Chicago avenue, was making his rounds last Thursday when he came upon the burglar tampering with the office safe. The burglar, using the butt of his pistol, beat the aged watchman over the head. The thief escaped without loot.

HOLD TWO AS HOTEL ROBBERS.

Samuel Pers, 26 years old, 1544 North Maplewood avenue, and George Schreiner, 23, of 4911 West 28th street, Cicero, were under arrest yesterday charged with the attempted holdup of the Olympic hotel, 1013 North Clark street.

More Vets Granted Writs to Protect Apple Stands

Thirty-five world war veterans appeared before Judge William J. Lindsay in Superior court yesterday and were permitted to file an intervening petition to restrain the police department from interfering with their sale of apples on street corners. These veterans appeared to obtain the same right that had been granted Tony Walnick, 1440 West Erie street, who obtained a restraining order against the police last Saturday.

Bank Offers $1,000 Reward for Driver in Corey Death

The Harris Trust and Savings bank yesterday offered a reward of $1,000 for the identification of the motorist who struck and killed Chester Corey, 210 Davis street, Evanston, vice president of the bank, in Evanston, May 2. Howard W. Fenton, president of the bank, notified the Evanston police department of the reward.

APPELLATE COURT UPHOLDS YEAR IN JAIL FOR KISSANE

Justifies Police Action in Arresting Gun Toter.

The Appellate court yesterday denied the appeal of Anthony [Red] Kissane, west side gangster, for a reversal of his conviction for carrying concealed weapons. The court decided that the police proceeded properly in arresting Kissane on the gun toting charge in November of 1929.

ANTHONY KISSANE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The Illinois Supreme court is the only tribunal now standing between Kissane and a term of one year in the Bridewell and a fine of $200. It was indicated by Kissane's attorneys that the case will be carried up to the Supreme court.

Court Upholds the Police.

Kissane, who was once tried for a double murder and acquitted, asked for a reversal of the sentence for gun carrying, imposed by Judge Daniel Trude, because he claimed that the police had no right to arrest him in the first instance and that the subsequent search which revealed that he was carrying a loaded revolver, was therefore illegal.

The reviewing court ruled that the police had reasonable ground to arrest Kissane as a suspect in the Lake View Trust and Savings bank robbery, which occurred on Nov. 11, 1929, two days before the arrest.

Sought as Robbery Suspect.

The police testified that the description given of one of the robbers fitted Kissane and that they were looking for him as a suspect. The court held that, inasmuch as the police had reasonable grounds to arrest Kissane as a bank robbery suspect, the search which revealed the hidden revolver was in accordance with the law.

The state's attorney's office pointed out that the Appellate court decision is in line with the Supreme court decisions on the same subject. The prosecutors say that in most gun carrying cases the police do not testify to a sufficient justification for the original arrest.

Russia Fits Up Huge Farm Machine Plant, but Everything Goes Wrong

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROSTOV ON DON, April 24.—[By Mail.]—A Russian born American engineer, I. Fraes, formerly of New York and a member of the communist party in the United States, showed me over Selmashstrol, the huge new plant for the manufacture of agricultural implements here.

Mr. Fraes holds a responsible position in the factory and is befittingly impressed with the magnitude and possibilities of the plant, but he avoided displaying undue enthusiasm and carefully refrained from citing any of the fantastic figures on production, actual and expected, which purely Russian officials rattled off so glibly.

Mr. Fraes told me about the ideal sanitary conditions installed in the various units of the plant, change rooms, washrooms, shower baths, etc., but when I proposed that we visit them we found the fixtures set up all right, but not connected with the water mains. Nor was any apparatus for heating the water discernible to the naked eye.

Space Not a Total Loss.

The space was not a total loss, however, for a remarkably snappy looking girl with a vivid red scarf twisted around her bobbed head was selling milk and kidding with a group of workers in what was meant to be one room for baths.

There are a number of Americans employed as consultants, experts, and specialists by Selmashstrol. They include William S. Bowers of Cleveland, Harry Rode and A. L. Stevenson of Bad Axe, Mich.; Clyde Austin of Wellsville, N. Y., and his daughter, Miss Anita, who is returning to America; Harold Markuson and Ira Sklovsky of Moline, Ill.; M. Mastney of Chicago, and E. James Lowry of Lowry, W. Va., one time an ensign in the United States navy at Annapolis.

Besides these simon pure Yanks there are several other Russian born Americans, who became naturalized in the United States but have returned here to work. These include B. Romanoff of Chicago, who is here with his wife and seven children; Mike Gussroff of Boston, and John Kormoff of Cleveland.

Movies Three Times a Month.

Three times a month the movies show films with English and German subtitles for the Americans and Germans. The foreigners have a special card which permits them to butt in at the head of the long line of natives waiting to get in and buy their tickets without standing in line. There is also a special coöperative store for the foreigners, which sells food, certain articles of clothing, wine and vodka, cigarets, and other commodities.

The Americans are lodged in newly built apartments in Nakechevan, where the plant is located, or in Rostov, a few miles away, and all are in continuous arguments with the factory regarding rent. Officials there jot down arbitrary sums to be charged for lodging, which is deducted from the ruble payments in the monthly salary, and then is fiercely challenged by the Americans.

One American had $23 deducted for rent the first month. He has a three room flat, so did not protest. The next month his rent jumped to $98, and after plenty of battling he obtained a reduction to $43. A month later the rent dropped to $24, all by itself, without a word of complaint from him, and has remained constant there since.

Various forces are trying to start real production at Selmashstrol. The director of the plant has been changed half a dozen times in the last year or so. Interminable conferences to discuss working conditions and establish alibis at the lack of output are held almost daily. These begin at 3 or 4 o'clock in the afternoon and last often until midnight.

Under the communist system, any of the employés, be he or she ever so humble, can sit in and take an animated part in the discussion at any conference investigating work in their department. So the workers file in and sit down in the back benches—having nothing better to do after their shift—and chime in with their say-so after the white collar boys, Russian engineers, and officials and what have you, have their say.

All Make Long Speeches.

They all make long speeches, calling on the proletariat to work harder and put more enthusiasm—that's a bigger favorite than "formidable" in France—into the job, and discuss all sorts of theories until they are black in the face and it's nearly midnight and the last street car is leaving and then they break up.

Nobody brings up disagreeable subjects, such as lack of raw materials, ignorance of operating the expensive machinery installed and general inefficiency in the plant. Things are on a much loftier plane than dirty muckraking like that, and they soar, oratorically, to upper realms of fancy, gravely debating whether it will take two or three years for soviet Russia to reach the industrial development of the United States.

Real Russians are proud of the enormous number of workers employed at the plant and tell one in glowing terms that there are 16,000 on the pay roll. The American born Russians are not so naïve, however, and Mr. Fraes explained to me that a lot of folks I saw standing around getting in each other's way were apprentices and students being taught the business and were not to be considered on any account as part of the personnel.

The 5 day week provides a perfect reply to all intrusive questions about working conditions and production in a 5 year plan shop. When I visited the wood working department and found only three men and a boy working with a houn' dog looking on, it was explained that this was the day off in this department. When I asked why, then, those three gents and the laughing lad and the winsome canine were there, why it appeared they just came around to do a little practicing on their own time.

I inspected the painting department where the finished agricultural implements are given coats of red and yellow and blue paint, and found a score of girls in boots and aprons and bare arms, daubing the plows and harrows with long brushes and stenciling "Mak Kormak" on the seeders.

"How about the machinery that paints this stuff automatically?", I asked.

"Well, these girls don't know how to operate it and we find it's faster to paint by hand," my guide said.

Make 32 Plows a Day.

Thirty-two plows were the output the day I visited Selmashstrol. The schedule called for ten times that number.

The combine department is producing nothing. Nobody knows when it will start to produce because with all the rest of the machinery installed it seems there are one or two vital machines missing. Nobody seems to be able to get the assembling started. Everybody is waiting breathlessly for the Cheiyabinsk factory to be completed and let them make the combines.

Conveyors won't work in Russia. In all the units there are nice tracks laid down on the floor with the conveyor trucks or platform right there. But somehow nobody has ever been able to figure out the right speed which suits everybody. If it's not slow enough for some and then slowed down, it's still not slow enough for others.

So the practical Russian workers lug the stuff off the conveyors and drag it off to some corner, like a cat with a mouse, and there they can squat and hammer away and push and shove and worry the life out of their victim, be it harrow or drill.

The apparatus in the foundry, I learned, is not installed in the proper sequence. In fact, the various machinery is almost exactly reversed in its relative position in the huge building.

EDITORS URGED BY LEGGE TO AID FARM CO-OPS

Declares Agriculture Is National Issue.

BY PAUL POTTER.

"If I wanted to control the nation's thought I would rather write its newspaper editorials than either its laws or its songs."

ALEXANDER LEGGE.

Having paid the publishers of the middle west, attending the spring meeting of the Inland Daily Press association at the Morrison hotel, this compliment yesterday, Alexander Legge, former farm board chairman, urged them to see the value to agriculture and to international well being of their support of the co-operative marketing idea among farmers.

"National Problem," View.

"This so-called agricultural problem is really a national problem. We may as well recognize the fact that our agricultural class is the greatest single group of buyers we have, and I want to venture the opinion that none of us now living will again see any period of sustained general prosperity in which the agricultural producer does not participate."

Legge, now president of the International Harvester company, urged the publishers to study the mraketing act. "Then," he said, "get back of a program which merely means helping the farmers to unite to act collectively in controlling production, both as to quality and quantity."

Cites Industrial Changes.

The cry that this means interfering with somebody's business, the speaker said, was true. But any reorganization of a great industry, in his opinion, "must necessarily bring about certain changes in the old methods of handling the product."

"Can we afford to let the interests of a comparatively few traders engaged in the merchandising of a commodity stand in the way of the solution of one of the greatest economic questions in our generation?" asked Legge. "It is no criticism of the private trader that these changes are coming about," he added.

A resolution was adopted at the meeting advising members to insist that radio programs, if published, "should be handled as paid advertising."

Communists Hurl Scarlet Handbills at Danish King

SONDERBORG, Denmark, May 19.—(AP)—A handful of young communists today attempted to stage a demonstration again King Christian, who accompanied the queen on a visit to the province of Dänish Slesvig, but were circumvented by police. When their majesties landed from the royal yacht the communists attempted to throw scarlet hand bills into their carriage. Police frustrated them and the king was not even aware of the attempted demonstration.

BUSINESS RULE FOR SCHOOLS, AIM OF NEW TRUSTEE

Carr Tells His Hopes for Paring Budget.

Robert F. Carr, millionaire chemical manufacturer whom Mayor Cermak drafted for service on the board of education, gave an interview yesterday outlining the course he believes necessary to assure Chicago "a creditable administration of the public schools at reasonable cost to the taxpayers."

First of all, Mr. Carr favors a thorough investigation of school board expenditures to eliminate waste and extravagance. He maintains that hereafter the board must keep the budget trimmed within the limits of the taxpayers' purses.

"Judging by newspaper publicity given the public school department within the last few years," observed Mr. Carr, "there is a crying need for a painstaking study to improve the school board's business organization. In a department charged with the expenditure of some $90,000,000 annually, it should not be difficult to effect economies consistent with the present condition of business at large."

Wants Expense Investigated.

If the audit now being conducted at suggestion of the Cuthbertson senatorial committee achieves this purpose, Trustee Carr will be satisfied, he indicated.

One phase of expenditure the auditors should not overlook, Mr. Carr insisted, is that relating to the awarding of building contracts by the board. In this connection the only other Democratic trustee, Mrs. W. S. Hefferan, has openly charged the existence of a ring of favored contractors, whose exorbitant bids the board has accepted at expense of the taxpayers.

"I have known Mr. Myers since we were fellow members of the Technical club thirty-five years ago—he a young engineer and I just starting out as a professional chemist," Mr. Carr said. "I have high regard for his ability and integrity."

Expects Majority to Aid.

He entertains the same sentiments, the new trustee added, for William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, and for Mrs. Hefferan. As for the other trustees, Mr. Carr declined to commit himself definitely.

"From my limited observation," he said, "I venture to predict that a majority of the board will go along on the program of economy and efficiency."

In shaping his policies the trustee indicated he would draw not only on the experience he gained as a trustee of the University of Illinois from 1915 to 1921 but also on the lessons learned in the upbuilding of the Dearborn Chemical company, now a $10,000,000 concern. He emphasized that he favors the elimination of politics in the board.

Urges Business Basis.

"I appreciate the difficulty of conducting public business in the same manner as successful private businesses are conducted," Mr. Carr conceded. "Civil service is a factor as are certain political practices and customs in vogue for years.

"And yet, while we do not have civil service in private business we do have seniority and a sympathetic interest in the welfare of employes. Rarely, if ever, are these employes shifted or dismissed unless for failure to perform their duty.

"To admit that the department of education cannot be carried on in a manner comparable with any other great business seems to me an admission of a lack of stamina and courage on the part of public servants."

His Career in Business.

The son of a country physician of Argenta, Ill., and a graduate of the University of Illinois school of chemistry, Mr. Carr came to Chicago in the year following the Columbian exposition with the country generally in the throes of a depression following the panic of 1893.

He found a job with the chemical company, then a small concern, within a short time became a partner, and in 1907 was elected president, giving himself and his brothers control. The brothers also control the Locomotive Firebox company, a concern of still greater capitalization.

EMMERSON LETS POOR RELIEF BILL BECOME LAW; EXPLAINS WHY

Springfield, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson late today allowed the Donahue poor relief bill to become a law without his signature. The bill allows the Cook county board to issue $3,000,000 in bonds for poor relief without a referendum providing it has already spent $500,000 the same year for the same purpose. The lack of a referendum prompted his action, the governor explained.

His statement, in part, read:

"As I have stated many times before, I am opposed to measures which authorized bond issues without first securing the consent of those who must pay the taxes to retire the bonds. But because the measure in question is an emergency one, designed to relieve misery among wage earners deprived of the opportunity to work and earn their own support, I am permitting this bill to become a law without my signature."

BEGIN INQUIRY TODAY ON SCHOOL LAND PURCHASES

Board's Deals in 10 Years Total $13,324,000.

Auditors brought from Cleveland at the suggestion of a state senate committee on education to audit the books of the Chicago board of education are expected to turn their attention today to the long list of land purchases which the board has made in the last 10 years at a total cost of $13,324,535.

The auditors, who started work on the books of the auditing department of the board on Saturday, were reported to have finished that phase of their investigation yesterday.

Pursuant to orders given by Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, the auditors will be furnished today with figures which will show that from 1920 to 1930, the board bought 555 acres of land, 283.3 acres of which is not now in use. In a recent committee meeting, President Myers called a halt to further land purchases, in view of the board's financial difficulties, until the extent of the present holdings is determined.

Cites Interest Charges.

Mr. Myers asserted that nearly $200,000 in interest and carrying charges was accumulating each year on the idle land the board had purchased "with probably too much of an eye to the future." He has said that "this investigation will not be a whitewash if I have anything to say about it."

The figures, to be submitted to the auditors today show a decided increase in land purchases in the last four years, of $3,996,627 having been expended for 361 acres in that period, almost twice the amount bought in the previous seven years.

The following table shows the school board land purchases since 1920:

Year.	Number of sites.	Acres.	Cost.
1920	25	54.4	$1,342,113
1921	13	18.3	597,263
1922	9	27	235,627
1923	5	5.8	135,630
1924	10	23.3	601,375
1925	11	32.6	677,934

293 Acres Not Used.

Out of the total of 173 sites listed in the foregoing table, 61, totaling 293 acres, are not being used. Of this number 23 sites, totaling 129 acres, have been designated for building, but, since the board is now out of money, it has been forced to call a halt to all building. The purchase prices of the 61 unused sites total $6,148,596.

It was learned yesterday that the matter of school sites probably will be discussed today at a meeting of the buildings and grounds committee, of which Carter Blatchford is chairman.

Los Angeles Has Mad Dog Scare; 81 Bitten; 1 Dead

Los Angeles, Cal., May 19.—[Special.]—Five dogs reported as rabid were captured by authorities in Los Angeles today, continuing a mad dog scare which seized the city last week. Eighty-one persons were bitten by dogs last Saturday. One death, that of a 5 year old girl, resulted from rabies last week.

New York, May 19.—(AP)—Barbara Bennett, dancer and wife of Morton Downey, was discharged today from a hospital where on May 7 she underwent a major operation. She is the daughter of Richard Bennett, stage star, and sister of Constance and Joan Bennett, motion picture actresses.

STOP DEPORTING OUR PEASANTS! FINNS TO RUSSIA

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

HELSINGFORS, May 19.—The presentation of a soviet note to Finland yesterday protesting alleged Finnish chauvinistic ambitions in connection with the Ingrain question coincided with the deliverance of a Finnish note to Moscow about mass deportations from Ingria of peasants of Finnish origin, which measures Finland considers violate the Russo-Finnish peace treaty of 1920.

The Finnish note expresses hope that the soviets will find it possible to rectify matters, thereby eliminating cause for Finnish anxiety and improving Russo-Finnish relations.

The Russian protest note refers to a strong "Greater Finland" campaign, even aiming, it is alleged, to the incorporation of various Russian provinces with Finland. It is remarked here that the Russian note does not put forward any specific demands. Another Russian note yesterday referred to the alleged erection of Finnish military establishments along Finland's coast, and protested against alleged anti-soviet propaganda in Finland.

Sentence 3,500 Parents to Prison for School Strikes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUNSWICK, Germany, May 19.—Three thousand five hundred persons were sentenced to imprisonment here today for organizing school strikes in protest against the decrees of the state Fascist authorities. According to the decision of the Fascist minister of education, three days must be served either by the father or mother of each truant child. The families are appealing to the courts. The Brunswick jails are declared to be too small to hold the sentenced parents.

Do You Know Your Country?

Tune in WENR (N. B. C.) just after the Weiner Minstrels... just before Amos and Andy . . . Wednesday evenings.

AMERICA has places of surpassing beauty; majestic mountains, lakes like mirrors, forests primeval—

All this beauty and grandeur is yours. Shrines of romance and high chivalry are to be found everywhere if you but knew them. Here close to home is picturesque Galena, the home of the clerk who was hailed as the Nation's savior, the iron Grant; down in New Salem you will find mementoes of the great Lincoln.

East, west, north and south, America abounds in beauty and in romantic settings. Know your own country first. This year Americans will spend more than three and a half billion dollars while touring. You will find much to interest you here at home. Spend your holidays in America. Learn your own country, and in doing this you will increase your own enjoyment and hasten the return of prosperity.

You will get greater enjoyment out of your motoring this year if you know in advance something of the history, romance and beauty of the places you will visit.

Tune in WENR, the N. B. C. station in Chicago, every Wednesday evening at 9:30 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time, 8:30 p. m. central standard time. Listen to the Chicago Motor Club players and orchestra broadcasting "Roads of Romance." There is adventure, romance and history in these broadcasts. Each week a particularly attractive section of the country is featured.

Safety Glass

Ford cars are now equipped with safety glass in all doors and windows at a small extra charge

$20 for the Tudor Sedan, Standard Sedan, De Luxe Sedan, Town Sedan or Victoria

THE Triplex safety glass windshield has always been an outstanding feature of the Model A Ford. By reducing the dangers of flying glass, it has saved many lives and prevented countless injuries in automobile collisions.

Now comes a further assurance of safety to every Ford owner . . . polished plate safety glass in ALL DOORS AND WINDOWS at slight additional cost.

The charge for this extra protection is unusually low because of large production and the development of new methods of manufacture. Simply tell the dealer when you buy the Ford that you want "safety plate glass in all doors and windows" and the car will be factory-equipped for you in that manner.

Today, as before, the safety glass windshield is furnished as standard equipment on all Ford cars without extra charge.

FORD OWNERS—Please note that this announcement refers only to NEW CARS. Ford dealers are not in a position to install safety glass in the windows of your present Ford at the above prices.

THREE GROUPS ASK WEALTH OF CAPT. MORRISON

Locate Adopted Daughter Believed Dead.

With three groups seeking a share in the $2,000,000 estate of Capt. Edward W. Morrison, known as the "million dollar millionaire," the proceedings to admit Morrison's will to probate were resumed yesterday before Probate Judge Henry Horner. The number of heirs was increased when it was announced that an adopted daughter, believed dead, had been located in Detroit.

Capt. Morrison owned among other properties the site at Clark and Madison streets on which the Morrison hotel was erected. At one time his estate was estimated to be worth $12,000,000. He died December of 1929 at the age of 82.

Twelve Named in Trust Fund.

The largest group of heirs consists of twelve cousins, nieces and nephews for whom a $100,000 trust fund was created. Capt. Morrison's will left most of the remainder of his estate for the founding of a home for the aged.

One of this group, Mrs. Lydia A. Harrison, 76 years old, 340 South Ogden avenue, a cousin, testified that Capt. Morrison had married twice and that he had no children.

Mrs. Alice Bernstein Schenker of Brunswick and her sister, Mrs. Margaret Rivers Brown, who claim to be adopted daughters of Capt. Morrison, comprise the second group. They are daughters of Joseph Bernstein, a junk dealer.

Mrs. Brown disappeared in 1922 and at a recent court hearing her father and sister said they were convinced she was dead. Yesterday Attorney John B. Block told the court that he had located Mrs. Brown in Detroit with her second husband.

Claims He Is Son.

Capt. William Edward Foulkes, 4215 Langley avenue, and his two daughters, Miss Ilba Foulkes and Mrs. Velma Cook, make up the third group of claimants. Foulkes, who is 71 years of, claims he is the illegitimate son of Capt. Morrison and Mary Prange, who was a domestic in Capt. Morrison's home. Like the man who he says was his father, he was for many years a lake boat captain.

George Kramer, 4538 Drexel boulevard, said he once operated a café at 35th street and Cottage Grove avenue and that Capt. Morrison was a regular customer. He said Morrison had told him about his son who was ten years older than Kramer.

Win Commissions at West Point

16 GRADUATING AT WEST POINT FROM ILLINOIS

Four of Class Are from Chicago.

West Point, N. Y., May 19.—[Special.]—Included in the class of 296 cadets who will receive their diplomas here as graduates of the United States Military academy and commissions as second lieutenants in the regular army are sixteen cadets from Illinois.

Chicago residents are Charles E. Hoy, 4153 Washington boulevard, son of Mr. Thomas H. Hoy; Angelo R. Del Campo, 2012 Walnut street, son of Mr. A. R. Del Campo; Arthur R. Hercz, 629 Stratford place, son of Mr. Arthur Hercz, and David N. Motherwell, 10502 South Leavitt street, son of Mr. Robert N. Motherwell.

Other residents of Illinois are Carl W. Carlmark, 1621 20th avenue, Moline, son of Mr. C. J. Carlmark; Hilbert F. Muenter, Hoyleton, son of Mrs. Anna Muenter; Harold R. Uhlman, Blue Island, son of Mr. Otto Uhlman; Scott M. Sanford, Cambridge, son of Mrs. S. N. Sanford; John T. Westermeier, Carlinville, son of Dr. George W. Westermeier; John B. Sullivan, Decatur, son of Mr. P. B. Sullivan; Frederick G. Saint, Elmhurst, son of Mr. G. A. Saint; Richard H. Lane, Gibson City, son of Mr. Robert N. Lane; Harold A. Hughes, Bloomington, son of Mr. Clinton B. Hughes; George F. Hartman, Lawrenceville, son of Mr. F. L. Hartman; Merle L. Fisher, Savanna, son of Mr. Charles W. Fisher, and Gunnar C. Carlson, Moline, son of Mrs. Jeckla A. Carlson.

Pershing to Speak.

Graduation ceremonies will be held in the open at the base of Battle Monument on historic Trophy Point with Gen. John J. Pershing making the principal address and presenting the diplomas and commissions.

Carlmark, Hoy, Muenter and Uhlman have all requested a detail with the air corps. Next fall they will be ordered to an army flying school for training as aviators. On winning their wings as pilots they will be permanently transferred to the air corps.

Pending completion of this training, Carlmark, Hoy and Muenter will be commissioned in the coast artillery, and Uhlman in the infantry. Branches selected by other residents of Illinois are Engineers Saint, field artillery, Westermeier, Lane and Carlson; cavalry, Fisher and Sanford; coast artillery, Hughes; infantry, Hartman and Sullivan.

Saint will graduate a cadet captain, having commanded company K since last June. Saint has also won high honors academically, having won the gold stars of a distinguished cadet since his plebe year. These stars are awarded to cadets whose marks in every subject are 92 per cent or better. Saint was a freshman at Purdue when appointed by Representative Frank R. Reid. In addition to his academic and military honors, Saint is chairman of the cadet honor committee and advertising manager of the Pointer, a cadet magazine.

Captain of Ball Team.

Hoy of Chicago, who was a freshman at Crane college when appointed by Representative Stanley Kunz, is the regular catcher and captain of the Army baseball team and has won two major "A's" in that sport. Hoy is first sergeant of Company "C."

Motherwell won his appointment as a result of a competitive examination which he took as a member of the national guard. Motherwell is a cadet first sergeant and has been on the Army gymnastic team for the last three years, winning a monogram twice in that sport.

Uhlman, a graduate of Blue Island High school was appointed by former Representative Elliott W. Sproul. Uhlman has been on the Army football, boxing and soccer squads and is a qualified rifle, pistol and machine gun shot.

Del Campo, a cadet sergeant stands high in his class having been within the first forty-three since admission. He was appointed by Senator Charles S. Deneen while a freshman at Crane junior college. Del Campo is an expert pistol shot and was on the Army pistol team last year.

2 EX-POLICEMEN GUILTY OF VICE SQUAD 'ASSAULT'

New York, May 19.—[Special.]—A jury which had deliberated for almost three hours this afternoon found William B. Lewis and Edgar P. McFarland, dismissed vice squad policemen, guilty of assault in the second degree upon Mrs. Genevieve Potocki, whom they arrested for prostitution on Sept. 23, 1930.

Judge Charles C. Nott Jr., who presided at the trial in General Sessions, remanded the two men to the Tombs to await sentence a week from today. The punishment for second degree assault is either a sentence of up to five years, or a fine up to $1,000 or both.

COURT REVERSES 9 CONVICTIONS IN POLL FRAUD CASE

Convictions for election frauds of five men who had served as judges and clerks of election in the 27th ward in 1928 and of four precinct workers were reversed yesterday by the Appellate court, which granted a new trial. The higher court held that the defendants did not have a fair trial before Judge Thomas Taylor because prejudicial and illegal evidence was permitted to be used against them.

The defendants are: Barney Solomon, Adolph Abernathy, Frank Harkelroad, William McLarin, and Bernard Cooney, who were fined $500 each; James Dorsey and John Huntzinger, and Frank Smith, sentenced to six months in the county jail and $500 fines, and Linder Wilkinson, one year in the county jail and a $1,000 fine.

The Appellate court's action was based on the fact that statements taken from the men in the offices of the election commissioners were read to the jury undeleted. The statements, according to the higher courts, contained "charges, insinuations, speculations, and conclusions" by Attorney Urban Lavery, who then represented the election commissioners and who questioned the defendants.

GERMAN WARSHIP SLIDES INTO SEA AHEAD OF TIME

Hindenburg Hurls Bottle, but Misses Vessel.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KIEL, Germany, May 19.—The first new capital ship in the navy of the German republic slipped down the ways this noon before Chancellor Bruening finished his christening speech and before President von Hindenburg could smash a bottle of champagne on the ship's prow.

CHANCELLOR BRUENING.
[Acme Photo.]

The president shouted "Deutschland is thy name!" as the "pocket warship" was settling in the blue waters of the Kiel harbor. The naval band, transfixed with surprise at the sudden start of the ship over the slide, hurriedly played the national anthem. Only a small group out of the 60,000 onlookers recovered from their astonishment in time to join in singing "Deutschland Ueber Alles."

A tense atmosphere prevailed at Kiel and at the wharves all day. This is the city where just 12 years and seven months ago, hungry sailors started the revolution which overthrew the empire, forced former Kaiser Wilhelm to flee. Today, as the cannons of the entire fleet boomed a welcome to President von Hindenburg, small groups of men in ragged clothes shouted, "We are hungry."

60,000 at Christening.

Fifty thousand men in uniforms or frock coats and high hats and 10,000 women in white and pastel colors, with flowers on their shoulders, assembled alongside the mystery ship. Airplanes looped overhead. The ship was decorated with festoons of evergreen and 80 flags of all colors.

The naval band played as the president reviewed the sailors in a parade. President von Hindenburg saluted the new ship, and walked up the incline to the christening tribune.

Chancellor Bruening, his black coat decorated with the iron cross, followed. He stepped up close to the ship and started his speech with "Honorable peace and the duty of self-defense," a phrase which won the hearts of the thousands of war veterans, who had distrusted this staunch republican.

"Has Will to Defend Honor."

"After defeat our elementary and fundamental right of self-defense was so curtailed that many may have believed that the German people would find it useless to make sacrifices for the sake of self-defense," the chancellor continued. "Today's celebration shows to the world that, although restrictions have been imposed on Germany and although the country is suffering its greatest economic crisis, Germany still finds strength to secure peace and has the will to defend her honor.

"Germany has disarmed in conscientious fulfillment of treaties. If hope of any kind is to come to humanity from these treaties our example in disarmament must be followed, as agreed upon in the treaties."

Just then the ship started seaward.

President von Hindenburg tried to grasp the champagne bottle, which was decorated with violets and Mayflowers, but it swung off and landed on the ground unbroken. The president, firmly holding the text of his speech, shouted as the ship slid away. His words, "Duty of fulfillment . . . duty to honor thy name of Deutschland," were scarcely heard because the war vessel had torn down the loud speakers.

The mishap was blamed on a misunderstanding. The builder and director, Herr Loeffund, was standing near the president. He was to lift his hand as a signal to cut the cables holding the ship. He brushed his hand over his hair and the workers mistook it for the signal and the warship skidded into the sea.

AUSTRALIA LABOR RULE SPLITS OVER FINANCE CRISIS

Will Launch 2 Sets of Candidates.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANBERRA, Australia, May 19.—Australia's desperate financial plight, including its $110,000,000 treasury deficit and enormous overseas debts, has split the ruling Labor party wide open. Unity, once the boast of this political body, within the states and commonwealth seems to have passed forever.

As a result of the feud over finance, two sets of Labor candidates will be in the field at the next general elections, both claiming the official party endorsement.

On top of it comes the threat of Prime Minister James H. Scullin that he will resign if parliament refuses to pass his fiduciary currency, or inflation, bill. He considers inflation of currency necessary to put Australia back on its feet, but politicians predict its defeat.

Won't Be Dictated To.

Labor organizations throughout the land have been bluntly told that the federal party is in supreme command. The reply of the states, equally as blunt, was that they will be dictated to by nobody and particularly Prime Minister Scullin.

The dispute within Labor ranks reached its heights when Premier Lang of the state of New South Wales demanded a reduction of interest as well as the repudiation of overseas debts. The federal party immediately rejected the plan. The "Langites" were supported by some members of the federal cabinet, but Prime Minister Scullin dropped them from the ministry like hot coals.

The Scullin group insists that debts must be honored and that interest payments must be met, even if currency must be inflated to do so. The opposition group counters by charging that inflation will not help pay Australia's overseas debts because these must be met in London and New York, and if Prime Minister Scullin succeeds in his attempt to issue millions of bank notes without any backing in gold it will only accentuate the crisis.

State Wars on Federal Party.

In the midst of the financial row, the federal Labor party announced its intention of smashing Premier Lang's hold on New South Wales. It issued an ultimatum to all electoral councils, Labor leagues and affiliated unions that they must pledge their allegiance at once or be expelled.

But the Australian Labor party conference ruled otherwise, declaring that unity is now impossible and that a new party organization must be established in New South Wales, where 2,000,000 of Australia's 6,500,000 inhabitants reside.

As opposed to the Lang plan of debt repudiation, the federal Labor organization has adopted the following platform:

Control of currency, interest and exchange by a commonwealth central bank; immediate efforts to absorb unemployment by stimulating industry and a program of public works, both state and federal, using the fiduciary currency of $90,000,000; federal control over interest rates on bank deposits, advances and overdrafts; taxes on interest from state and commonwealth bonds for the purpose of compelling bondholders to share in the national sacrifice; continuance of an effective tariff; federal control over overseas exchange.

See Fault in Scullin Plan.

Economic experts declare that the only difference between the Lang plan of repudiating interest on debts and the federal plan of dealing with the interest by a special tax is in phraseology. With half of Australia's national debt held outside the country, they contend that a tax on interest amounts to a repudiation of overseas liabilities, but the federal government refuses to accept this construction of its efforts.

A sample of the state of affairs between the federal and state Labor parties occurred recently when the New South Wales Labor group ordered E. G. Theodore, federal treasurer, to take the platform in support of a Labor candidate for a seat in the New South Wales legislative body. This candidate supported the Lang debt repudiation plan and Mr. Theodore refused to speak. The New South Wales metropolitan conference expelled the treasurer from the party. The Australian Labor party executive committee replied by expelling the metropolitan conference.

DILLON PLEADS GUILTY TO FIVE ROBBERY CHARGES

Collegiate Bandit Faces Prison Term.

Edward (Teddy) Dillon, 25 years old, collegiate bandit, pleaded guilty to five charges of robbery before Judge Joseph Sabath in Criminal court yesterday and was sentenced to one to twenty years in Joliet prison. He was sentenced on each of the five charges, but the terms are to run concurrently.

Dillon, suave and well groomed, but appearing remorseful, stood before the judge and made a plea for mercy, after having agreed to plead guilty to the five charges of robbery, instead of standing trials for robbery with a gun, which carries a heavier penalty.

On Parole from New York.

"There is no use of my voicing regrets for what I have done," Dillon began, "but, your honor, I believe there is more in me that can be reclaimed than there is in most defendants who face you. I am asking that you temper justice with mercy, for I have seen prisons and, truly, they are houses of living death."

The young robber referred to his New York prison sentence for robbery. He was out on parole when arrested here.

Judge Sabath said he could do nothing except sentence Dillon to one to 20 years, as provided by law for robbery. Dillon, nattily attired in blue double breasted suit, gray spats, brown oxfords, and polka dot blue tie, was crestfallen as the judge passed sentence. He was returned to jail at once to await transfer to Joliet.

Arrested in Theater.

Dillon, son of a prominent St. Louis doctor and grandson of a former St. Louis judge, was arrested in the Erlanger theater last February after Albert Baker, 1240 North Dearborn parkway, who also was attending the theater, recognized Dillon as the robber who had held him up a few nights previous.

Dillon, who was attending the theater with a school girl, the daughter of a prominent north side family, at first appeared to be insulted by the accusation, but later, after several other robbery victims had identified him, he confessed and acknowledged he had been leading a double life.

ILLINOIS ROBBERS ARRESTED.

Valparaiso, Ind., May 19.—[Special.]—John Koenig, 28, and Gust Fortgen, 25 wanted at Joliet, Ill., for robbery of Kresge store officials of $1,050, were arrested here when picked up for traffic violation. They were returned to Joliet.

LAW PILES UP NEW TROUBLES FOR FACTOR PALS

Continue Hunt Here for Ex-Barber.

Troubles piled up for his two alleged accomplices yesterday while John [Jake the Barber] Factor still eluded police and federal agents who are hunting him for extradition on charges of defrauding Englishmen of more than $5,000,000.

In Washington, D. C., Arthur J. Klein, alleged accomplice of Factor, was indicted on federal charges of conspiracy in a bribery case involving only $25. Harry Geen, Factor's debonair secretary, who is being held in Philadelphia pending a hearing on his extradition to England, was identified by W. D. Carlisle of Martins Ferry, O., as the swindler who took $17,000 from him in a recent mysterious deal.

Geen's Trail in Chicago.

Geen, it was disclosed yesterday, has been in Chicago recently and ten days ago tried to rent an apartment but failed to find anything sumptuous enough to suit his taste. Miss Millecent Martin, a real estate operator at 612 North Michigan avenue, recalled on seeing Geen's picture that he came to see her, using the name of Harry Gallow, one of his several aliases.

"He looked at several large apartments, but was not satisfied," said Miss Martin. "The price, he said, was no object."

Klein, who has been held in the federal house of detention at New York since Nov. 11, is charged with conspiring with Frank T. Plowman and William Bleet to bribe Edward E. Lockout, an employé of the bureau of identification of the department of justice, to turn over finger print records.

Bribery Plot Charged.

Bleet, the payoff man for Klein, it is charged, gave Plowman, a former employé of the identification bureau, $400 to do the job. Plowman is alleged to have given Lockout only $25, with the promise of $10 more. When he came back to pay, Lockout had him arrested.

Factor was believed by federal agents to be hiding in Chicago, and during the evening they set out on several secret raids. Factor's attorneys sent additional citations to United States Commissioner Walker, hoping to convince him that bail would be justified were Factor surrendered or seized.

Annual German Day Set for June 7, Soldiers' Field

The annual German day celebration will be observed by the United German societies of Chicago with a parade, athletic and musical contests, mass gymnastic exercises and singing by mass choruses at Soldiers' Field on June 7. Mayor Cermak and other public officials have been invited to attend. Leopold Saltiel heads the committee in charge of the affair.

CHARGE $200,000 IS EMBEZZLED BY DETROIT BANKER

Prosecutors Say He Tapped Reserve Fund.

Detroit, Mich., May 19.—[Special.]—Robert M. Allen, president of the former American State bank, was charged with embezzlement, abstraction and misapplication of $200,000 of the bank's funds in a warrant issued today.

The warrant was signed by Judge John V. Brennan of the Recorder's court, on the recommendation of Duncan C. McCrea, assistant prosecuting attorney. Mr. McCrea has been investigating the bank's affairs since it was taken over by the Peoples Wayne County bank in March. Allen was arraigned in Recorder's court and released on $10,000 bond.

Draft for $25,000.

From June 1, 1930, until March 31, 1931, Allen is alleged by McCrea to have transferred $2,300,000 from the bank's reserve for contingencies to his own personal account. The amount charged in the warrant—$200,000—is alleged to cover transfers which took place between June and September, 1930.

June 2, 1930, Allen is alleged to have ordered the issuance of a cashier's draft for $25,000 payable to Federal associates, a group of seven men McCrea said was formed to pool Federal Screw works stock. This amount, McCrea said, was transferred to the account of Federal associates, which was held by the American State bank. It is charged that Allen previously had entered into an agreement whereby he became a member of the group, his share of the pool being $25,000.

June 17, 1930, Allen is alleged to have transferred $100,000 to the account of the American Detroit company, a subsidiary of the American State bank. On the same day, the American Detroit company is alleged to have transferred $100,000 to Allen's personal account in the State Savings Bank of Melvindale.

His Personal Account.

Allen also is charged with transferring $25,000 on July 21 and $50,000 on Sept., 12, 1930, to the account of the American Detroit company. These amounts later found their way into Allen's personal account, the warrant alleges. Allen had no authority to touch the general reserve for contingencies fund, which was inviolate by any officer or director of the American State bank, the prosecutor said.

CONFESSES PLOT TO CASH BOGUS MOTORS STOCK

Detroit, Mich., May 19.—[Special.]—A plot to obtain untold thousands of dollars through the posting of counterfeit General Motors common stock as collateral for bank loans was foiled today with the arrest of Vincent Swinney. An investigator said the swindle might have reached $2,000,000.

Swinney, according to Herbert E. Munro, assistant prosecuting attorney, confessed that he alone perpetrated the plot. He said Swinney admitted he made two loans on the bogus certificates under the name of Charles H. Roberts. The loans of $750 had been negotiated on the fake stock certificates before the police stepped in. The discovery that the two loans had been made on faked certificates was made Thursday by Miss Frances Borger, collateral clerk in the Industrial Morris Plan Bank of Detroit.

Miss Borger noticed the texture of two stock certificates which had come to the main bank from two branches did not appear like the texture or "have the feel" of genuine certificates. Her suspicions were verified when several discrepancies were discovered in the certificates and she imparted her suspicions to the treasurer of the bank.

It is matchless

in flavor, aroma and richness because no other coffee is roasted as Hills Bros Coffee is roasted...evenly...continuously

a little at a time

A FLAVOR THAT DELIGHTS YOU EVERY TIME YOU TASTE IT . . . A FLAVOR THAT CAN ONLY BE PRODUCED BY HILLS BROS' PATENTED, CONTINUOUS PROCESS THAT ROASTS A FEW POUNDS AT A TIME—NEVER IN BULK

COOKING food in large quantities is risky business. You know that. You are far more certain of perfect results if you work with small amounts. You control the mixing, the seasoning, the cooking—everything.

Roasting coffee in bulk has its risks also. That's why Hills Bros. roast only a few pounds at a time by their patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting. By this exact method an even roast is guaranteed. No berries are overdone, none are underdone. Naturally, a perfect flavor, such as no other coffee has, is the result.

As fast as Hills Bros. Coffee comes from the roasters it is packed in vacuum cans. By this process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out and kept out. Coffee packed in ordinary tins, even if air-tight, does not stay fresh. But no matter when or where you buy Hills Bros. Coffee, it is as fresh as when it came from the roasters.

Hills Bros. Coffee is sold everywhere. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

A WARNING FROM OVERSEAS.

Twenty years ago, says John Steele, the British government collected taxes which, had they been spread equally over the whole population, would have amounted to $17.50 a head. Today the taxes have increased more than fourfold. They amount now to $75 a head and they are not coming down.

The normal income tax rate in Great Britain is about 22 per cent. That rate is paid on incomes of more than $1,250. As incomes increase, the surtaxes begin to bite, and they bite deep. In addition there are the taxes on beer, wine and spirits; the other excises; the tax on inheritances; taxes on imports, and taxes on motor vehicles and gasoline, to mention only the more important ones. The whole will amount to almost $3,900,000,000 in 1931, according to the estimates of the treasury.

Mr. Steele refers to these taxes as fantastic, and he is right. But that is not all. They are also enfeebling. There is only one source whence these colossal levies may come and that is the productivity of British industry and British investment. The government cannot drain off so large a proportion of the national income each year without starving British industry and breaking down British initiative. More than that, the accumulation of capital by individuals with a talent for it is discouraged if it is not made impossible. Some economists are of the opinion that the British people for some years not only have not been adding to their capital accumulation but actually have been living in some part on it.

Whether they are or not, it is plain that Great Britain's taxation now is so severe that the country cannot look forward to the future with anything but alarm. Any great emergency, whether military, industrial or commercial, must find Great Britain almost powerless to meet it if it must be met with money. In spite of the enormous burden of taxation, the government has not been able to make both ends meet. It cannot increase its taxes and its credit will stand little stretching.

The plight of the British government and people is not recited here with any desire to gloat, but rather as a warning to the American people of the consequences to be expected if our government is permitted to spend without stint. The British have proceeded on the theory that it is just and right to take money from those who have earned it or saved it and give it to those who for one reason or another have not. In so doing the British have overlooked the fact that in destroying the earners and savers they have not succeeded in creating among the beneficiaries of the scheme a compensating power to earn and save. So far as the income producing power of the nation is concerned, the result is a dead loss.

In Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa the British experience has been duplicated in greater or less degree. The result is seen in Australia's virtual bankruptcy. In this country the process has not proceeded so far, but only because when the British per capita taxation before the war amounted to $17.50 ours was only $6.75. Ours is now $30. Our national taxation has increased at a pace almost equal to Britain's. Our tribute is lower than the British, but is mounting as fast. The outlook for us may not be so grave at the moment, but we are on the same road and catching up. A little farther along and we, too, will face the precipice. The deficit this year in this country can hardly be less than $700,000,000. It will probably be nearer $800,000,000. It has in effect added some 3 per cent to the national debt.

This deficit has been accumulated by projects similar to those of the British. The money has been spent, for example, in ill-considered efforts at farm relief, which have not relieved the farmers but have placed a burden upon productive wealth which is in no position to bear it.

And that is only a part and the lesser part of the whole account. Local taxation in this country is more burdensome than the costs of the central government. If the national government has shown little restraint, the state and local governments have shown even less. A dozen bills to increase taxes are before the Illinois legislature today. Illinois is rich and the United States is rich, but there is a limit beyond which the costs of government cannot go without enfeebling the country. England has reached that limit and we are fast approaching it. The warning is plain; but it remains to be seen whether we have the intelligence to profit from it.

COMRADE LITVINOV PROPOSES.

Russian commissars take European conferences for the fun there is in them. There is always a chance to light a firecracker in the vestry or to wad something in the chimney and smoke out the room. Maxim Litvinov, soviet foreign minister, thus became the life of the commission of inquiry at Geneva examining the idea of a union of Europe. He reminded the conferees that capitalistic countries were ruining each other by dumping their goods and made them an offer. Russia would sign a convention, an oath in the spirit of the Kellogg pact, in which the signers would pledge themselves not to undertake economic aggressions and another in which the nations would agree not to dump goods, but to compel the maintenance of a sales price at home no higher than in foreign markets.

The commissar was earnest and did not betray that he was droll, and the conferees blinked, not knowing exactly what to say to him. They know how to talk, but able as they are at this the Russians are always too adroit for them. The Russian school is that of dialectics. When they want to build a tractor or a dam they get an American. Mr. Litvinov's proposal was that the capitalistic countries communize their industries. Thus the United States would fix at home the price at which the oil producers could sell their gasoline, the steel corporations their steel, the automobile makers their cars, etc., from tooth pastes to typewriters, controlling export as to volume and destination. The people's commissars, having made this start in the domestic and foreign field, would soon be conscripting labor and expropriating capital and the thing would be done. The depression would be over. It would appear in the background as a high tide of prosperity. A good half day's work would be getting a bread card and the other half would be standing in line.

The comrade was a model of generosity, offering a bit of the rope with which the kulaks were hung to the barn rafters and the Russian tradesmen to their store beams.

THE GARY TRAGEDY.

Whatever the final result of the processes of legal justice in the case of Arlene Draves, the facts disclosed have a social significance which ought to produce some very serious thinking in this nation. The tragedy had its inception, not in some low dive, but in what passed at least in the community for an American home, in a social gathering of young people not of the underworld but presumably of normal respectable life. What might have been a perfectly harmless gathering became and was planned to be, apparently, an orgy of drunken excess, in which few of the decent inhibitions of civilized life survived. Several of the youth, now charged with murder or worse than murder, revealed a moral character which only a debased form of savagery could match. Making full allowance for the effects of poisonous drink, how is it that a group of American youth, living on the outwardly respectable levels of an American community's life, having had the privilege of our schooling and living at least within the milieu of our churches, could have developed so little of civilized character as to commit even under the influence of poisonous intoxicants the atrocities they perpetrated on their victim? This was not the crime of a typical degenerate, betraying a diseased personality. The criminals were, four youths, presumably normal, but apparently wholly lacking in any sense of honor, in any sense of responsibility to others, in any of the inhibitions of decency or humanity.

Something was fatally lacking in the bringing up of these young animals, something lacking in the homes, the schools, the churches, the social atmosphere they have been breathing. Without assuming that the conditions revealed in this case are of the widest extent, are in any sense widely representative, they cannot be considered unique, and we think they imply broader consequences and wider responsibilities than the case itself presents. The prohibition experiment has its rôle in this tragedy and there should be some stern self-searching in the home, the schools and the church. There has been too much of the spirit of laissez faire. Pacifism, ill-advised humanitarianism, the diversion of clerical interest in certain denominations from earnest pastoral activity and toward superficial and delusive resort to political and legal measures to dragoon conduct, these and other less conspicuous tendencies have weakened and are weakening the morale of the people. A period of sudden and widespread material prosperity has fostered a rank growth of callow cynicism, indiscipline, and gross self-indulgence.

We have lost none of our confidence in the moral health of our people or in our social progress. But the forces that are undermining it must be more clearly realized and more vigorously combated than they have been during the last decade.

CHICAGO TO MILWAUKEE BY AIR.

Milwaukee has now installed a ramp for amphibian airplanes in its harbor. Chicago already has one in Grant park. We are ready therefore for a Chicago to Milwaukee regular air service, supplied by amphibians or by flying boats, with a regular, dependable service. There should be a schedule of hourly trips to take about forty-five minutes each way. We are confident it would be popular and profitable. The business relations of Milwaukee and Chicago are important and destined to increase. The people of both cities should be given the easiest and most expeditious access to the resources of both cities. An air voyage in good weather offers an experience which any traveler will enjoy. If Paris and London have maintained regular air service for years, Chicago and Milwaukee, though the need is less, are justified in establishing regular communication by air. We are behind the times.

CORNSTALK LUMBER.

[The Bloomington Pantagraph.]

Although the making of paper from cornstalks has been slowed down after an enthusiastic start, it seems that no cessation is seen in the efforts of scientists and inventors to find new uses for that great waste material of the corn belt regions.

A citizen of Iowa, Orland R. Sweeney, has just secured patents on a process for making synthetic lumber, using cornstalks as the chief principal raw material. He has assigned the patent rights to the Iowa State Agricultural college, and that institution will continue the development of the process.

The newly patented process departs from "standard practice" by feeding the stalks into a "digester" as they come from the fields, whereas previously they had been shredded or reduced to small pieces before subjecting them to cooking or chemical treatment.

By cooking the unmutilated stalks under pressure, it is possible to secure a product which may then be macerated to make "a board of great strength and of highly desirable properties," Mr. Sweeney declares.

The process as patented provides for addition of a small amount of corrosive sublimate to the pulp to protect the finished board against attacks by termites or ants. Provision also is made for addition of copper sulphate or other soluble salt to prevent formation of molds when the board is in a damp place.

'F' PROUD OF IT!

CHAMPAGNE DEFERRED MAKETH THE HEART SICK.

The California grape growers modestly request $14,000,000 this year from Uncle Sam following up the pretty gift they had last year of $7,000,000. Wish our prohibition government would do something towards encouraging the raising of hops and malt so we could have good beer in the home. The trouble with grape concentrate that they make out in California is that it's awful hard to sit around two or three months and wait for it to develop a kick. Father always gets so impatient in a week or two and goes after it with a bung starter and it tastes like vinegar.

Mabel Willebrandt, the attorney for one of the grape concerns in California, ought to do something to hurry that wine along so that it won't take it so long to graduate. It's fine to look at the pretty little kegs stowed around the front room under draperies and cushions and things and think, "Now in three months that keg will be full of champagne," or "In three months that little barrel over there will be bubbling with delicious sauterne." But every day it gets harder and harder to wait. This is a fast age. Why can't the grape people study out a way to hurry that champagne and sauterne along? They probably will, but right now it's a waiting game.

We hope the grape growers invent some scheme so that the wine will come into our little vine covered home all sweet and innocent as it does now, but by night will develop the kick of a mean old cow when you hit her with the milking stool for putting her hind hoof in the milk bucket. There's a swell kick now in the California grape extracts, but it's agony to wait so long. We hope something will be done about this. Write to your congressman today.

I have lovely lilacs at my kitchen door;
Lilies of the valley blooming by the score.
Soon the snowy bridal wreath will furbish up my porch;
Soon my crimson rambler will light its flaming torch.
But when I long for tulips, pansies, or sweet peas—
I must call on some one else's garden plot for these!
And when gorgeous perfume scents my living room
So it is with verses. Songs may be a part
Of my own, or maybe—some one else's heart!
One soul can't experience all life's joy or woe.
So sometimes we borrow from another's life
Little songs of happiness, loneliness or strife.
Does it really matter—so the song be fair!—
Where the poet found it blooming—here or there?

"QUADRANGLE CLUB, faculty hangout at University of Chicago, is not a social enterprise."—Chicago Daily Times. It may, indeed, not be a social enterprise as the government maintains, but, tut, tut, it sounds dreadful to refer to it as a faculty hangout.

DEAN SHAILER MATHEWS, who is appearing in court as a witness, says the members of the Quadrangle club are interested in only the finer things of life and that the club should get back the money it paid to the government as an amusement tax. What Dean Mathews ought to do is to follow the example of Daniel Webster when arguing the celebrated Dartmouth college case. He should burst into hot scalding tears and exclaim, "Yes. It is a small club, but there are those that love it."

TO A GREAT SCIENTIST.

(In memory of Prof. Albert A. Michelson.)

Whom few might note in the dense market-place;
Yet all the stars were his, whose eyes have seen
Miracles at the flaming end of space,
Beyond our looping rainbows, our poor sun!
The fires of Betelgeuse were in his hand,
Yielding their loosened colors, one by one,
As merest candles to his mind's command.
His strong and subtle hands evoked machines
To shatter space, and wove the elfin calm
Of beauty caught in painted paper scenes.
Science and art were blended in his palm.
Gently he spoke, yet proved in tones unloud

HOW SAFE ARE CATS?

A REVIEW of the world's literature, made by R. A. Wharton, shows that man and cats swap diseases not infrequently. Man hands some diseases to cats, and cats, believing a fair exchange to be no robbery, hand man a choice package occasionally.

The evidence as to diphtheria is contradictory. Weighing it all the conclusion is that cats can have genuine diphtheria due to diphtheria bacilli, and also forms of diphtheria like sore throat, due to diphtheroid bacteria. In order to prevent the spread of diphtheria cats must be made to live up to the laws of quarantine about as men are required to do.

All the cat tribe have tuberculosis. They can catch it from man and they can give it to him. They are infected by both human and bovine tubercle bacilli but not by avian, and they can give man an infection with either of the two forms.

They are subject to plague. They can be infected by man and they can infect him. The latest reports are that cats can have tularemia and they can infect man with it. The cat is less subject to rabies than the dog. But there are many cases of recorded cat rabies, and cases of human rabies due to infection by cats are on record. Rat bite fever, which now goes by the name of sodoku, may be transferred to man through a cat bite.

Ameble dysentery is another disease which may be contracted by man from the cat. Man does not often get tapeworms from the cat but it has been known to occur. Cats are quite subject to infestation with a round worm that is much like the ordinary human round worm, and that of hogs, but it is somewhat different. However, man has been found infested with cat round worm in a moderate number of cases.

There is a form of skin eruption called creeping eruption. It is due to a parasite which tunnels along under the skin. When the human animal gets a creeping eruption it is because he has exposed his bare skin to wet, sandy soil which is infected with the parasite. The soil is generally infected by dogs and cats, the former being the more frequent offender.

Cats are prone to become infected with an itch mite which they can pass on to man. There have been a few known cases of scabies or itch of human beings due to infection from cats. Favus and a few other skin diseases of the cat are transferable to man. Besides these there are a few diseases of lesser importance in America for which the cat serves as the host.

SPROUTED GRAINS.

J. M. S. writes: I read your recent article on spring tonics. What are sprouted grains; that is, how are the grains to be prepared or where can I procure this food? What about the malted products? Just what shall I call for in purchasing at the stores for vitamin B?

Also, what is phage [for boils]?

REPLY.

Drug stores carry many malted products. There are factories that specialize in the making of these products. Most of them sell through drug stores.

Canners put up sprouted grains. They sell through grocery stores.

If you wish to do so, you can sprout corn, oats, wheat, and whatever you like.

Some cereals contain wheat germ, according to the printed label. You can buy wheat in cans in grocery stores. You can also buy whole wheat in grocery stores as well as feed stores, and grind it or have it ground.

Phage is made by several manufacturers of biologics. It is made by some health departments. It is sold in drug stores or given away at health departments. Be sure you get the phage for your coccus.

POISON IVY CONTAGIOUS.

4 L. Sisters write: Some young people of our circle get a dose of poison ivy every summer when they go swimming. Some say it is contagious, and are afraid to go near those who have it.

1. Can it be avoided?
2. Cured?
3. Is it contagious?
4. Are the leaves the only means of contagion?

REPLY.

1. Yes. Stay away from the plant or wash promptly in iron water after exposure.
2. Yes.
3. No.
4. The poison is an oily substance that resides in the leaves. However, it can be absorbed by garments and other things, and may be spread in that way.

DEPENDS ON WORDING OF WILL.

Chicago, April 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My grandfather died in 1914. He made a will and the property was divided at the time, every one getting his share except my father, who gets interest every six months. This money is supposed to be in probate and when my father died the money was to be divided among his seven children. We don't think it fair to our father and are all willing to sign the money over to him. The money is in the hands of a lawyer who tells my father he can't do a thing for him. L. P.

If the discrimination against your father was contained in the wording of the will, then we would have to have the wording of the will before us in order to advise. If the discrimination was originated by the court because of your father's incapacity, then we would have to have the facts as to such incapacity.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 20, 1915.

ROME.—The consensus among government officials and public men is that Italy will be at war on the side of the allies within a few hours. It is believed the fateful step will be authorised by parliament, which meets tomorrow. Lieut. Gen. Count Cadorna, Italian chief of staff, has arrived at Vicenza, near the Austrian frontier. More troops are moving toward the Austrian border.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—President Wilson's forthcoming note to Great Britain will be the most aggressive communication that Washington has addressed to London since the beginning of the war. It will rank with the note to Germany in firm insistence upon the observance of American rights in the war zone and in demands for a discontinuance of practices offensive to the United States.

LONDON. — The Austro-German armies continued mass attacks against the Russians, who are attempting to form a new line behind the San river, both north and south of Przemysl and west of the Vistula river in southern Poland. North of Przemysl, according to Austrian and German reports, the Germanic allies have succeeded in crossing the river.

QUEENSTOWN. — The bodies of three victims of the Lusitania disaster, two men and one woman, were recovered from the sea. The men presumably are Charles H. Lund of Chicago and Montagu F. Grant of London and Chicago.

LONDON.—The admiralty reports that the British steamer Dumfries was torpedoed this morning. Two members of the crew were drowned and fifty-two others have been landed at Ilfracombe.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 20, 1901.

CHICAGO.—John Alexander Dowie was denounced by the Chicago Federation of Labor in a set of resolutions in which he was branded a base impostor, a menace to homes and a destroyer of families. At the same time he was pouring forth volleys of shocking language in Zion Central Tabernacle, 1623 Michigan avenue, as a defense of himself and a rebuke to "the thieves and thugs of the press."

SAN FRANCISCO. — Mrs. McKinley's condition was so far improved that she was able to sit up for a short time. The President did not attend church today and only left the Scott residence, where his wife is ill, for a short walk.

CHICAGO.—Oran Ott, for nearly 40 years in the employ of the Illinois Central railroad and for 19 years general purchasing agent for the line, is dead at the age of 81.

CHICAGO.—Final plans for the new Bush Temple of Music to occupy the northwest corner of Chicago avenue and Clark street have been completed by Architect J. E. O. Pridmore and work already has been commenced. The building is a memorial to the late W. H. Bush.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Ex-Gov. William Sprague and his former inseparable companion, Dr. J. B. Greene, met in the street and exchanged hot words and Sprague slapped Greene's face. Greene returned on Sprague's nose and several blows were exchanged. The trouble was over a $300 check given Greene by Sprague which was not honored. Greene threatens to go over into the enemy's camp and make damaging revelations against the ex-governor in the divorce suits of the Spragues.

CANSO, N. S.—Representatives of the American Cable Construction company arrived here to witness the landing of the shore end of the new American cable. The steamer Faraday, with 1,000 miles of the new cable on board, is hourly expected to arrive, when the laying of the cable will begin.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Gen. Rowett was nominated and confirmed to be collector of internal revenue for the Fourth [Quincy] Illinois district. He was the candidate of Gen. Logan.

DECATUR, ILL.—Uncle Billy Young, familiarly known to all Quincy as the hero of three wars, died at the home of John Piper, two miles northwest of this city, at the age of 81 years. He served as a drummer boy in the war of 1812, and as a soldier in the Mexican and civil wars.

CHICAGO.—A monument of George B. Armstrong, the originator of the railway postal service, was unveiled at the northwest corner of Custom House block in the presence of 5,000 persons. The principal speaker was the Hon. Schuyler Colfax.

A "RELIGIOUS BULLETIN."

Notre Dame, Ind., May 16.—You may be interested in the University of Notre Dame religious bulletin of May 15, 1931, which is headed, "Churches Burn; Nuns Flee," and proceeds as follows:

"THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S revolt against absolutism in Spain has now reached the climax of satisfaction, to judge by the headlines in that newspaper. The nuns are in flight, their convents are in flames.

"Chalk up another victory for the newspaper [confessedly the world's greatest] which claims credit for running Thompson out of Chicago.

"Chalk up another victory over Christian womanhood for the newspaper which some months ago praised the 'scientific' recrudescence of the pagan practice that would make woman the plaything of man's lust instead of man's co-creator of God's little ones.

"THE TRIBUNE may deplore the mobbing of nuns, but it can hardly express surprise at it, for THE TRIBUNE is fond of quoting history, and the files of THE TRIBUNE for the last twelve months, not to go further back, show the experience of Spanish countries with representative government—little reproductions of the French revolution.

"There is one misleading headline in the group from which we take the ones quoted above. It reads, 'Vatican Expresses Alarm.' The Vatican may express regret, it will always express concern, but it will not express alarm.

"The Catholic Church is used to persecution, and it knows why it needs must come.

"It is used to persecution and to the flight of nuns, for from the days of Nero down to 1931 it has seen holy virgins burned at the stake and thrown to the lions and sent to the Tres Marias islands.

"It knows why it needs must come, for its founder said: 'If they have persecuted Me, they will also persecute you . . . they will put you out of the synagogues: yea, the hour cometh, that whosoever killeth you, will think that he doth a service to God.'—St. John, xv., 20; xvi., 2.

"It knows also that persecution is a special mark of divine favor, for its founder said, 'Every branch in Me that beareth not fruit, He will take away: and every one that beareth fruit, He will purge it, that it may bring forth more fruit.'—St. John, xv., 2.

"We hold no brief for any particular form of government. So-called 'representative' government is rarely representative in the full sense; THE TRIBUNE is fond of calling our attention to the power of an organized minority; it takes pride in its campaigns against the soviet régime in Russia. A study of France would show that ninety-five per cent of the people of that republic have little, if any, voice in the government; even a superficial glance at the Latin-American republics will convince an impartial man that the benign despotism gives them the most favorable rule.

"If Mussolini ruled Chicago THE TRIBUNE would not have to publish poison pen editorials on the foreign pretense that print news of Chicago's gangdom crime wave. If Primo de Rivera ruled in Springfield, THE TRIBUNE would not have to refer to the Illinois legislature as 'nullificationists.' 'Representative' government also has its drawbacks, but in the meantime, if a Spaniard wants to bow the knee before an Alfonso or an Englishman before a George, it's the Spaniard's business and the Englishman's, not THE TRIBUNE'S." "Whereas, THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE, by including the Boy Scouts to share in the receipts of the Golden Gloves tournament to the extent of $25,000, has made it possible for many Boy Scouts of the city to attend camp this summer who otherwise would not be able to do so, and also will help many other Boy Scouts to secure this outdoor experience so dear to the heart of every boy and so beneficial in character development and Scout citizenship value, be it

"Resolved, That the executive board Chicago council, Boy Scouts of America, extend very sincere thanks and appreciation to THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE for this public spirited and generous apportionment of funds to the welfare and happiness of Chicago Boy Scouts."

STIMSON BINDS U. S. TO LET IN CANADIAN LABOR

Sends Soothing Reply to Dominion Protest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—Publication today of an exchange of notes between the United States and Canada disclosed that Secretary of State Stimson has given assurances to the Canadian government this country will live up to the 1927 immigration agreement whereby Canadian employes of American concerns have been permitted to enter freely as commuters.

HENRY L. STIMSON [Acme Photo.]

The attitude of the United States was set forth in a note dated May 11. This was in reply to an earlier communication from the Canadian government which carried a protest implying that the 1927 agreement was not being observed. The Canadian objection was aimed at the action of the labor department in tightening its restrictions in recent months so that hundreds of Canadian commuters lost their privileges.

Aftermath of Slump.

The question came to a head through the action of the labor department last December in having hundreds of cards taken up from Canadian commuters, many of whom had been laid off by their American employers in the depression. There was also complaint of injustices from imposition of the strict immigration regulations which are designed to prevent aliens entering the United States in sufficient numbers to contribute to the current unemployment.

The situation has affected the entire border, although most acute in the Detroit-Windsor area. Figures as to how many hundred Canadians have been affected were not available here today. The 1927 agreement was made after the Canadian employes of American companies had been placed on a visa basis instead of being permitted free entry as visitors. By the agreement the commuters with jobs were considered as having established temporary domicile in the United States, and therefore permitted over six month periods to leave and enter the country freely, first having obtained visas and identification cards.

Stimson Outlines Stand.

In asserting that the United States intended to abide by this arrangement, Secretary Stimson in his note of May 11 reiterated this status of the commuters. In addition he stated that those who had been deprived of ther identification cards could apply for their return within one year. If this is refused they may seek action by a board of review, and if the action is still adverse, appeal here.

The economic depression which resulted in a move by this country to restrict immigrant labor so as to conserve jobs for Americans was responsible in part for the attitude taken by the labor department in its dealing with the Canadians who commuted to this country to work.

Investigate Mysterious Death of Injured Youth

Benjamin Benedict, 19 years old, 4119 Center avenue, Lyons, died at his home last night of a skull fracture. The police started an investigation to learn, if possible, where and how he sustained the injury. They were told that he had been in an automobile accident about a month ago. On Monday night he had a fist fight, it was reported, with Fara Gerny, 22 years old, 3933 Amelia avenue, Lyons. Neither the motor accident nor the fight caused him to take to his bed and the police were uncertain which event caused Benedict's death.

U.S. Army Drops Construction of 14 Inch Railway Artillery

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—The army's rearmament program for the construction of a fixed number of 14 inch railway guns and carriages for use in coastal defense work has been suspended for the present and priority given to the construction and development of anti-aircraft guns and other types of artillery.

Tests are being conducted with a railway carriage mounting an 8 inch gun and it is possible guns of this type will be substituted for some of the projected larger and heavier 14 inch gun models in event further reductions are made in the number of heavy gunned battleships maintained by the major naval powers. The decline in the importance of coast artillery, due to the increased importance of anti-aircraft guns and aircraft bombing, is expected also to have an effect on the number of 14 inch guns and carriages finally completed.

Four Calibers of Railway Guns.

The caliber board, convened immediately after the war, recommended that four calibers of railway guns should be provided:

An 8 inch gun with all around fire and a range of 35,000 yards, a, 14 inch gun with a 40,000 yard range, a howitzer of about 12 inches in caliber and a range of 25,000 yards, and a 16 inch howitzer with a maximum range of not less than 27,000 yards. A number of naval 8 and 14 inch guns were left over from the war and these were utilized in building the new models. Four 14 inch mounts, gun and all weighing in the neighborhood of 700,000 pounds, compared with 227,000 pounds for the 8 inch gun and mount have been built.

In admitting that the construction of the 14 inch gun railway carriages had been suspended, war department officials said that this type was still standard for the army, but that its high cost coupled with the army's need for other types made it doubtful when funds would be asked to complete the projected 14 inch railway gun program.

Fast Shooting 8 Inch Gun.

Col. P. P. Bishop of the coast artillery corps stated recently that the present trend of naval development toward the 8 inch gun with Washington treaty cruiser should be followed by a development of fast shooting 8 inch gun coast artillery defenses. No consideration is being given to the thought of building a belt line along the Atlantic coast for the transportation of heavy railway artillery.

Mobile anti-aircraft batteries and artillery 6 inch guns which can be transported at 40 miles an hour over hard roads are minimizing the value of fixed and railway defenses. Use of rapid bus transportation for infantry units has also been tried out as a means of moving doughboys from point to point along the coast in event of attempted landings.

Negro Robber Caught in Holdup Shot by Police

James Shaw, colored, 25 years old, 417 East 45th street, stuck up four men, all Negroes, between 44th and 45th streets on South Park avenue late last night. The first, second, and third all called the Wabash avenue police station. A motor squad commanded by Sergt. Otto Katelhut arrived in time to see Shaw taking the money of the fourth. He tried to flee, but Katelhut shot him in the right sheulder and captured him.

Missing Youth Found; Didn't Want to Marry

Colorado Springs, Colo., May 19.—(AP)—Clayton Wright of Albion, Ind., missing since May 3, when his blood-stained automobile was found near Richmond, Ind., is living here under the name of Carl Weimer and "intends to remain here." Fred H. Springer, deputy chief of police, said the youth admitted his identity and said he was engaged to marry an Indiana girl and suddenly decided he "didn't like the idea," so came west.

RETIRE U. S. WAR DEBT BY 1945, PLEA OF IOWAN

Ramseyer Insists It Is a Defense Measure.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—[Special.]—As a basic measure of defense as well as a measure of sound business, the United States should hold to its program of retiring its funded war debts by 1945, Representative C. W. Ramseyer Rep., Ia.] told the war policies commission today.

REP. C. W. RAMSEYER. [Harris & Ewing Photo.]

Though admitting that the retirement plan had been made more difficult by the scaling down of the European war debts and the present depression, Representative Ramseyer insisted that war, like peacetime projects, should be conducted on a pay-as-you-go basis, with every generation paying off its its own debts. He also believed that property, as well as man power, should be drafted in time of war, but doubted that it could be done without amending the constitution. Failing a drafting of property, he recommended some scheme of taxation which would entirely recover excess war time profits.

Calls Plan Illogical.

"It is illogical, inconsistent and bordering on the ridiculous," he said. "To take the position that in the next war material resources shall be drafted and the war fought without war debts and at the same time to urge that our present war debt should not be paid by the generation that made it. To talk that the last war was fought for future generations and that they should help pay the war debt ignores the fact that future generations will have obligations of their own, possibly war obligations included, to pay for."

Also appearing before the commission today was Dr. Thomas Hall Shastid, author, of Duluth, Minn., who read a lengthy paper denouncing present studies of eliminating war because "each and every one of them actually leaves the power to make war in the hands of those who profit enormously by war."

Socialist Leader to Talk.

Dr. Shastid favored a plan for a "war check vote" or secret ballot referendum before the declaration of war which would require the sending abroad of troops.

Heading a long list of witnesses scheduled to be heard tomorrow is Norman Thomas, leader of the Socialist party.

SPEEDING AUTO HITS 4 WOMEN ON SIDEWALK

Four women, conversing on the sidewalk in front of 1612 Allport avenue after a party last night, were struck and injured, two of them seriously, when an automobile moving at high speed swerved and plunged into the group. Two men in the car, which was reported stolen Monday by its owner, Ray Smith of 430 North Lincoln street, leaped out and fled on foot, leaving the victims lying on the sidewalk.

Miss Lillian Kanak, 34 years old, 1613 Allport avenue, suffered internal injuries and a possible skull fracture, and Mrs. Rose Mickorsky, 54 years old, 1612 Allport avenue, a fractured skull and broken pelvis. The others, less seriously hurt, were Mrs. Jennie Cunat, 40 years old, 1629 Allport avenue, and Miss Mary Kanak, 24 years old, sister of Lillian.

BELASCO LEAVES BULK OF ESTATE TO DAUGHTER

Two Employes Given $30,000 Each.

New York, May 19. — [Special.] — The will of David Belasco, the theatrical producer who died last Thursday, was filed this afternoon in Surrogate court. There was no accompanying petition for probate, and no estimate of the value of the estate was available. Cash bequests totaled $125,000.

Mrs. Reina E. Gest, the producer's daughter and wife of Morris Gest, was the principal beneficiary. She received $25,000, besides the personal belongings, art objects, furniture, jewelry, and the residue estate in trust for life.

The only public bequest was $5,000 to the Actors' Fund of America, but Mr. Belasco left a fund of $25,000 from which $1,000 is to be paid to each of his employes in his service five years at the time of his death.

Two Aids Get $30,000 Each.

To Mr. Gest, the producer left $10,000 in cash "as a token of affection," and released him from all debts for money owing to Mr. Belasco at the time of his death.

Two employes received the largest cash bequests. Elisabeth B. Ginty, his confidential secretary, received $30,000, of which $10,000 is to be paid to her within 60 days of Mr. Belasco's death. To Benjamin Roeder, a friend and employe, was bequeathed $30,000 and all of the pictures in the Green room in the Belasco theater, as well as the pictures in the room Roeder occupies in the theater.

The will was drawn on May 28, 1926. It was filed by Joseph P. Bickerton Jr., an attorney.

Four brothers—Abraham, known as Walter; Solomon, Henry and Edward—receive $5,000 each; Hannah Heringhi a sister, receives $5,000 outright and a life interest in $20,000; her husband, Edward, receives a l... interest in $20,000; another sister, Sarah B. Meyer, receives $10,000, and a life interest in $10,000 is left to a niece, Esther Martin, of San Francisco. Six employes received specific bequests.

The will authorizes the executors to allow Elisabeth Ginty to select six articles from pictures or curtains in the Belasco studio or room 12 in the Belasco theater. The lease on the Belasco theater in Washington, D. C., is left to his daughter.

The will leaves "to my friend, Benjamin F. Roeder, all of my plays and manuscripts of any kind and nature and all contracts for plays and movies owned by me, with instructions that he is to hold them in trust and to rent or lease them, the royalties of which he is to pay my daughter, Reina, 60 per cent and to keep the remaining 40 per cent."

The producer set aside a fund of $12,000, of which $2,000 is to be used for keeping the Belasco plot and mausoleum in San Francisco in good condition.

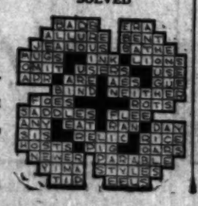
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



MRS. J. H. WOOD, WIFE OF STORE EXECUTIVE, DEAD

Mrs. Myrtle Heath Wood, wife of John H. Wood, general manager of Carson Pirie Scott & Co., retail, died yesterday morning in her apartment in the Windermere East hotel. Mrs. Wood had been ill for almost two years.

She was born in Chicago on Aug. 29, 1859, the daughter of the late Monroe Heath and Julia Dickerman Heath. Monroe Heath was twice mayor of Chicago, being reelected for a second term in 1877. He was founder of the Heath & Milligan Manufacturing company.

Mr. and Mrs. Wood, were married in Chicago on June 15, 1882. They had two sons, John Heath Wood, now president of the Standard Varnish works, and the late Warren K. Wood, nationally known as an amteur golfer and at the time of his death vice president of Gage Bros. & Co. Just six years before their marriage Mr. Wood began his business career with Carson Pirie Scott & Co. He has been with that company 55 years.

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS DIVORCE FOR CAPT. GROSS

The divorce decree granted last August to Capt. Christian Gross, secretary of the American legation at Berne, Switzerland, was upheld yesterday by the Appellate court. The court, however, reversed the part of the decree which voided a separation agreement entered into in 1928 by Gross and his former wife, Mrs. Virginia Harrison Gross of New York.

Gross won his divorce on grounds of desertion after a hearing before Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel. He testified that he had spent two years searching for his wife and their two children, Peter, 7 years old, and Barbara, 5. Mrs. Gross is the daughter of Francis Burton Harrison, former governor of the Philippines.

The decree gave Capt. Gross absolute custody of both children but the separation agreement provided that their custody should be divided.

U. S. RAILROADS ACT TO REDUCE TOLL OF ACCIDENTAL DEATHS

Setting a goal of a 33 per cent reduction in the number of casualties among railroad employes during the next three years, the safety section of the American Railway association yesterday urged the paying of as much attention to the mental and physical condition of the personnel as to the use of safety equipment.

Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western railroad, addressing the opening session of the convention of the safety section at the Stevens hotel, said:

"Railroad officials must go beyond the construction of safety devices in order to prevent accidents. We must pay attention to the mental and physical condition of our employes."

H. A. Rowe of New York, chairman of the convention, told the 700 delegates from American railroads that comparing 1930 with 1923 there was al reduction of 52 per cent in employes' and 77 per cent in injuries."

Last night at a banquet in the Stevens hotel nine American railroads and the Detroit zone of the Pullman company were awarded bronze trophies as winners in the 1930 railway safety contest participated in by 188 railroads. lives lost and 77 per cent in injuries. The Chicago and North Western railroad was the winner in group A and the Baltimore and Ohio Terminal Railroad company was the winner in group A of the terminal classification.

COUNTY BOARD REJECTS BID OF NONUNION SHOP

The county board yesterday approved the action of the public service committee in rejecting bids for the printing of 75,000 county road maps on grounds that the low bidder employed nonunion workers. The action was taken after a heated debate.

The low bid of $1,250 had been submitted by the Rand-McNally company, which operates on an open shop basis. Through the efforts of Commissioner Mary McEnerney, a labor union official, the committee voted to reject all bids and readvertise.

"If we are going to reject bids unless the low bidder operates a closed shop," Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, one of the new commissioners, said, "why don't we instruct department heads to refuse bids from open shops and thereby avoid all the embarrassment? Why do we continue doing something that is illegal?"

Mrs. McEnerney replied that the law provides contracts should be let to the lowest responsible bidder and that it was the duty of the board to decide what firms are responsible. The board concurred with Mrs. McEnerney.

Honor Cardinal O'Connell for Long Church Career

Boston, Mass., May 19.—(AP)—William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, received expressions of friendship and esteem from all parts of the country today as he observed the 30th anniversary of his consecration as bishop. The parochial schools were closed and 100,000 children received holy communion in their parish churches for him. Gov. Ely was among the many officials who paid a personal call at the cardinal's residence to extend congratulations.

Good, Salt Sea Reveals Best Legends Here

Retold by Davy Jones and Mother Carey.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"[illegible] GREEN," by Albert E. Wetjen [Little-Brown], is the kind of book that is manna from heaven to those who like it—just words to those who don't. The don'ters won't have many recruits, it seems to me, because even the ones who aren't even faintly interested in the sea and its tall tales can't help being intrigued with the strange undersea adventures of Tommy Lawn, late second mate of the Brunswick, wrecked by an

ALBERT E. WETJEN.

[illegible] Those who know anything about the legends of the sea will find "Fiddlers' Green," exactly what the doctor ordered when he was in one of those nameless moods, prefaced with "Now you need, old man, is a long [illegible] without a care in a boat-full of thoughts."

The author has been a sailor since he was fourteen. He was wrecked when he was sixteen, once by fire and explosion in the Bay of Funday and again by fog on the coast of Newfoundland. The crew lived for days in a hut built of timbers from their wrecked ship. They very nearly "slipped their moorings" like good Tommy Lawn, the hero of "Fiddlers' Green." If they had they would presumably have met with what happened to him.

After he had drowned in the sea, Tommy found himself almost knocked down by a very leathery and tough gentleman who turned out to be Ben Brunn, the guy who brought the mail from the Merry Dun to pick up the [illegible]; in other words, the Charon of the sea. "Say, where am I bound for, anyway?" Tommy suspiciously inquired as soon as he had heard Ben's [illegible] "You're visiting foreign," said Ben [illegible] grufly.

Then commences the most fortunate thing that any one could imagine, namely through the various [illegible] of the seaman's life after death, according to the traditions of the sea.

Davy Jones's guidance the young [illegible] meets everybody of any [illegible] in sea legends. The first [illegible] is the Old Man of the Sea, to [illegible] Tommy Lawn makes the mistake of saying that he guesses Swivel-[illegible] Saunders, who told him that [illegible] of the Sea was the finest [illegible] that ever lived and that his [illegible] was what caused squalls, [illegible] been a liar, so mild did the [illegible] look feeding his pet whale. "Well," roared the Old Man of the [illegible]. And from out his beard there [illegible] such a volley of vivid, [illegible] oaths that the very wind [illegible] Tommy Lawn stagger [illegible] had to catch the Bosun's [illegible] for support. . . Fifty or six-[illegible] of the lanterns flickered and went [illegible] the great bell of the Merry [illegible] Tommy Lawn [illegible] stunned admiration. No [illegible] the Merry Dun had been so [illegible] sailed! Even a cranky, [illegible] Dutch fish barge would [illegible] like a yacht when talked to in [illegible] manner. Mutiny would be un-[illegible] and the most obstinate top-[illegible] would curl up and furl itself. It [illegible] that Swiveltongue Saun-[illegible] had for once been right."

Then Tommy Lawn was taken to [illegible] Father Carey who gave him his [illegible] stormy petrel as a mes-[illegible] to bring him news of the world [illegible] left. When he was asked to [illegible] down the place from which he [illegible] to get news regularly, he [illegible] a moment of a girl in a to-[illegible]'s shop whom he was "sort [illegible] on." But Ben the Bosun had [illegible] that there were plenty of [illegible] in Fiddlers' Green. And sudden-[illegible] to write down "The English Chan-[illegible]."

"It's very strange," said Mother [illegible], "all you young gentlemen [illegible] to write down the name of some [illegible] or of the place where some [illegible] lives, but at the last you al-[illegible] write of the sea, some part of [illegible] or."

Then Tommy Lawn continued his [illegible], through Davy Jones' lock-[illegible] to the paradise of the men lost [illegible] Fiddlers' Green, and he met [illegible] Jones, Davy's brother.

Did you read that greatest of all stories of the war, ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT, which broke all book records by selling 500,000 copies in America and 4,000,000 throughout the world.

Or did you see the magnificent photoplay that was made from the book?

In either case you will want to read Remarque's new book, THE ROAD BACK, his story of the soldiers adjusting themselves to peace-time conditions, which many critics hail as even finer than "All Quiet." It is the book about which people everywhere are talking right now, and you can buy it wherever books are sold. Price $2.50.

WALT, YOU SEE THAT OLD BIRD OVER THERE—KIND OF WIZENED UP AND HUMPED OVER!
YES, POOR FELLOW
POOR FELLOW NOTHING! THAT'S OL' MAN SCABB. HE'S THE ONE THAT GOT HOLD OF THAT HOUSE DOWN NEXT TO THE CORNER AND PUT THE WIDOW AND HER THREE CHILDREN OUT INTO THE STREET.
YOU DON'T SAY!
AND WHAT'S WORSE HE'S GOING TO MOVE IN HIMSELF. HE'S THE MEANEST MAN IN SEVENTEEN COUNTIES AND HE'S COMING TO LIVE IN OUR BLOCK!
ANYWAY WE DON'T HAVE TO INVITE HIM TO TEA.
HE'S GOT ALL KINDS OF MONEY HID AWAY, THEY SAY, AND YET HE USED TO GIVE HIS KIDS A QUARTER FOR GOING TO BED WITHOUT THEIR SUPPER AND THEN CHARGE THEM 25 CENTS FOR BREAKFAST.

Times of Real Railroading Lived Again

C. and N. W. Veterans Hold Reunion.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

The crack trains that run to Omaha. The time way back fifty years when apprentices helped make the swank horsehair upholstering in the chair cars.

"I don't know of any class that sticks together closer than do railroad men," came the reply. "Did you ever know Lowe?"

"Lowe? Well, I guess. He was master mechanic at Clinton, Ia., when I went on the road."

Such drifts of conversation were heard about the Hotel Sherman yesterday as a hundred veterans of railroading for the Chicago and North Western, all with at least 25 years of service behind them—some with more than 50—sat around and "visited." For the last six years they have met as the Veterans' association to discuss the good old days when railroading was regarded as thrilling adventure.

"Yes, I must have been 12 years old when I started in the business," recalls J. H. Dower of Janesville, the association president, retired ten years ago after 56 years. "I began as a call and water boy keeping the cooler filled. Then I went to firing when I was 15 years old. They used wood burners in those days. I've done everything else—switchman, brakeman, conductor."

It took Ed Moran to tell one of the thrillers when it came to spinning yarns. Ed is 68 years old and on a pension now, but for 45 years he was conductor on a train running west out of Clinton.

"Back in 1880 it was that drawbar dropped loose and the car I was on jolted along the ties," he said. "There was a bride on that train, a senator's daughter, and she was in my car all dressed in her wedding dress. She wanted to jump.

"I didn't want to put her in a sandbank and ruin that wedding dress, but she grabbed me and we both had to jump. No one was hurt on the train, but she broke an arm."

Frank Slater of Maywood was 55 years in service before he retired six years ago, but he well remembers when he started railroading at thirteen. Then one of his most important jobs was "pulling hair" in the upholstering department.

"It was one of the duties of the apprentices to pull apart the curly black horsehair that had become compact in the upholstered seats," he said.

But such a menial job proved to be only the stepping stone for better things for Slater, whose railway devices are now in general use.

Owen Daugherty, Boone, Ia., is still in active service. He has been a locomotive engineer 45 of his 61 years of service.

"It's a sort of humdrum, running an engine," he said. "For a long time I ran the same engine. You sort of get used to the vibrations of one engine and feel like it was your own. But now there are so many one doesn't get to be so much like a pet."

HOOVER SPRINGFIELD VISIT CHANGES U. OF I. COMMENCEMENT DATE

Urbana, Ill., May 19.—[Special.]—The sixtieth annual commencement exercises of the University of Illinois will be advanced one day, so as not to conflict with the visit of President Hoover to Springfield on June 17. The date was changed at the request of Gov. Emmerson. As many persons will want to attend both the university's commencement and the Hoover meeting at Springfield, it is now planned to have the commencement exercises on Tuesday afternoon, June 16, at 3 o'clock. The baccalaureate exercises will be held as originally scheduled, at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 14.

Cermak Gets Poppy to Arouse Sentiment for Helping Veterans

The first bright red poppy of the season appeared yesterday in the coat lapel of Mayor Cermak. Upon closer observation it was noted that the flower was of paper, and that it had been made by a disabled veteran in a hospital.

The mayor is privileged to wear the poppy a few days early, but on Friday—Poppy day—every one in Chicago will have the same opportunity.

On Poppy day the streets will bloom with color as the coins and bills slip into the containers in the hands of hundreds of women who will act as volunteer workers for the Veterans' Poppy Day association. The proceeds of the day, of course, will be used for increasing welfare and relief work among disabled service men and their families.

A plea for more workers to help with the sale of poppies was made yesterday by John R. Mayeskie, president of the association. This organization is composed of the G. A. R., Veterans of Foreign Wars, United Spanish War Veterans and the American Legion, and was recently formed to avoid the constant repetition of tag days.

"Our organization has been formed to avoid imposition upon the generosity of the public, and we feel that in our combined efforts we can sell a poppy to every person in Chicago," Mr. Mayeskie said.

Volunteer workers are requested to call at the headquarters at 221 West Randolph street, or telephone Randolph 6865.

U. of C. Quadrangle Club Has Day in Court.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The United States government and the learned members of the Quadrangle club of the University of Chicago failed to agree yesterday in the federal court of Judge George A. Carpenter as to just what constitutes cultural and educational activities.

SHAILER MATHEWS.

According to Assistant United States Attorney John P. Barnes the club's sole claim to such things from May, 1925, to March, 1926, as illustrated by the club's calendar of social events, consisted in listening to three lectures. They were entitled "Fossils in Patagonia," "The Birds of Chicago," and "The Girl Proposition in Antiquity." The latter was discussed by one Paul Shorey, internationally known authority on Greek.

The club is seeking to recover from the government $9,200, which represents federal taxes paid by it during four years on the government's claim that it was a social club. The club's counsel maintains that it is not a social club, but was formed to pursue the finer things of life, namely, art, literature, and the sciences. Therefore, under the law, the club should be exempt from taxation. Judge Carpenter, at the close of the government's testimony yesterday, took the case under advisement, asking for full briefs from the attorneys, stating it was a "borderline case."

Interspersed among the three lectures cited by Attorney Barnes, as he read the calendar into the record, were numerous bridge parties, several dances "for the young people," etc.

In the month of October, 1925, they included a club smoker with refreshments, followed by a "social evening," a guest night, "ladies invited"; another Monday ladies' night, with the promise of refreshments, a reception for President and Mrs. Max Mason, a billiard exhibition, and an "informal subscription dance for members and their ladies."

The calendar also noted a "Christmas Revel" for Christmas, 1925. The following, gleaned from past notices of the club, also was read into the record: "On and after Jan. 5, 1926, afternoon tea will be available at the club with charges of 25 cents for services."

Quoting a report of the club's survey of its own circulating library, which he read into the record, Attorney Barnes added that in popularity among members fiction came first, biography second, and the sciences third. In the report was a recommendation that the club's annual appropriation for fiction be increased 20 per cent.

In the morning session Shailer Mathews, dean of the University of Chicago divinity school and president of the Chicago Church federation and a club member, testifying for the club, was asked in cross-examination if the club met to read and discuss books.

"We write books, we don't study them," replied Dean Mathews.

The government introduced a little pamphlet put out by the Quadrangle club in 1925 whose subject was, "The Quadrangle Club and Human Welfare." Listed under "Possibilities for future development" in the pamphlet were a number of items. At the left side of the page the "World's Greatest Billiard Player" was listed as Jake Schaeffer. Opposite this was the notation, "Club's greatest billiard player—Anton Julius Carlson." Prof. Carlson, a professor of physiology, is known for his researche among the glands.

BUY MODERN ART WORKS, PRINCE SAYS TO RICH AMERICANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—A strong plea for support of present day artists—especially by Americans—was made by the prince of Wales tonight speaking at a banquet of the Artists' General Benevolent institution.

"There still may be in the United States a few very wealthy patrons of the arts who have not had to rule luxuries out of their budgets, but they concentrate generally on the old masters and rarely support contemporary artists who are struggling to earn their daily bread," the prince said.

"The present dearth of commissions means ruin to many artists whose resources have been quickly exhausted and who are unable to meet their rent or to afford the barest necessities of existence. In England the majority of those who appreciate and own good pictures have long since been forced by death duties and taxation to sell rather than buy."

Ovation for Paderewski at Music Fete

He's Soloist with Stock's Orchestra.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Two great men of the concert stage, Ignace Paderewski and Frederick Stock, put on something unusual in the way of a performance last night, and as many persons as could crowd into Northwestern University gymnasium rose up and gave audible testimony that it was one of the finest shows that had ever gone on in Evanston or anywhere else.

It was the second night of the Chicago North Shore festival. Mr. Paderewski was playing the solo part of his own piano concerto in A minor. Mr. Stock through the medium of ninety or a hundred other men was playing the orchestral part of the same work. Such an incredibly brilliant interchange of parts, such a tossing of the ball of melody from one to the other and back again, must have been heard to be appreciated. Paderewski, musician, statesman, scholar and all around great man, illustrated what has made him a famous citizen of the world by the way he played his own composition. Stock, likewise musician, scholar and great man, though not as yet statesman, picked up the thread and carried it along in the same exalted mood.

It was an exhilarating experience, one of the finest pieces of team play witnessed this season or for several seasons back. The audience came to its collective feet and the orchestra went into a collective blare of applause. Well they both might. Well they might have kept on doing it.

So came another high spot in the twenty-third music festival of the Evanston series. Mr. Paderewski came to Ann Arbor last week to play his concerto with the orchestra and a Chopin group without it. In Evanston, as in Ann Arbor, the response was of a kind to make the soul tingle, and with the added by-product of causing Paderewski to do a great deal more than was set down in the cold type of the program.

There was orchestral music, also music of the kind with which only Mr. Stock could surround his illustrious soloist and fellow artist to get every one into the mood of a notable evening. The orchestral works numbered only three, but in detail they were the "Prometheus" overture by Beethoven, the Fourth symphony by Schumann, and the choreographic poem "The Waltz" by Ravel. This, it is submitted, is a list of music entirely in the festival atmosphere and spirit. Certainly the audience found it so.

THE STAGE

THE League of New York Theaters opened a campaign yesterday to revive "the road" with the presentation of a petition to the Trunk Line association for a reduction of railroad rates for theatrical companies and a restoration of the pre-war rates of 2 cents a mile for troupes of ten or more. Arthur Hopkins, president, and Dr. Henry Moscowitz, adviser of the league, headed a delegation of ten theatrical men that conferred with twenty railway representatives. A decision will be rendered within a month.

The managers' petition to the railroads states that the bookings of the Erlanger and Shubert offices for one-night-stand shows have decreased 90 per cent since 1920. Many instances of loss of revenue to the railroads because of the theatrical decline are cited by the league.

"Meet My Sister," the musical comedy that is being brought from New York for a spring season at the Grand Opera house, will begin its engagement next Saturday night, instead of next Sunday, as first announced.

The play named "The Rap," slated to begin an engagement at the Studebaker theater Saturday, May 30, will be acted by Helen Tenney, Paul Harvey, Jack Marvin, Ernest Anderson, Robert Shayne, Kenneth Bradshaw, Richard Gregg, and Edwin Vickery. It has been running at the Avon theater, New York, for the last eight weeks.

"Chicago Day" at British Court as Yankees Bow

Mrs. Potter Palmer and Daughter Among Them.

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—It was "Chicago night" tonight at Buckingham palace. Five beautifully gowned Chicago women debutantes and matrons made their curtsies to King George and Queen Mary at the first of the four brilliant courts of the London season at Buckingham palace tonight.

They were Mrs. Potter Palmer and her daughter, Bertha; Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, wife of the American ambassador of the court of St. James, her daughter Virginia, and the Princess Cantacuzene, granddaughter of President Ulysses S. Grant and niece of the late Mrs. Potter Palmer.

Mrs. Potter Palmer's gown was of the season's favorite shade, mist blue chiffon, with the regulation court train of the same color. The material of both was embroidered with crystals. Her cloak was of a deeper shade of blue velvet. Mrs. Potter Palmer was not sponsored by the embassy, but by her cousin, the Princess Cantacuzene.

The princess, who is in mourning, wore an all white ensemble of dull satin with a white velvet train. Four years ago the princess presented her daughter, Princess Ida, who has since married John Hanbury Williams, son of the marshal of the diplomatic corps.

Mrs. Dawes tonight attended court for the eighth time. She wore a blanc de perle satin gown by Reville Terry. Against its bright surface was an applique embroidery of leaves with dull finish. Her court train was of the same material, the gown being lined with silk ninon. The design of leaves appeared again at the edges of the bottom of her train. Contrary to the usual custom of not wearing jewels, Mrs. Dawes wore pearls and carried a large white feather fan.

Others presented by Mrs. Dawes were Miss Jasmine Schoellkopf, Miss Louise Behn, Miss Barbara Hutton, all of New York; Miss Edith Martin, Miss Helen Brinton, and Miss Margaretta Duane of Pennsylvania; Miss Virginia Penn of North Carolina, Mrs. Ralph H. Booth of Michigan, whose husband recently appointed United States minister to Denmark, and Miss Adele Jahncke, of Louisiana.

Miss Martin was gowned with white crepe and satin with pearl and diamond shoulder straps. On the front of her bodice was a white crepe rose with a plaited straw center. Her train was also of white crepe and satin lined with silver tissue. She wore white slippers and on her hair was a bandeau of pearls. She carried a formal bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley tied with silver ribbons. Miss Martin's presentation was arranged by Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania.

Miss Jasmine Schoellkopf's gown was a Lucille creation of mist pink tulle with rose applications in satin. Her train was of satin and her slippers were pink to match her gown. She carried a pale rose fan.

Miss Virginia Penn's gown was of pale pink lace designed by Chaliot, with a train of the same material. Both the gown and train were encrusted with crystals and she carried a small bouquet of crystal flowers and wore a short ermine coat.

Nearly all wives of officials at the American embassy attend the first court of the season, but this year there were only two present for the first time.

Mrs. Benjamin Thaw Jr., wife of one of the new first secretaries at the embassy, wore a white ensemble. Her gown, train and slippers were all white satin and her cloak was of white velvet. She wore a diamond tiara and carried a feather fan.

Mrs. Wainwright Abbot, wife of another new first secretary, chose a becoming shade of blue designed by Mainboucher of Paris. It was of satin and emphasized long flowing lines. Her train was of the same material. For these women presentation presumably means the beginning of their social career here.

The scene was no disappointment to the thousands as the guests of the king and queen in their shining motor cars were queued up in the Mall from 8:30 to 9 o'clock moving at a snail's pace, passing the illuminated marble fountain of the Victoria memorial and entering the palace gates. There were a few coaches, too, with prancing horses, outriders and bewigged coachmen in uniforms of medieval days belonging to such guests as the lord mayor of London and the bishop of London and a few old families who maintain this tradition.

Jewels, bandoes and tiaras were worn with the traditional wisp of tulle and three fluttering prince of Wales bobbing ostrich feathers. The beauty of the women's gowns was matched by the flamboyant grandeur of the men's uniforms. High officials of the army and navy were in full dress uniforms of red, blue and black, with fringed epaulets and many decorations of gold braid. They carried jeweled swords. All of the color and pomp left in the western world seemed concentrated at the gates of Buckingham palace tonight.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, fifteen year old daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, disappears mysteriously. She and her mother lived in a remote section of Paris. Clare attended a school play one evening and was brought home by friends. Her mother heard the car stop in front of the house and Clare's friends bidding her good night, but when she opened the door Clare had vanished.

Iris has been separated for years from her husband, Marcel de Bertincourt, a man of great charm, but no moral sense. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their wealthy aunt Victoire, the Comtesse de Castelmaurou.

Iris planned to divorce her husband and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. Charnwood about to depart for Africa, has postponed his trip to help Iris.

On her aunt's insistence, Iris decides to stay in her home until Clare is found. When she arrives she learns that her husband is already domiciled there. He seems to have changed to character, and has taken charge of the search for Clare. He has been seeing Clare, unknown to her mother, for some time past, and knows more of the child's life and her friends than Iris. The contessa is bent on reconciling the estranged couple.

Alan is refused admittance at the home of the countess. Iris sees him secretly and tells him that on account of her aunt's assistance she cannot offend her. They plan to meet at Helen Roderick's, the American woman for whom Iris has been working. Alan calls at Helen's and meets Marcel there. He learns that they are friends, unknown to Iris. Alan recalls hearing Marcel at Le Touquet, gambling heavily, and befriending with a coarse looking couple. Alan runs across an old friend, Tommy Hostetter, a journalist, and asks his help. They drop in a café, where Alan sees the woman who was one of De Bertincourt's companions in Le Touquet. Tommy knew her when she ran a haunt in Germany. They go to Tommy's apartment, where he points out to Alan the apartments opposite, which formerly belonged to Marcel but now occupied by a prominent actress. As he is leaving Alan sees Marcel entering the actress' home. Next day Alan meets Iris at Helen's.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

SEVERING A BOND.

"You must go, Alan," Iris said slowly, as though repeating a lesson. "At once. I cannot let you sacrifice your interests any longer on my account. This state of things may last forever."

"What an absurdity! It can't," he declared emphatically. "Any day now, any minute——"

She stopped him with a gesture. "You say that only to comfort me. You know as well as I do how unlikely it is we shall ever find Clare. Besides, you can't help me. No one can. The most you can do is to give me the assurance that I'm not standing in your way."

"Iris, my child, I forbid you! What is this nonsense?"

"Let me finish. It's not only that you must go, but you must be free of me. Think," she whispered earnestly, shrinking a little from his suddenly stern expression, "think what all this means, and you'll see I'm right. You wouldn't want to marry a paralyzed woman, would you? Well, it would be like that, I've thought it over carefully, and I'm determined to break whatever bond there is between us once and for all."

"Iris, you have got to listen to me," he began, but she refused to hear.

"Alan, I told you not to argue! If—if I could be sure Clare was dead, accept it as final, I might get over it. People do. But now, with every feeling crushed out of me by this not knowing—what have I to offer you as any man?"

"Don't bother about all that. It's enough that I don't want to be set free, as you call it. Let's forget it."

"I can't. It's dishonest to let you go on hoping for something which can never happen. Be sensible. You are—how old?—thirty-eight. You have a right to be married, to have children. The sooner the break comes, the sooner you can fall in love with some one else and make your life over."

"You know each other, then?" she inquired in dull wonderment, looking from one to the other.

He could find nothing to say. Did she really think it would be so easy to put her out of his thoughts?

"O, it seems impossible now, perhaps," she said quickly. "But you will see. Please, please let me have my way!"

"Right!" he agreed after a short battle. "I give in. Now let's talk of something different."

"There is another thing, Alan." She sat twisting her handkerchief between nervous fingers. "I—how can I explain?—it is so dreadfully hard! You see, Tante Victoire is offering an immense reward. She is employing the best detective in France. All her little resentments towards me have been put aside; she is thinking only of me in such a way that—that——"

"That what?" he asked with a disturbing premonition.

"She's an old woman, Alan, but she may live a long time. Having allowed her to do all this for me, I feel absolutely bound to respect her prejudices about certain matters. You understand?"

"Your divorce, you mean?"

She nodded miserably. Charnwood was silent. That Iris could have been brought through circumstances and for reasons compatible with her nature to alter her decision was something he had refused to contemplate, yet here he was faced with that very event. He could see she had viewed the situation from every angle and was preparing him for the worst.

"I can't believe your aunt would exact such a payment for her services," he declared at last, harshly. But I know it will be impossible for me to go counter to her wishes." She leaned back wearily, spent by the struggle this had cost her. "O, Alan, I have brought you nothing but bad luck! How much wiser for us to separate now, this instant, and never see each other again!"

His hand tightened on hers.

"Is that your real wish, Iris? Look at me and tell me."

Her eyes met his, then with a despairing cry she buried her face in his shoulder, with the movement of a child seeking solace from an unendurable hurt. He drew her close, yet even as she clung to him he knew her resolution to be unshaken.

"Marriage isn't everything," he muttered. "If I have to do without it, well, it can't be helped. But all the same, I'll never want any other woman for my wife."

She gave such a start that her wedding ring, which she had been sliding off and on her finger, fell to the carpet and rolled away. He picked it up and looked at it as though half inclined to threw it into the fire. Only when she held out her hand did he reluctantly slip it into place. As he did so something not quite frank in her manner caused him to look at her searchingly.

"See here, Iris—are you making up your mind to return to your husband?"

"Indeed, no," she denied emphatically. "Why should you suppose that? Marcel would hate it as much as I. It's entirely Tante Victoire's wishes, and even they would be satisfied if I stopped short of actual divorce. At least, I think so." A tinge of red crept into her cheeks. "Already she believes you to be my lover, and if we really were lovers I fancy she would shut her eyes to our relation. Only neither of us could bear that sort of thing permanently—could we?"

He looked away from her. "No," he answered with decision, "we couldn't."

In the entrance hall a door opened and a man's voice was heard speaking to the maid. Instantly Iris sprang up, listening, and hurriedly put on her hat.

"It's Marcel, come to look for me," she whispered, then in reply to Charnwood's unspoken question, added, "He has been introduced to Helen now, and knows this is the one place I am likely to be found."

"But why should he follow you here?" he asked, not believing for a moment that it was Iris whom De Bertincourt had come to see.

"Either he or Tante Victoire tries to keep an eye on me every minute of the day. I suppose they are anxious for fear I should do myself harm."

Before he had fully grasped her meaning the door of the salon opened and De Bertincourt came in. Any awkwardness the encounter might have held was instantly dispelled by the Frenchman's self-possessed manner. Courteous, unsurprised, he came forward, bowing to both.

"I thought I might find you, Iris," he remarked easily. "Maj. Charnwood, is it not?"

"You know each other, then?" she inquired in dull wonderment, looking from one to the other.

"Through Miss Roderick." He gave a second slight bow. "You are waiting for her? Because I met her in the street just now, and she told me she would not come home for some time."

Charnwood could not help appreciating the man's perfect handling of a situation which might have proved difficult. Whatever faults he might possess, his breeding was excellent. At the same time it became evident that he had indeed come to look for his wife, though whether he knew she was not alone it was impossible to tell.

Slightly ashamed of his own stiffness, he found himself replying to civil questions uttered with tact in English all but equal to his own.

"You are on your way to Africa, I hear. South or East?"

"East—Uganda. As a matter of fact, I had intended to be gone."

"Yes, yes, I am sadly aware that it is through our misfortune your plans were upset. I trust it has caused you no serious inconvenience?"

"None at all, only a week's delay." As he said this Charnwood realized that Helen had furnished De Bertincourt with a good many particulars.

"I am glad. So you leave by the next boat?"

"Wednesday, from Marseilles."

He saw Iris glance at him quickly, and wondered if she were relieved at his decision. He himself had not known his own mind till that moment, and marveled that he had made the statement with such assurance.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

House Furnishings Needed.

"My husband is making only a small salary and although we are able to pay our rent and buy food we have money for nothing else. I need a table and a rocker, window curtains for the front room and draperies for the large opening between two rooms as one is used for a bedroom. If someone has these articles and no longer needs them, I would be happy to get them. Mrs. M. M."

I'm sure these furnishings could be found among the things you discarded at moving or housecleaning. Won't you give them to this housewife? They'd help immensely in making her home more comfortable and attractive.

$200,000 Asked to Aid Veterans of World War

Plans for the raising of a fund of $200,000 to construct a chapel and hostess house for veterans at the Edward Hines Jr., hospital in Hines, Ill., have been completed by a volunteer veteran's memorial chapel committee, it was announced yesterday.

Construction will begin in a year's time, according to present plans. The chapel would be situated north of the administration building, and would be constructed with an English basement planned for use by relatives visiting seriously ill men.

First step in the campaign for funds will be a benefit performance of "That's Gratitude" in the Blackstone theater on the night of June 12. Tracy Drake of the Drake Hotel company donated the use of the theater.

The first two boxes were purchased by Mrs. Edward Hines and Mrs. J. Ogden Armour. Mrs. F. W. Upham was among the early purchasers of seats. The first block of tickets to the amount of $100 was purchased by F. J. Ratigan and a group representing the Spanish war veterans.

Heading the committee is Mrs. Pearl A. Duncan of Glen Ellyn, former department president of the American Legion auxiliary. Henry E. Lee of the Boulevard Bridge bank is treasurer, and Mrs. Myrtle E. Nance, president of the Du Page County council of the American Legion auxiliary, is secretary. Among the directors are the Rev. Francis J. Thomas, vice commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; Charles W. Schick, Naval post, American Legion; Wilhelmina K. Borgemeier, Spanish War Veterans' auxiliary; Mrs. Charles E. Frankenthal of Chicago, and Virgil Williams of River Forest, who is executive director.

The entire project will be nonsectarian, the architect's plan making it possible for Catholic, Jewish, and Protestant services to be held in different parts of the chapel simultaneously.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Little Walter finds arithmetic in school quite difficult. One day at home with his younger brother, Jack, he felt free to exhibit his superior knowledge, so he said: "You can't even count to ten."

Little Jack answered snappily: "Say! Do you want me to do your arithmetic for you?" A. P. G.

Business World No Place for Unhappy Wives, Say Workers

BY DORIS BLAKE.

I'm afraid I pulled a boner in suggesting, recently, an outside career as panacea for a restless, disgruntled wife who plainly hated the job of running her domestic machinery. The present was not the moment for the suggestion, as "Anonymous" has told me in frank terms:

"I am sure, Miss Blake," she writes, "that you have not visited employment agencies within the last year and a half. If you had, you would have seen girl after girl with hopeful expression on her face walk up to the desk and ask: 'Is there anything for me today?' and get the reply: 'Not today, tomorrow perhaps.' You would have noted the sad expression as the girls walked out to try their luck at another agency.

"Some of these girls have been doing this for months and I, for one, know how bitterly discouraging it is. These girls need work. They have no husbands to buy even the bare necessities of life for them, let alone hire a maid, as your restless wife had, to make home life comfortable.

"Why don't you advise your married correspondents to go in for welfare work, where both their money and time might be appreciated, or tell them to study a language, an instrument (and help a teacher); tell them to have a hobby—anything, but please don't tell them to take away our jobs!"

And from "A Business Girl" I'm told to "advise such a person as the dissatisfied wife to try to make a business of motherhood. To take over the care of those little ones, instead of hiring them out to a nurse; to watch them grow from babyhood, taking them on trips to the woods, to the parks, teaching them about the birds and the flowers. Many interesting and happy hours might be the result.

"But don't advise those married parasites to inflict themselves on the business world at this time. This country, in general, would be better if there weren't so many greedy married women flinging their real job into the discard and occupying places that should be given to men and women who need them. We don't blame women whose husbands are unfortunate in not earning enough to keep things going, but when a woman admits she has help to run her household and it's a time filling interest she want, it's just too, too much."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Girl Failed to Call.

"Dear Miss Blake: I was ill for two weeks and my girl did not come to see me. Does she care for me?

"Brown."

Modern Gal Rides Over Obstacles to Reach Beauty Goal

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

This business of riding over physical handicaps to actual beauty reputations is one of those things that ought to make women glad they're alive today. Apropos, in a moving picture magazine I read lately of how one of the bright box office attractions, a young woman whose name is now synonymous with beauty, made her way to the top with crooked teeth and ill shaped legs. In spite of the uneven teeth, it was an engaging smile that won this girl her start.

The story goes that she was one of a dozen extras awaiting her chance. It didn't look as if she was going to be noticed in the line. She coughed so as to be noticed, and then flashed her smile. A story of terrific concentration on the "landing place" this girl had in mind was the subject of the article.

Certainly there is less of that thing popularized as an "inferiority complex" current among young women than marked an earlier period. Just the same, though, there could be more of that ambition to be a knockout. I have in mind a young woman who could be a perfect stunner if she had more faith in herself, but she's got herself all bound up with prejudices that she can't wear this and that because she is so-and-so. She only puts about a 10 per cent value, instead of a round 90, on the native gifts that are hers.

It all goes to prove that in beauty things it's pretty much "what a man thinks so shall she be." I'm getting to be a kind of a nuts on the subject, the reason being that I am in a position to observe my pet with a business eye and I see constantly the amazing spectable of women not beautifully favored by nature actually making a piker out of nature with the art of beautifying themselves according to modern advantages.

I'm not writing this in any sense to cheer up discouraged people—just to remind women that if they're not getting compliments on their looks there's only one person to blame for that. I won't name her, as it would be better if you'd call yourself some

BEAUTY ANSWERS

MISS T. J.: A WAVE-SETTING lotion may be made with one tablespoonful of quince seed to a quart of water. Let boil one-half hour, strain when cold. Add a little perfume, if the liquid needs thinning, add a spoonful of toilet water.

M. R.: THE REMOVAL OF ADENOIDS is not a painful operation and it is advisable to have the matter attended to at once. Adenoids interfere with proper breathing and cause you to breathe through the mouth which detracts from your appearance.

Tropical Fish Have Their Day in Social Sun

BY THALIA

If you crave a new and smart hobby, you may be interested to know that it's possible to get highly enthusiastic on the subject of tropical fish.

Many of the people who have succumbed to the fascinations of owning and watching the colorful little beauties will wax eloquent about them at a moment's notice. Aldis J. Browne and Knowlton L. Ames Jr. have acquired an interest in a tropical fish and bird store, and I'm told that leads of other people are what you might call tropical fish fans.

There are countless varieties, all very beautiful and delicate—so delicate that the water in their tanks has to be kept, by thermostatic control, at a certain degree of temperature. The Park Fish store, in which Mr. Ames and Mr. Browne are interested, has Siamese fighting fish [in case they stage fish fights and the owners gain a royalty on each contest], swordfishing fish, angel fish and many more kinds with complicated and unpronounceable names. They thought of getting in a supply of sea horses from Florida, but they're difficult to feed and generally hard to manage, so they may give up the project.

Mr. Browne presented Wirt Morton with two lovely creatures known as "fire fishers" the other day for the aquarium in his bathroom, and he will have two pairs of love birds. The latter are precipitating some sort of a crisis in the Browne household, as Miss Elizabeth Browne's Mr. Jones Lovebird has shown unmistakable signs of being attracted by the charms of Mr. Browne's Mrs. Blue.

Lake Forest Flower Show Likely to Be Publicly Judged.

The lovely tables entered in the Lake Forest flower show this year will be judged, not by a committee of garden club experts, but by the public. Votes will be passed out to visitors at the show and awards will be made according to popular vote. Mrs. Donald Douglas is in charge of the table exhibits. The show is to be held on June 10 and 11, a week from Saturday and Sunday, at Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's "Villa Turicum" in Lake Forest.

One of the Chicagoans who went to Louisville for the Derby tells about seeing Mrs. Bruce Smith, who was Princess Bertha Cantacuzene before her marriage, and receiving the reply: "Duh princess and Mistah Bruce, dey is went out."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burnhams' guests for the informal dinner and bridge party they gave for Paderewski last night to hear his performance in the music festival at Patten gym were Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Stock, Adolphus and Mrs. Walter S. Crosley, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Linn, Mr. and Mrs. William Rowe, Rudolph Gens, and the pianist son-in-law and daughter, the Alfred Wallers.

Junior Horse Show Pledged for Lake Forest Arena.

Yes, sir! The Lake Forest annual horse show is going to be much grander than usual this year. It's to be a three days affair, and plans are to make it much larger and more interesting than it has been in the last few years. For one thing, there are to be more classes, and besides there is to be a dog and pet show in the big riding arena building.

The capacity of the riding arena has been enlarged half again to take care of the increased attendance anticipated, and besides the hunt classes there will be harness classes, three gaited and five gaited saddle horses, high school horses, hackney ponies, and thirteen ponies.

The pet show is a revival of the pet show which was held some years ago at the Joseph M. Cudahy estate in Lake Forest, and since which all the equestrian members have grown up. There are to be classes for cats, rabbits, canary birds, parrots, goats, poultry, guinea pigs [guinea pigs], ponies, donkeys, pigs, and children's trick dogs to be shown by the children. Since the pet show many Lake Foresters have acquired farms in the new Onwentsia Hunt country around Millbrook, and look competition in expectation of keen competition in expectation of keen that quarter.

To enhance further the gayety of the event, there will be side shows which will give the comically inclined a chance to devise some nonsensical entry similar to those side shows in the Lake Forest Country fair under the direction of J. Allen Haines just before the world war.

Joseph M. Cudahy is president of the Horse Show association, and the committee, headed by Mrs. Robert McCann, includes Mrs. Laurance Armour, Mrs. John Coleman, Mrs. Robert Gardiner, Mrs. Clive Runnells, Mrs. Donald Ryerson, Mrs. Samuel Walker, and Mrs. Farwell Winston. As usual, the proceeds of the show will benefit the Alice Home hospital.

Lake Forest News

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Stockpole, niece and nephew of Mrs. Charles B. Pike, who came here from Detroit several years ago, are planning to that city to live on June 15. . . . They're entertaining at dinner on Saturday evening. . . . Mr. and Mrs. John Andrews King had good fishing with the John Borden on the Little Manistee river in Michigan over last week-end. . . . The Lake Forest alumnae are to hold a meeting tomorrow morning at Mrs. Alfred Carton's preceding a luncheon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Vanderpoels Norton of Highland Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Marion Louise, to Dr. William Haviland Morgan of Washington, Conn., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hayles Morris of Providence, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew R. MacCaughey have taken a house at 232 North Sheridan road, Highland Park, for the summer. Mrs. MacCaughey's mother, Mrs. Mary E. Tuttle is to be with them, and Mrs. MacCaughey and her daughter, Miss Mary, have just returned from Florida, the latter has departed to visit in Pittsburgh. Miss McCaughey is going to Ogontz for commencement with her room mate of last year, Miss Davis. The family will move into their own apartment at 232 East Illinois in October.

Sunbeam League.

The Sunbeam league will hold a general meeting and luncheon today at the Lake Forest hotel. Mrs. Ambrose Jones is to be hostess.

BETROTHED TO ARMY FLYER

MISS MARTHA LOUISE RATHJE.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Rathje of 9900 Longwood drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Martha Louise, to Lieut. Marshall S. Roth of the United States army air corps, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Roth of 9812 South Eeeley avenue. Miss Rathje attended Northwestern university and is a member of Alpha Phi. Lieut. Roth is a graduate of West Point and is now stationed at Sacramento, Cal. He was to arrive by air today to take part in the demonstration of war department planes over the lake front in Grant park. The wedding will take place in September.

Kindness Helps Child to Eat Even the Hated Spinach

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Perhaps you'll remember that another thing the young foster-mother found out about her little adopted son was that he had not one good eating habit. It may be both interesting and helpful to read what she did in this direction.

"Now, about eating. As I've said, he would eat for hours on a bowl of breakfast food. He had been allowed to do this.

"However, dilly-dallying over food and holding a spoon in the air for ten minutes, with the food dripping off while he gazed into space, was not so good on a busy morning or when we wished to go some place after a meal. He would turn his cup of milk over at nearly every meal, just playing with it. We would keep reminding him to eat and drink his milk. This soon became an old story and he paid little attention, but went on dreaming.

"I now put on his plate what he should have and see that he eats it. I've kept before him the fact that he likes everything ' and that everything 'mother puts on his plate is good to eat.' He never begs, coaxes, cries, nor whines for things we say he is not to have. Our opinion is final and he does not question it. Some things he likes better than others, but when he shows reluctance at something he needs, like spinach (why is it this spinach necessity is so universally disliked by youngsters?). I tell him that, ' Of course you like that nice spinach, and ' everybody likes spinach, or ' we like everything,' and down it goes.

"The next time he'll ask for a second helping.

"He wasn't very fond of milk and it was a problem to get him to take his pint and a half a day, according to chart. He would stall and stall and finally spill it. I would fill another cup and hold it to his mouth, seeing that he drank it. With a little pressure on the cup, he would say, 'I don' want you to help me.'

"That was my key, for then I would explain that if he didn't want me to help him he was to drink it all by himself, that he was a big enough boy. It worked."

Paris Prefers Tiny Prints for Street

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — A printed ensemble is one of the best buys known to woman, for the girl who has to look smart on a small expenditure, for printed fabrics require less cleaning and pressing than plain, which makes a big difference in the bills at the end of the season.

Fortunately for such, prints are just as smart, if not smarter, than ever. For street wear Paris prescribes tiny geometrical prints, checks, dots, or diamonds and these are the ones you will tire of least. Blue and white, brown and white, or brown and beige are the newest, as well as the most practical, print color schemes for daytime wear.

The printed dress and jacket suit sketched today, from Jean Patou, is an ideal example of the aforementioned type of outfit. It's in navy blue and white small diagonal checks, printed on a very fine, satin surfaced silk jersey that is light, uncrushable, and supremely chic.

The short cutaway jacket is trimmed round its hem with three bias bands of the checked jersey. It's semi-fitted and fastened only by a separate belt of navy blue leather. Bias bands make the cuffs of the long sleeves. The skirt is box plaited all around. Two extra plaits on each side that run up over the hip yoke formed of three bias bands give the side flare that is characteristic of Patou's latest silhouette. They button the skirt at the top with navy blue buttons. The bodice is trimmed at décolleté and lower sleeves with bands and bows of white piqué. The shoulder seam is carried right down the outside of the sleeve, giving it a smart gored effect.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

A Round Trip with No Stops.

One day last summer riding on the upper deck of a motor coach, I fell asleep as we reached the loop. I awoke to find the conductor trying to collect my fare and I told him that I had paid him and he explained that I had fallen asleep and we were in Lincoln park on the way back. At this the crowded upper deck became one roar of laughter. —A. K.

Chicago will draw a portion of its future leaders of industry and professions from 200 Sea Scouts whose training will begin this summer. And the training, it might be added, will be the personal tutelage from men whose names appear in the who's who of modern business.

Officers of the Chicago Rotary club presented their plan yesterday to the Chicago Boy Scout council as a feature of Chicago Youth week. The plan was met with such enthusiasm that its final analysis is expected to be made at a meeting of Eagle Scouts and Rotarians on June 16. This is the first time that scouting and Rotary has attempted any such far reaching plan for vocational guidance of boys, scouting officers said.

Each Sea Scout, according to the plan, will be assigned to a man who is in the profession or business which the scout wishes to enter. This Rotarian will advise him in his schooling, help him choose his career, and aid him in attaining the work he selects. The scout will feel free to take his problems to his sponsor.

Of the 18,000 scouts in Chicago about 150 attain the eagle rank each year. The sponsorship plan was presented by William H. Crow, chairman of the Rotary boys' work committee, and William H. Browne, chairman of the Rotary committee on Eagle Scout sponsorship, and accepted on behalf of the scout officials by Scout Commissioner Samuel G. Goraline and Scout Executive Perry A. Lint.

Boys and girls paraded their attainments in the public and parochial schools yesterday in celebration of Youth day in schools. Demonstrations on what is done in the Chicago schools was on display for visiting parents and civic delegations.

At Crane Technical High school special exhibits and programs were held during the day. Today the school will hold an athletic meet from 1 to 3 p. m., one of the features being a 50 yard dash among the 7,000 boys of the school. Other events will be jumping, relay racing, hurdling, ball games and an Apollo contest.

Thousands will take part in the annual field day program in Marquette park today with nine schools, including Lindblom High school, participating. The program includes athletics, outdoor dramatics and music by bands and orchestras.

Tonight at Sabin Junior High school will be a program of tap dancing, pyramid building, a health play and a Polish dance. The Thomas Kelly Junior High school is planning an athletic field day for this afternoon. Emphasis in Youth week activities will also be placed today on spare time activities, especially for the underprivileged of the city in boys clubs and community centers.

Children of pre-school age in Chicago fare pretty well in the care exercised by the city over their health, Dr. George Truman Palmer informed an audience of parents, educators, and social service workers at the Auditorium hotel. Distilling the results of a survey he conducted as director of the American Child Health association of New York City for the recent White House conference on child health, he placed Chicago fourth among the large cities with respect to health examinations of its juveniles.

Out of thirty-six cities over 225,000 population, Dr. Palmer stated, this metropolis ranks seventh in such examinations, fourteenth in dental examinations, and tenth in immunization against diphtheria. It drops to twenty-fifth place in the line when it comes to vaccination against smallpox. New York showing a record of about four times as many youngsters protected against this disease. Illinois cities were found to rank comparatively high in dental health examinations, Chicago being placed third, with fifteen per cent of its children under six years having had such examinations.

Food Talk.

Veal is one meat that may still be called seasonable. The calf producing the finest type of veal is a by-product of the dairy industry. Perhaps you wonder why it should be classed as a by-product. In the dairying industry the cows or young heifers are valuable for the production of milk, but the young steer calves are of no value to the dairy farmer. So after they have been fed on milk for 6 or 8 weeks they are sent to the market to be sold as high quality veal. Therefore the spring of the year and early fall may be considered "veal time." During these seasons there is a good supply of young, well finished veal that is juicy, tender, and tasty when properly cooked.

When purchasing veal it is well to have in mind the quality characteristics which denote the finest grades. The lean of good veal is light pink or as near to white as it is possible to be. The meat is fine grained, fairly firmed and velvety in texture, and not marbled or mottled with fat. The covering of fat should be firm rather than soft and flabby and should be smooth in texture. The bones are porous, soft and red, and the ends of some of them are still pliable.

Veal should always be cooked well done and with the addition of fat. Because veal lacks fat it must be larded. Strips of bacon or salt pork may be threaded through the surface of the veal or simply laid over the top. The bacon or pork adds a richness that enhances the flavor of the meat. Like all other meats it should be well seared in a hot oven, then the temperature should be reduced to finish cooking. I prefer to cook veal in a covered roaster after the searing has been completed.

Properly cooked veal resembles chicken in color, texture and flavor. When it is used to prepare veal marengo as we described in our article on Friday, April 3, and the mock drumsticks described in the Sunday article, April 12, the similarity is so great that one can scarcely tell the difference.

STUFFED SHOULDER OF VEAL.

Wipe a veal shoulder with a damp cloth, and remove the bone without cutting through the outer skin. Fill the cavity with a rich bread stuffing, and sew up and truss into shape. Rub with salt and pepper, allowing ½ teaspoon of salt and ⅛ teaspoon of pepper to the pound of meat. Then dredge with flour. Sear 15 minutes in a hot oven [500 degrees F.]. Reduce heat to 325 degrees F., cover and roast, allowing 25 minutes to the pound. An hour before the meat is done, arrange around it peeled raw potatoes, cut in halves and bake, basting with the drippings. Thicken gravy with flour browned in fat, and serve immediately. The breast of veal may be used instead.

Yield: 5 to 6 servings.

VEAL BIRDS.

Wipe veal cutlets with a damp cloth, cut into convenient pieces and flatten with a potato masher. Mix seasoned crumbs with chopped bacon and make a stuffing. Roll up and tie into shape with strings. Brown bacon drippings with a sliced carrot and a chopped onion. Add 1 cup of stock or half milk and half water and cook slowly for 1 hour. These may be served in a casserole.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The cape collar of this new model is molded to the dress, keeping in place perfectly and offering a chance for the use of a contrasting color. One of the new printed or plaid silk crêpes with a solid color for the collar will make a stunning dress. The plaited skirt is smart and the outline at the top gives a slenderizing effect.

The pattern, 3055, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

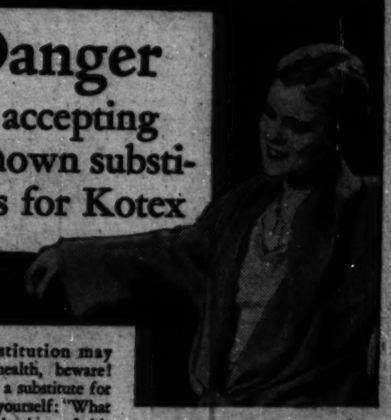
Danger in accepting unknown substitutes for Kotex



WHEN substitution may endanger health, beware! When considering a substitute for Kotex, pause. Ask yourself: "What do I know of the hygiene of this sanitary pad? Who made it? Where?"

These questions remain unanswered when you accept a substitute of whose makers you know nothing. Yet they must be answered for your safety.

The answer, of course, is Kotex. Always Kotex. Then you're safe. Kotex is made in hospital-like surroundings. More than ten million Kotex pads were used by hospitals last year. This assurance of safety is beyond price.

Kotex is adjustable. Shaped to fit. May be worn on either side with safety.

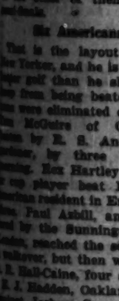
VOIGT DEFEATS ABERCROMBIE IN BRITISH MEET

Six Americans Are Eliminated.

BY EUGENE SPECK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TORQUAY, England, May 19.—The great American debacle at the Royal North Devon Golf club, where the 42d British amateur championship is being played, began to assume shape at the completion of the second and third rounds today. George Voigt, who remains in the running by the grace of good luck and a few timely putts, is the only Yank left among the thirty-two who will play the fourth and fifth rounds tomorrow.



EVEN TOLLEY.

Voigt's opponent today was J. R. Abercrombie, whom he defeated, 2 and 1. The semi-final round will be finished on Thursday and the championship match over the links will be played on Friday.

A lot of dynamite was disposed of in the draw today, but Voigt, although he escaped challenge by any among Britons, had his hands full anyhow. The big fights were between natives who are defending the crown which is American, with the exception of Jess Sweetser and Bobby Jones, on hold since the war.

Faces Severe Test.

Voigt has plenty of golf ahead of him before he can pull the trick long accomplished at St. Andrew's and yet. Two dangerous golfers are barring his path: Roger Wethered, pitted against Jones, and Sidney Fry, the golfer who came near upsetting the emperor for the same championship. Wethered finished in great form today, beating Tony Torrance, a fellow member of last year's Walker cup team, who was the only one to win a singles match against the Americans. Wethered won, 4 and 3. Fry, a little miner who is a part time golfer, has been playing championship golf throughout the tournament, winning two matches by 1 and 1 and a third by 3 and 2.

Provided all survive, Voigt will meet Roger tomorrow afternoon and Wethered in the semi-final on Thursday.

In the lower half of the draw Cyril Tolley, twice titleholder, and James Wood, British Walker cup player, meet tomorrow if both win their morning rounds. There does not seem to be sufficient opposition to prevent one or the other of them reaching the semi-finals.

Six Americans Lose.

That is the layout ahead of the New Yorker, and he is certain to need better golf than he showed today to keep from being beaten. Six Americans were eliminated during the day. Jim McGuire of California was beaten by R. S. Andrews, a local amateur, by three and two this morning. Rex Hartley, British Walker cup player beat Douglas Grant, American resident in England, five and four. Paul Asbill, an American entered by the Sunningdale club near London, reached the second round by a walkover, but then was defeated by A. F. Hall-Caine, four and three.

S. J. Hadden, Oakland, Cal., paired against Joshua Crane of Brookline, Mass., won four and three and then lost in the afternoon to Douglas Firdao of Sunningdale, at the 21st hole. John Foreman advanced to the second round by his opposition scratching, but then was eliminated by Eric Peach, an Englishman, in the afternoon at the twentieth hole. Charles Lorie, the only other American, from Lakeside club, Los Angeles, withdrew.

Voigt Is Unsteady.

Voigt played shakily today against Abercrombie. He won the first, lost the second with three putts, gained a hole on the fourth with a precise mashey from the bunker, and went two up at the short fifth with a birdie two. He lost the next hole when Abercrombie holed an approach for a four and turned two up after winning the seventh and eighth, knocking Abercrombie's ball in the hole at the sixth on a stymie.

Thereafter he struck a tough patch. Abercrombie holed a 15 footer at the fourth and the match was leveled when Voigt's next drive went in the bunker and he was forced to pick up and concede the hole. The same fate befell Abercrombie at the next hole and Voigt went one up. He lost then, but regained the lead at the next two holes, and finally won on the 17th green and one by sinking a ten yard putt.

Torrance Takes Lead.

In his match with Torrance, Wethered started with six and was two holes down at the third, where he first parred. He gained a hole with a lucky three at the fourth. He lost the sixth on a stymie and turned two up after his card out showed a 37 against the six at the first hole.

Torrance had trouble at the sixth and seventh so Wethered won both holes and then took the eighth and lost the eighth by an explosion from the trap which he laid dead on. Torrance dropped his drive into the water at the eleventh and went three down. Wethered lost a chance to win the match at the twelfth when the unexpected happened to him.

SEVEN BOSTON RUNNERS COUNT AFTER TWO OUT

Hornsby Makes Two Errors.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., May 19.—The third place Boston Braves today were most rabid in the business of maintaining the Chicago Cubs' "licking a day" schedule—a schedule that hasn't been interrupted in the east except by the weather man. The Braves scored eight runs in the first inning, seven after two were out, and then coasted leisurely to a 9 to 5 victory.

WALTER BERGER.

Today's collapse was the eighth loss the Cubs have suffered in nine games against first division clubs and the sixth lambasting they have taken in the seven games played on the current trip. Their one victory, you will recall, was acquired last Saturday when they became aroused after taking a blistering in the first game of a double header at Philadelphia.

Bush Routed in First.

The first inning blow up was mostly at the expense of Guy Bush, who made his first start since May 3, when the Cards made four runs off him before a putout had been executed. This other run was made off Fred Blake in the sixth as a result of Wallie Berger's second triple and third hit of the contest. Berger, you will recall was removed by the Cubs from Los Angeles in the Lester Bell deal a year ago.

The Cubs finished the day with their league standing at .500, and they may do better tomorrow, since McKechnie is withholding all his pitching stars for the impending Giant series. He is expected to start a third string hurler again tomorrow in the person of Frankhouse, who, like Cantwell, is of low rating compared to Brandt, who has won six straight, and Zachary and Seibold, who have won four each. This trio has lost only three games among them, and it is probable the Cubs will get Seibold in the final.

Even though his success has not been perceivable this year, Cantwell looked great for the first four and one-third innings today, in which he refused to permit a Cub to reach first, but was not so hot thereafter, and gave way to a pinch batter in the seventh. Cunningham finished and held the Chicagoans runless.

Read It and Weep.

Now, all you have to do is read about that first inning—we had to watch it. So don't flinch, here are the details:

After English had thrown out Maranville, Dreesen walked and scored on Berger's triple to right center. Berger held third while English was throwing out Worthington, but came home on Sheely's single to center. Schulmerich walked and then Spohrer tripled to right, Sheely and Schulmerich scoring. Maguire sent a grounder to Blair, which Clarence picked up and forthwith endangered lives in the grandstand with his throw. Spohrer scored, of course, and Maguire halted at second. Cantwell grounded to Hornsby and when Rogers juggled the ball Cantwell was safe and Maguire reached third.

Maranville, up the second time in the inning, singled to center, scoring Maguire. When Moore juggled the ball Cantwell reached third and Maranville second. Bush was taken out at this point and Blake went in. The greeting to the sheriff was a two base hit by Dreesen which scored Cantwell and Maranville with the seventh and eighth runs of the inning.

Cuyler Triples, Scores.

After failing to get a man on first in the first four and one-third innings, Cuyler broke through with a triple

DERBY'S FUTURE.

KENTUCKY'S DERBY of 1931 was more enjoyable to attend than some of those preceding in which were reached the heyday of attendance, speculation, revelry and free spending of "easy" stock market profits.

That growth of high class racing in Chicago ultimately would affect the Kentucky event has been predicted because Chicago's pilgrimages in the past far exceeded those from any other city. Chicago's quota last Saturday was only a fraction of other years. How far financial conditions influenced one can only guess. Yet even with this city's diminished patronage, attendance and mutuel wagering, although below a year ago, exceeded general estimates.

Therefore fears expressed in some quarters that Louisville's big holiday might sink into secondary importance compared to other notable stake days appears unwarranted at this time. In our opinion, the Derby's future as a national event rather than a great Kentucky holiday of the blue grass section depends upon the caliber of colts contending.

So long as owners with high grade 3 year old prospects elect to try for this $50,000 purse, the race will hold its place because it is the first such test of the season over a mile and quarter of ground. Some sportsmen felt owners and trainers would not be so inclined to hurry their charges in preparation for Preakness and Kentucky Derby with other rich events to follow.

Yet it is possible for a double winner to take down $100,000 thereby. Gallant Fox did it last year. Twenty Grand, unfortunate in the Preakness, more than redeemed himself at Louisville and has a running start in 1931 with over $53,000 earned so far, nearly as much as in his entire 2 year old form. Mate has over $51,000 by his Preakness win and Derby third.

Possibly the Kentucky Derby may not again equal the speculation and attendance of the period from 1926 to 1930, but unless by some chance the starting fields should become mediocre, it still will hold its place as one of the colorful, if not most colorful, 3 year old classics.

Playing "Catch."

[Living on Main street in this here town, just looked out window and saw two grown men playing "catch" with a baseball on the sidewalk.—Author.]

You can have your city's whirl
With the tramp and the tread of hurrying feet—
Give me a wee sma' town like this

You're welcome to your rush and roar
And the steady pulse of the city's beat—
Give me the peace of a "folksy" town

Why hurry and fret and fuss and toil
And wither your soul in the city's heat?
I'll take this lazy old river town

Judge Leaves Hospital; To Join Senators Soon

RECORD FIELD OF OUTBOARDS WILL RACE ON MAY 30

Pregenzer to Compete in Milwaukee-Chicago Dash

The field of outboard motorboats which will race from Milwaukee to Chicago on May 30 promises to be the largest ever competing in a Lake Michigan race. This is indicated by the entries received to date.

It is likely that Ray Pregenzer Jr. of Harrisburg, Ill., will be among the contestants on Memorial day. Pregenzer needs no introduction to outboard enthusiasts. He drove his Elto 4-60 to a world record last year of 50.9 miles per hour, an official mark which still stands as the fastest outboard speed made in this country.

Pregenzer has won 72 of the 74 races in which he has entered. Three times he has failed to finish. Once his failure was due to a broken drive shaft. The second time he capsized and the third time a plank came loose in the bottom of his boat.

Wins National Championship.

On the other occasions he has decisively beaten all comers. He climaxed last year's successful season by winning the Class F national championship. This year he started by winning the Col. Greene trophy and Class F events at Miami, Fla.

Gold medals with a diamond inset will be the awards for first, second and third places in all of the races at Navy pier on May 31. There will be five awards in each division of the outboard marathon from Milwaukee to Chicago. In fact there are six, for the winner not only will receive a 24 inch cup, but he will be presented with a gold and diamond medal.

Cups are the prizes for second, third, fourth and fifth in the marathon divisions. The awards are the same in the displacement and hydroplane divisions of the 90 mile marathon.

Finishers to Get Medals.

The winner of the Commander Eugene F. McDonald Jr. trophy race for the amateur outboard championship of the central west will have his name engraved on this $10,000 cup. He will receive a replica of the trophy and in addition will be awarded a gold medal inset with a diamond.

Each driver who finishes in the marathon will be given a "finish medal" cast from the same die which is used in the championship awards.

Chairmen of committees and others in charge of the regatta will meet this afternoon at Tribune tower.

Official entry blanks for the marathon and the fourteen speed races at Navy pier may be obtained by signing the blank which appears daily in THE TRIBUNE and mailing it to the Motor Boat Editor. The list of the races for May 31 follows:

Stock runabouts—Not over 50 horse power.
Stock runabouts—50 to 125 horse power.
Stock runabouts—125 to 200 horse power.
Stock runabouts—225 to 300 horse power.
Hydroplanes—125 cubic inches.
Class A outboard race for amateurs.
Class B outboard race for amateurs.
Class C outboard race, open.
Class D and E outboard race, open.
Class F and free for all, open.

LONGER BOXING MATCHES GIVEN O. K. BY SENATE

Springfield, Ill., May 19.—[Special.] A bill to extend professional boxing bouts from ten to fifteen rounds and to place amateurs under strict control of the athletic commission was reported out of the senate efficiency and economy committee this afternoon with a favorable recommendation.

Gen. John V. Clinnin of the commission came from Chicago to explain the bill to the senators. Present also were representatives of Northwestern university, the University of Chicago, and the University of Illinois, who are interested in the control of college bouts proposed by the bill. They probably will suggest an amendment to it when it reaches second reading in the senate later this week. It passed the house last week.

Pegler Laments Passing of the Marbles Game of Yore

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—It says in the papers that the marble tournaments in which the younger set will participate in various parts of the country in June will be conducted under the national rules, and I am just wondering where I could obtain a copy of these rules so as to be prepared to cover the national finals, if necessary.

None of the New York telephone books lists anything like a National Marbles association or a Metropolitan Marbles league, and I have inquired in vain at the A. A. U. and the National Collegiate Athletic association for the names of the members of the committee.

JUDD SPEER.
[Adult marble champion of Chicago.]

Still, it follows that if there is a set of national rules there must be somewhere a national marbles rules committee to hold annual meetings in some hotel ballroom and hear recommendations from the coaches regarding the knuckle-down rule, the penalty for fudging and other points which always have been more or less moot with marble players.

No Tourney Necessary.

Perhaps I should have called up the New York prize fight commission, as these boys generally can be relied on to claim jurisdiction over any sport which is not already nailed down by some other commission with a suite of offices, a couple of fairly good looking secretaries and a rack of rubber stamps, and yet, if the New York prize fight commission had charge of the sport of marbles there would be no necessity for holding a national tournament, as it is the commission's custom to appoint all champions by official decree.

Never as much as a neighborhood or block champion at marbles, myself, but just a fair second-rater and pretty much of a sucker for the big shots, I have nevertheless retained a memory of the rules then obtaining in my part of the country and have been puzzled to note differing rules and customs in New York. For instance, the marble players here do not seem to have any rule corresponding to the old rule of "fen averies" or something that sounded about like that.

As I recall it, when a player knocked more than one marble out of the ring at one shot, he was supposed to holler "averies." If he failed to holler this, or some other player hollered "fen averies" before he hollered "averies," then he was entitled to only one marble and the other player could replace the other marble or marbles in the ring at any place he selected, preferably, the point farthest from the shooter's shooter.

Like "No Dice."

In New York, however, they do not know the meaning of "averies" or "fen averies" and this seems a distinct loss to the game because the old rule made for mental alertness. It was like the "no dice" rule in the game of craps.

Neither do they seem to have a "h'istings" rule, an important clause whereby the shooter, if he hollered "h'istings," could place the finger tips of his free hand on the ground and place his shooting hand just below the wrist of the free hand, thus gaining the advantage of an elevation from which to sight and shoot. In order to prevent him from doing this some other player had to holler "fen h'istings" and holler it first. In case of a dead heat in their hollering, the biggest player usually won, which is the way things are decided everywhere in all ages.

The marble players of New York, of course, claim that their rules are the only legal rules for marbles, but it is characteristic of New Yorkers to do that. But, for all I have been able to find out, these rules may be the national rules, observed in all sections of the country. It has been some time since I paid any serious attention to the game and possibly the old variations of marbles have been consolidated under the rules of some M. S. N. M. A.

From the accounts in the papers, I gather that the sport is no longer played for keeps, either, but that is not surprising as this is a rapid age and the younger set generally have more pocket money than the older set used to have. So when they crave action they probably are

HORSES TAKE UP WASHINGTON PARK QUARTERS

A steady stream of horses from Kentucky, Maryland, California and other racing points has been pouring into the Washington Park race track this week for the opening of the Washington Park season Monday afternoon.

Before the opening bugle sounds about 1,700 horses will be here and ready to race during the 31 days, according to C. W. Hay, general manager of the track. About 1,100 of these horses will be quartered at Washington Park. The others will be stabled at Lincoln Fields and vanned to the course at Homewood when they fill their engagements.

The seven stake attractions to be decided at Washington Park have drawn more nominations than in any other year. There are 160 eligibles to the Thomas Curran Memorial; a field of 148 has been named for the $50,000 added American Derby; the Debutante stakes drew 122; the Washington Park handicap, 94; the Francis S. Peabody Memorial, 83, and the Robert M. Sweitzer handicap, 78.

The Greentree stable of Mrs. Helen Hay Whitney and the Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney stable will be represented at Washington Park. There will be 58 horses from the two Whitney establishments.

Rudolph Runs 125 Points in First Turn at Table

RAIN KEEPS HOSE IDLE AS FONSECA MOTORS TO TOWN

Frasier, Caraway Ready to Face Senators.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mr. Lew Fonseca, obtained from Cleveland in the deal for Bill Kamm, really is going to make his debut in White Sox flannels this afternoon. That is, he will if he gets here from wherever he has been and if weather, which washed away the scheduled opener with Washington yesterday, doesn't repeat itself.

Fonseca, being a .330 hitter, is entitled to the rating of a star. Hence he must be accorded leeway in his moves from town to town. Having been traded Saturday evening he was expected to board a train not later than Sunday night and arrive here in time for Monday's game. No penalty attaches by baseball law to such French leave, if limited, so the star decided that instead of riding the train he would motor over. He started early yesterday morning, sixty hours after the swap was made, and was supposed to have reached the outskirts of Chicago last evening.

Probably Will Play Second.

Donie Bush, the little boss of the Sox, still insists he is not through arguing with himself over the logical spot in which to plant his .330 slugger. Fonseca has played second base well enough to hold jobs with various big league clubs and the Sox need a hitter in that berth, so the natural step should be to work Fonseca there at least until he shows he doesn't belong. He also has done a bit of third basing and shortstopping in his time, but Bush isn't going to try him at either, on the plea that if he could play those jobs Cleveland would have kept him.

If Fonseca isn't dropped into the keystone sack job there is only one place remaining for him and that is at first. If he plays first it will mean Lu Blue must go to the bench and if that is necessary the Sox would have done better by keeping Kamm. Blue has been doing a wonderful job of fielding and also has been getting to base often enough to keep the opposition worried. That is what a lead-off man is supposed to do.

To Bat in Cleanup Spot.

One definite feature about plans made for Fonseca is that he will bat in the cleanup post, instead of second, which was his notch in the Indians' attack. This, granted that Blue doesn't have to give up his job, will provide Bush with a batting order of Blue, Cissell, Reynolds, Fonseca, and Jolley. Cissell, unless he stays in a protracted hitting slump, will do his defensive work at short for the time being and probably be shifted to third when Appling is deemed ready to return to his former post. If Cissell doesn't hit, Jeffries will function at the hot corner.

For pitching today Bush has his choice between Frasier, who was slated to start yesterday, and Caraway, who has had the proper rest since his last victory on Saturday. The Senators have Jones, Burke, Fisher, and Marberry ready to start.

CANADIAN AND U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAMS PRACTICE

MONTREAL, May 19.—(AP)—Aided by perfect tennis weather, the Davis cup teams of the United States and Canada continued their practice sessions today in preparation for their meeting in the North American zone final matches on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. A large crowd visited the En-Tout-Cas courts at the Mount Royal club to watch the practice.

Only one real match was played today. Cliff Sutter, New Orleans youngster, took a stiff match from Gregory Mangin, Newark, N. J., 7-5, 9-7. Previously the New York members, Frank Shields and Sidney B. Wood Jr., worked out together. The Canadian players kept no scores in their practice.

The general impression today was that Shields and Wood would form the United States doubles team and might carry the entire burden of the play. For Canada Dr. Jack Wright and Marcel Rainville are expected to form a two man team.

KIECKHEFER IS BEATEN, 50 TO 43, BY WILLIE HOPPE

Kieckhefer got away to an early lead and held the advantage until the 50th inning when Hoppe went to the front at 39 to 35. At the end of the 61st inning Hoppe led, 44 to 39, and from this point on never was in danger.

Joe Turnesa Cards 69 to Lead Leeds

LEEDS, England, May 19.—[Special.]—Joe Turnesa, young New York professional, shot 69 to take the lead in the first qualifying round of the $5,000 Leeds professional golf tournament over the Sandmoor course today. Bert Hodson, British star, gave the American something to think about with 70. Joe Kirkwood, another American in the tournament, carded 74 on the first round, two strokes ahead of Horton Smith of Joplin, Mo., and Tony Manero of Elmsford, N. Y., both of whom wound up with 76.

JOE TURNESA.

Turnesa's 69 set a new record for the course. The old mark was 70. The Westchester county star turned the first nine holes in a regulation 36 but did better on the way home. In holing out at the finish, Turnesa volunteered the opinion that he felt himself acclimated and in good shape for the British open at Carnoustie. Turnesa won the Leeds tournament last year.

There were only two flaws in Joe's exhibition today. One of them was on the last green, where he took three putts to end the ordeal, and the other was at the fourth, where he trapped his tee shot. A big gallery followed the American.

Smith was in trouble several times. He had a particularly hard time at the third hole, driving almost out of bounds and then getting in a tangle with the bunker, requiring seven strokes in all to make the hole.

REVEAL M'ALEER, BASEBALL VET, KILLED HIMSELF

Youngstown, O., May 19.—(AP)—A death certificate signed by Coroner M. B. Hayes and found in the board of health office here today said James A. McAleer, former major league baseball manager, whose death was announced April 23, committed suicide.

The certificate gave the cause of death as "gun shot wounds, self-inflicted in the head."

The shooting took place April 22 and McAleer died the next day. It was announced then that he died from a lingering illness, and following an operation.

Friends said today that McAleer had been suffering from cancer and quoted him as saying: "If it doesn't get better, I'm going to help it along."

FESLER HITS 3 HOME RUNS; OHIO BEATS ILLINI, 10-5

Columbus, O., May 19.—(AP)—Wesley Fesler accounted directly for nine runs as Ohio State university defeated the Illinois team here today, 10 to 5. Fesler hit three home runs, two with the bases loaded, as well as two doubles in five trips to the plate. Score:

ROBINS PRESENT CARDINALS WITH 6 TO 2 VICTORY

Five Runs in Eighth Win for St. Louis.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 19.—[Special.]—The Robins presented a game which they apparently had won up to the eighth to the Cardinals here today. Five errors of commission and a few of omission played no small part in Brooklyn's 8 to 2 defeat.

Glenn Wright was the chief offender. He gave the Cards their first run, failed to get another when he refused to slide into the plate and dummied up the works in the eighth when the Cards bunched six hits with two errors for five runs. Frederick made a homer for the Robins. Score:

to center and scored while Maguire was throwing out Blair. Hartnett then produced the second Cub hit, a single to left, but died when Maguire threw out Grimm.

Blake opened the sixth with a single to center, went to second while Moore was rolling to Sheely, and came home on English's double to center. English went to third while Hornsby was being thrown out and scored on Wilson's double to left center. Cuyler filed to Berger.

Hack's Hand Injured.

Bell was out of the game because of a muscle pulled in Philadelphia yesterday and Stephenson replaced Wilson when Hack hurt his right hand when he ran into the fence in pursuit of Berger's second triple.

Needless to say, the pacific is pretty much on in our little party of wanderers. It was even before the ludicrous debacle today, as witness the fact that there was a call at breakfast which sent the players to an early morning practice, an almost unheard of maneuver on the road. There also is some talk of making the curfew bell ring a little louder.

SIMMONS SETS PACE FOR MAJOR LEAGUE BATTERS

Red Worthington skidded clear out of the National league leaders. Orsatti, who hit once as a pinch batsman, went into second place in the circuit at .354, while Rogers Hornsby failed to connect three times and dropped off 12 points, going to third at .348.

Simmons slammed out three hits in five times up and added 13 points to his already big batting mark, taking it up to .446.

Beech-Nut Gum

MAKES THE NEXT SMOKE TASTE BETTER

How good your smoke tastes after dinner! It's the same way after you chew Beech-Nut Gum. It stimulates your taste some—makes the next smoke taste better, more enjoyable. Remember, always, there's no gum quite so good as Beech-Nut.

EL PRODUCTO! MILD!
Richness -- or Poverty?

But mildness enriches the good cigar when it permits continuous enjoyment of the delicate, distinctive taste that only subtle blending of the finest tobaccos can produce.

ELSIEN BRUCE, AT ODDS OF 32 TO 1, WINS AT AURORA

Homewood Victorious in Battle of Mudders.

BY FRENCH LANE.

You've got to hand it to H. T. Fleming, one of the veterans among the stakers at Aurora, for being a man of great patience.

For most any horse man with a 4 year old that could not win in ten starts, a horse that not only failed to win but failed to be in the money—would naturally be about ready to give the critter to the family milk dealer.

But not Fleming, who has been holding the 3 year old filly, Elsien Bruce, all winter and spring.

Loses Ten Times.

He sent Elsien Bruce to the post ten times in Cuba last winter. He sent her to the post for the second time at Aurora yesterday on a very muddy track and in a drizzle of rain. Until this latest appearance about as near Elsien Bruce could get to the post was sixth position. Such a consistent failure could not catch the fancy of many of the players in the betting ring. They cursed. So Elsien Bruce went to the post the longest shot in the race.

After running to her Cuban form for the first half of the short five furlong trip Elsien Bruce suddenly decided she wanted to get home in a hurry. And how she did hurry as the mud began to splash in the run down the stretch. She flew past Flag Feather, which was showing some speed, dashed on by the favorite Mailliw, as if standing out and then in the last strides were down Prince Sweep to win by a length.

Elsien Bruce came back to hear about the only cheers she has, ever heard on a track. For, while few of the spectators backed her, they all cheered, as the mutuels she paid $5.80 to win, $27.56 to place and $8.72 to show. Elsien may never win another race, but she has been a heroine for one afternoon at least.

Mudders Come Out.

The soggy track conditions after the 1 o'clock rain caused the original eight race to be called off and all the good mud runners on the track were brought out to meet in a mile and seventy yard dash.

It brought one of the most exciting battles on the program when Homewood broke in front, led from start to finish, and beat Chilly Flight and Ted Healey by a narrow margin. Ted Healey with an outside post position got much ground at the first turn. He rode it up quickly and was challenging all the way down the back stretch, but he had nothing left for the final furlong's tussle, so Chilly Flight drove up and took second away from him.

The International Night Jubilee was sent to Trycobel because Jockey Johnny Leyland gave him the most powerful ride seen on this track in a long time. Trycobel hasn't a heart that is any too big and wanted to just enough in the last furlong. But Leyland wouldn't let him quit and kept him going long enough to trim Lady Carter by a length with the favorite, Good Friend, third. Trycobel was at 6 to 1 in the betting.

N.U. NINE LOSES TO NOTRE DAME IN RAIN, 4 TO 3

Notre Dame, Ind., May 19.—(Special.)—Notre Dame defeated Northwestern in the rain here today, 4 to 3, when the game was called in the last of the eighth.

The Irish scored three of their runs in the first inning and were leading, 1 to 0, when the game was stopped by rain in the fifth. When play was resumed the Wildcats counted twice in the seventh and once in the eighth. Notre Dame came back with a run in the last half when Sullivan hit his fourth single to score Lemanasney. Score:

not content with the mere gamble of a few glassies or Klondykes or even agates but break out a couple of dollars and a pair of dice and go to it in a serious way.

Would Be Boon to Game.

This would be a boon to the game of marbles, at that, removing the old objection of the mothers and fathers who used to take the marbles away from their progeny if they found them playing for keeps or bust them a couple on the nose if they came home broke of marbles. The parents may forbid their offspring to play craps, also, but when a young gentleman or lady comes home broke of spending money, it is always plausible to say, "No, I did not lose it shooting craps; a couple of boys and a bob-haired kid from across the tracks stuck me up with guns."

I am a little apprehensive about the development of the game of mixed marbles, being old-fashioned about such things, and believing that woman's place is with her doll carriage or on the hop-scotch court. The ladies have no place in marbles, because arguments are frequent, and no gentleman can hope to win an argument from a lady, and, furthermore, marbles, like golf, has a vocabulary all its own, which, in sports is not for all the ears of ladies. The vocabulary, being an important part of the game, it follows that mixed marbles can be at best only near marbles, with a strength of not more than one-half of 1 per cent.

MICHIGAN TRACK TEAM LOOMS AS BIG TEN WINNER

Ohio State's Performance Will Influence Result.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Ohio State probably will be the reason why Illinois will not be able to defeat Michigan in the Western conference track meet Saturday at Dyche stadium.

Of course, we're not giving the meet to Michigan irrevocably. Many things can happen. Stars expected to score may fail, or faulty passing of the baton may cost the Wolverine mile relay quartet valuable points.

Ohio State will have more to do directly and indirectly with the Wolverines' chance than any other of the rival universities. First, George Simpson of Ohio, who won the 100 and 220 yard dashes last year, has been graduated. Eddie Tolan of Michigan, who finished second in both races, should win ten points this year for the Maize and Blue.

Keller Threat in Hurdles.

Secondly, Lee Sentman, who took both hurdle races for the Illini last year, probably will not repeat. Again it will be Ohio State, this time Jack Keller, sophomore hurdler, who is expected to cut down the points Illinois scored last year.

Sixteen Michigan athletes last year scored in 11 of the 16 championships and totaled 51 points. Illinois finished second with 44½ points scored in 11 events. Wisconsin was third with 33 points, Ohio State fourth with 31½, and Iowa was fifth with 24.

The dope indicates the leading four or five teams will be more closely bunched this year. Michigan probably will score from 38 to 46 points, which, however, with Illinois' total off from last year, should give the Wolverines their 12th title since the games were inaugurated in 1901.

Michigan's Dope Sheet.

ONE MILE—Two points, fourth place by Harmon Wolfe.

440 YARD DASH—Maximum 8 points, first or second by Edwin Russell with possibly a third by Glading or Eknovich, or fourth and fifth by these two men. Dale Letts of Chicago, may win if entered. Bill Henke of Wisconsin and Ed McAuliffe of Northwestern, who was third last year, are the competition. Russell ran second to Walter of Northwestern last year.

100 YARD DASH—Maximum 8 points, first by Eddie Tolan and third by Smythe. Campbell may place.

220 YARD DASH—Same as above.

120 YARD HIGH HURDLES—One point, fifth by Eriksen. Keller, Sentman, and Maffaei of Indiana undoubtedly are superior and Eriksen's place depends on what Schaffer of Minnesota and other sophomores may do.

TWO MILE RUN—Perry Austin, indoor champion, should get one of the first three places. Brocksmith of Indiana, last year's winner, and Lenz, Kaiser, and Kemp, also of Indiana, are outstanding. Split the possibilities and give Austin 4 points.

HALF MILE—Ed Turner, sophomore, may finish second, third or fourth. Letts of Chicago should win. Rupert Beetham of Ohio State is probable second best in the field. Credit 3 points.

POLE VAULT—Maximum 3 points. Pottle finished third last year behind Warne of Northwestern and McDermott of Illinois.

SHOT PUT—Goldsmith of Michigan may get fourth or fifth. Behr of Wisconsin and Mann of Minnesota are certain of first and second. Kabat and Knobbe of Wisconsin and Parma of Illinois may crowd Goldsmith out of the scoring places. Credit 1 point.

JAVELIN—Doural may get fifth.

HAMMER THROW—Cox of Michigan may get fourth or fifth. An exceptionally good performance might place him a notch higher. Credit 1 points.

ONE MILE RELAY—Five points for first place with Ohio State or Northwestern a possibility to take the event.

Michigan probably will not score in the 220 yard low hurdles, broad jump, discus, and high jump.

Estimates for these twelve events give Michigan 46 points. That represents maximum strength. If entries in the shot put, hammer, and javelin fail to come through, and if additional points are lost in the distance runs, Michigan may go as low as 38 points.

The annual South Suburban league track and field meet will be held at Stagg field on Saturday. University High school, 1930 champion, is favored to retain its title.

GOLF STROKES • RIGHT & WRONG

by Jock Hutchison

RIGHT.

In making the explosion shot the hands lead the club head right down to the ball and the weight shifts naturally to the left foot in unison with the swing. This gives plenty of power to overcome the resistance of the sand. The grip for this stroke must be very firm—more so than for any other shot. Don't be afraid to dig right down into the sand with the club head. Compare the amount of sand scooped up in the two photographs.

WRONG.

The beginner has thrown his weight onto his right foot, thereby losing most of the power behind the stroke, inasmuch as his body and the club are moving in opposite directions. The club head has preceded his hands so that he has hit the ball weakly on the upswing.

Advertising Men Play in Rain on Midlothian Links

Wading in water shoe-deep in the low places and splashing the balance of the distance, 48 members of the Western Advertising Golf association played their first tournament at Midlothian yesterday. The fairways were quagmires and all of the cups were full of water. At the 8th and 18th greens, lakes of sizeable proportions were created.

George Hartman, former University of Chicago golf captain and a past president of the Advertisers, negotiated the 27 holes in 42-41-41-124 for low gross. C. J. Harrison shot 125-24-114 to win low net. He also made one of the most spectacular shots of the day. At the 18th green his ball lay 25 feet from the cup in two inches of water. He took an iron and whaled away. The ball took two or three wild hops and then rolled into the cup. Ordinarily the shot would have been good for about 150 yards. John W. Barton, an English amateur, had two rounds of 42 each.

The winners of the foursomes which were determined by the chip system, with the number of chips won, follow:

George Hartman, 21; J. H. Victor, 12.
J. F. Seibof, 18; C. D. Freeman, 8.

Western State Tennis Team Defeats Loyola

Kalamazoo, Mich., May 19.—[Special.]—Western State Teachers college defeated the Loyola university tennis team of Chicago here this afternoon by a score of 6 to 0, winning five single matches and one double match. The second doubles match was called off on account of rain.

Lott, Van Ryn Win Easily on French Court

AUTEUIL, France, May 19.—(AP)—Rain again disrupted the French hard court tennis championships today, but not until George Lott and John Van Ryn, American favorites in the doubles play, had opened their quest for the title with an easy victory.

Lott and Van Ryn, only American pair to complete a match before the downpour set in, defeated the French team of Louis Leven and Jean Augustin, 6-2, 6-0, 6-1. It was scarcely a good practice for the Davis cup pair and gave no indication as to how they will fare in the semifinal against Jean Borotra and Christian Boussus, provided the two favored teams progress that far. Tomorrow the Americans engage Antoine Gentien and Georges Glasser.

Henri Cochet Is Ill.

Henri Cochet, ace of world singles stars, is ill, and there is considerable speculation as to who will take over his title if he is unable to defend it next week. The American entries are expected to win three French titles and pessimism is even cropping out in official circles over the French chances of defending the Davis cup successfully.

The few thrills in the abbreviated day were provided by Dr. Heinrich Kleinschroth, veteran of the German Davis cup team, who played in his pre-war style with a newcomer, I. Von Kramm, against the Frenchmen, Lesueur and Rene De Busselet, winning 1-6, 7-5, 6-6, 6-3, 8-6. The veteran refused to let youth dominate the play and turned in a brilliant exhibition.

South Africans Win.

P. D. B. Spence and Louis Raymond of South Africa defeated Jean Gerbault and Pierre Albarran, 6-3, 6-4, 6-3, as the rain began to fall and the footing became slippery. Borotra and Boussus played through the storm to eliminate Paul Joba and Marcel Bernard, 6-1, 6-2, 6-1. The rain forced postponement of ten matches.

HOOSIER LAKES AFFORD CHICAGO FISHERMEN FUN

Shafer and Freeman Rank with Best.

BY BOB BECKER.

Can you give me information about the fishing in Shafer and Freeman lakes near Monticello, Ind.? I should like to know what kinds of fish are caught in these lakes, whether they are reasonably well stocked and what is a good place to stop on each.

Gnonos S. Eros.

Answer—We receive many inquiries from fishermen in and around Chicago who want suggestions on a nearby fishing trip, one which can be made over the week-end, and of all the close in spots that we know Freeman and Shafer rank among the best bets.

Last summer we canoed the Tippecanoe river and these lakes which have been formed by damming the river in two places. After looking over the water we would suggest the following trips.

Crappies, Bass Await Bait.

At the northern end of Lake Shafer [that's the one above Monticello] there is a bridge across the river and a small town. Buffalo, as I recall it. For bass fishing you can get a dandy float from a point about 12 miles above that town down to the bridge. There are several boys in town who know the river and will haul a boat upstream for you to some rapids. It is a fine stretch for the flyrod on bass and big crappies.

Last summer the water was so low that most of the fishermen were wading the stream and casting with live minnows. We saw several between Pulaski and Buffalo. Around Buffalo in the deeper water [the effect the dam begins to show below there] crappies, bass and pan fish may be caught.

Boats Are Available.

It is possible to stay in Buffalo if you wish as there are rooms available or you can drive over to the town of Monon which is just a few miles east.

We have no tips about fishing Shafer below Buffalo because we didn't stop to try it. But we did fish Freeman and at a time when the white or silver bass were schooling. Therefore we saw an interesting show and caught fish. The lake has large and small mouth bass, white bass, pike and pan fish in it and has been pretty well stocked. You can stay right in Monticello at a hotel or get accomodations at camps on the lake.

Boats available most anywhere, we fished from the west side of the lake some five or six miles from town.

LOW OIL PRICES PROVIDE BRAKE ON PRODUCTION

Report Sharp Drop in Crude Output.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The most cheerful news of trade and industry yesterday came from the petroleum industry. It offered some evidence that the low prices now quoted for crude oil are having effect in checking the long standing condition of overproduction. At the same time, how was gine that the advent of the cooler season will permit refineries to reduce their large stocks of gasoline in storage despite some increase in operations.

A sharp decline in crude oil output last week was reported by the American Petroleum institute, which places the daily average gross crude oil production at 2,476,800 barrels, a decrease of 41,900 barrels a day from the preceding week. Large declines occurred in Oklahoma, east Texas, west central Texas and California fields, which were only partially offset by increases in Panhandle Texas, southwest Texas, and New Mexico.

Expand Operations.

Refineries increased their takings of crude oil last week to 2,434,100 barrels a day, compared with 2,326,400 in the previous week. They expanded their runs to 68.2 per cent of capacity, compared with 65.1 per cent in the preceding week. However, gasoline stocks showed a slight decline, standing at 65,661,000 barrels, or a shrinkage of 147,000 barrels for the week.

News from other important industries was variable. The vagaries of general business were typified by the weekly report on the movement of commodities by the railroads. Loading of revenue freight for the week ended May 9 totaled 747,449 cars, a decline of 17,845 cars from the preceding week. This rather large decline was disappointing, as only a small change would have been normal at this season. Moreover, the current total was a decline of 184,897 cars from a year ago and 201,511 from two years ago.

Miscellaneous freight loadings totaled 216,649 cars, a decrease of 66,189 below the same week of 1930; merchandise, 124,333 cars, decrease, 22,861; coal, 171,589 cars, decrease, 28,967; forest products, 32,725 cars, decrease, 20,-; ore, 10,547 cars, decrease 39,662; coke, 6,953 cars, decrease 2,743; grain and grain products, 35,560 cars, decrease 1,332; live stock, 32,621 cars, decrease 1,857.

News of Steel Industry.

News of the steel industry also leaned to the adverse side. Steel ingot production in the United States was estimated to have undergone a further contraction to around 44 per cent of capacity, a decline of 2 per cent in the week ended yesterday. A year ago the industry was operating above 70 per cent of capacity and in 1929 at 96 per cent.

Output of the United States Steel corporation was estimated at 46 per cent of capacity, compared with approximately 48 per cent a week ago, 81 per cent a year ago, and 100 per cent two years ago. Operations of leading independents receded to 43 per cent, compared with 45 per cent a week ago, 70 per cent a year ago, and 95 per cent two years ago.

The American Metal Market predicts that the low level of the summer doldrums may bring steel output somewhat below 40 per cent. But it also says that the usual seasonal expansion is virtually certain to begin in August, with likelihood that the March average of 54 per cent will be attained for a time.

Iowa Removes Exemption on B. of Trade, Curb Stocks

Des Moines, Ia., May 19.—(AP)—Removal of exemptions for registration of all stocks listed on the New York Curb exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade has been ordered by Charles L. Fischer, superintendent of the state securities department. All corporations whose stocks are listed on the two exchanges will be required to register them with the department before offering them for sale in Iowa. Fischer explained that individual registration of the securities was the purpose of the order.

U. S. Ready to Co-operate, McKelvie Tells Wheat Parley

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 19.—Wheat production must be curtailed, dumping abroad must end, and an adjustment to avoid marketing under pressure must be achieved.

This was the keynote of an address given by Samuel R. McKelvie, head of the American delegation to the conference of the wheat exporting countries, occupying a large part of this morning's session. Mr. McKelvie did not mince his words in getting at the root of the problem when outlining a definite stand by the United States on the wheat question. He assured the different delegations that America was ready to coöperate with the rest of the exporters in arriving at a solution, asserting that the United States would not formulate its own policy without considering others.

"We have not see fit to defer the definitions of the major policies until other countries have hammered out theirs, or until some international understanding of a policy has been reached," he said. "Yet we are convinced that a progressive improvement can be materially accelerated by a common diagnosis of the disease, and by the common acceptance of broad and harmonious policies."

Discusses Curtailment.

Turning to the question of curtailment, Mr. McKelvie said:

"Collectively the wheat exporting countries have been and are producing too much wheat. We may as well admit this plain fact first as last. We have produced larger surpluses over domestic requirements than the world market wants, and larger than they are willing to absorb at practically any price. We see no possibility of a satisfactory solution of the world wheat problem which does not include as it most important single element curtailment in production by the exporting countries individually and as a whole until a better adjustment between supply and demand can be effected, and a restraint upon fresh expansion in production thereafter."

Mr. McKelvie pointed out that the United States was actively seeking to cut wheat acreage, adding:

"We believe it will look toward a practical and ultimate solution of the common problem if all the exporting countries do the same."

Will Be No Dumping.

Mr. McKelvie reassured the delegates at the outset that the United States would not pursue a policy of dumping existing surpluses or future surpluses. Touching on means of relieving pressure which forced wheat into world markets at sacrifices, he said it was neither intended nor practical for the United States to continue stabilization purchases and that the farm board had announced it will not authorize such purchases for the 1931 crop.

Regarding the farm board's present holdings, Mr. McKelvie said they would be sold, "but in an orderly manner," adding that adjustment of production would solve the difficulty at the source.

The first concrete plan of a solution reaching the conference was submitted by Australia today. It embodies the recommendations of the Australian growers, arrived at after a discussion with the commonwealth government and cabled the Australian delegation for presentation here this morning.

Details of Plan.

It calls for:

One, an international marketing organization representing all the exporting countries to control all wheat offered for export sale.

Two, for each exporting country to be represented in this organization.

Three, a preliminary meeting to suggest the basis regarding the proportion and percentage of export surpluses to be marketed jointly.

Four, the countries to give guarantees in the form of a bond to be deposited with the world bank.

Russia to Tell Wants.

Russia is taking the floor tomorrow at the resumption of the conference. A hint of what the Russian stand will be was given this morning by Mr. Lubinoff, the head of the soviet delegation. He said that Russia wants first to assume the world market which she had before the war. Lubinoff also declared:

"Russia is vitally interested in the export of wheat because her wheat is one of her principal sources for use in paying for her growing imports. Naturally, therefore, the success of this conference to no small extent depends on how far the conference will take into consideration the vital interests of Russia."

GRAIN EXCHANGE MEN MEET WITH CHAIRMAN STONE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 19.—Representatives of the major private grain exchanges of the country participated in a protracted conference on wheat today with Chairman James C. Stone of the federal farm board. Julius Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce and close friend of President Hoover, attended the parley.

The grain men present said their primary purpose was to ascertain the farm board's plans for handling the wheat surplus which the stabilization corporation now holds and the new crop so that they could be prepared to meet competition and handle their business. They stated, following the meeting, that they had learned nothing except what the board already had announced.

Mr. Stone stated that the grain exchange representatives simply wanted to talk over plans with the board and added that no demands for a change in policy had been made. He said the board would continue its present policies, calling for no stabilization of the 1931 crop and the further development of coöperative marketing.

Among the grain men present were James C. Murray, president of the Chicago Board of Trade; Fred B. Wells, of Minneapolis, who appeared before the congressional committee during the framing of the marketing act; B. H. Woodworth of Minneapolis; George Davis of Kansas City; James Norris of Chicago; Walter McCarthy of Duluth, and E. J. Peck of Omaha.

Reports April Auto Brake Shipments Ahead of 1930

The Midland Steel Products company reports that its shipments of four wheel automobile brakes were 25 per cent greater the first quarter of 1931 than the same period of 1930 and are at the highest level since April, 1929.

CHICAGO SWITCHING SITUATION OUTLINED IN EASTERN RAIL DISPUTE

New York, May 19.—(AP)—The principle of rate unity in an area of mutually interested communities prevails in the Chicago terminal district, W. J. O'Brien, general manager of the Chicago Belt Line and the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad, testified in the New Jersey lighterage hearing today.

In presenting this testimony before interstate commerce commission examiners railroad counsel sought to show that there is an analogy between the Chicago situation and that which exists between New York and New Jersey.

New Jersey has petitioned the commission to compel railroads to abandon the practice of absorbing the cost of transporting by lighters freight bound for New York, and the railroads contend that they must retain the practice or suffer in competition with roads which have rail connections in New York.

The Chicago area covers 750 square miles, serves 4,000 industries, and averages a daily movement of 35,000 cars, Mr. O'Brien testified. Some of these cars are switched 65 miles in each direction, although the average distance is from 25 to 40 miles.

The cost of switching is absorbed by the line-haul road, said Mr. O'Brien. The switching system embraces more than 1,000 miles of elevated tracks, 40 miles of depressed tracks, some underground lines, three watercourses, and 7 steel bridges, the witness said, adding that lighterage is used to some extent.

STOCKS OF CRUDE RUBBER DECLINE —NOW LOWEST SINCE AUGUST

Middle Term Credit Fund Established.

BASEL, Switzerland, May 19.—(AP)—It took only thirty-five minutes today for the central bankers and other delegates from twenty-four nations to settle their business at a meeting of stockholders in the bank for international settlements.

Since his report had previously been submitted, President Gates W. McGarrah confined his remarks to a brief speech of welcome. When he asked for discussion nobody had anything to say and in rapid succession his report was adopted, a dividend of six per cent was voted, and his other recommendations were approved. Then the general meeting adjourned.

Sums Up Activities.

Mr. McGarrah's report summed up the activities of the fiscal year, tracing the bank's growth from seven share holders to twenty-three and from deposits totalling 220,000,000 Swiss francs [around $41,800,000] with assets and liabilities of 300,000,000 to deposits of 1,780,000,000 [around $33,820,000] and total assets and liabilities of 1,900,000,000 last March 31. The Swiss franc is worth a little more than nineteen cents. Net profits totaled 11,136,521 Swiss francs, or $2,125,449.

President McGarrah said deposits so far were solely from governments and central banks. Long term funds over which the world bank has disposition aggregate 404,000,000 francs, these being made up of paid in capital and government deposits by Germany and creditor powers.

Invested in Germany.

Only two per cent of the total funds of the bank, he said, are invested at long term and ten per cent intermediate term and nearly all the funds of these two categories are invested in Germany. In conformity with the statutes, the Bank of International Settlements has granted no advances to governments.

To help countries in need of economic development, however, especially concerning promotion of export, the Bank of International Settlements has decided to set aside 150,000,000 francs or $28,500,000, for middle term credits, hoping this example would stimulate others.

Receivership Suit Against Julian Oil Co. Dismissed

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 19.—(AP)—The receivership suit of Marjorie Bennett of Hollywood, Cal., against the C. C. Julian Oil and Royalties companies and affiliated concerns, was dismissed by District Judge Sam Hooker today on application of her attorneys. The application was made after C. C. Julian had resigned as trustee.

Sturgis to Take Baker's Place on Pullman Boards

The boards of directors of Pullman, Inc., and the Pullman company at their meetings, held in New York yesterday, elected Henry S. Sturgis, vice president of the First National bank of New York, as a member of both boards to fill vacancies caused by the death of George F. Baker.

Easy Money Policy Sends U. S. Bonds to New Peaks

New York, May 19.—(AP)—The easy money policy of the federal reserve designed to force idle funds into long term investments as an aid to business recovery was accentuated today by a further reduction in the bank's buying rate on bankers' acceptances.

At the same time yesterday's reduction in deposit interest rates by New York clearing house banks put fresh life into the United States government bonds in the New York Stock exchange. Buying was not large but was sufficient to force the prices of several issues to new historical tops.

Banks have been pouring their money into United States governments the last three months, almost to the exclusion of other types of long term investments, and presumably the bulk of the buying today came from that quarter. The cut in deposit rates, which was a natural consequence of the reduction of the rediscount rate, permits banks a little more leeway in putting their funds to work profitably in low yielding securities.

All Time High.

In a turnover exceeding $500,000, which is comparatively large for a day's trading, Liberty 4th 4¼s reached an all time high price at $1,050. Record peaks also were reached by three treasury bonds—the 1⅞s of 1940-'43, June, at $1,030; 3⅜s of 1941-'43, March, $1,034, and 3⅜s of 1943-'47, $1,034. Several other issues established new 1931 maximums.

The ⅛ of one per cent cut in the bill buying rate of the federal reserve bank was the fifth such reduction since April 22 in the rate at which it offers to purchase acceptances from banks and dealers. It is equivalent to an advance in price, and therefore narrows the return on this form of short term commercial credit. It is one of the two weapons employed by the central bank to discourage short term investments and tends to force banks to seek more profitable channels for their funds.

Others May Take Action.

The reduction in deposit rates by the New York clearing house, which includes in its membership virtually every important bank in the city, applies only to demand, time and mutual savings bank deposits. However, it was expected that the banks individually would follow the lead of the Chase National bank and cut their rates on thrift or special interest accounts. The Chase National reduced its rate on such accounts from 3 to 2 per cent, compounded monthly. Inquiry indicated that most of the other clearing house banks carrying thrift accounts would act within the next few days.

Strength in the bond market was not confined to obligations of the federal government, however. American Telephone debenture 5s of 1960, Atchison General 4s, Detroit Edison series D 4½s, Philadelphia Electric 4s of 1971, and Public Service Electric and Gas 4½s of 1967, among other high grade issues, closed higher. A few of such bonds sold at new 1931 high levels.

INDICATE THAT PUBLIC WILL PAY TAXES ON CHAINS

New York, May 19.—(AP)—Comment in banking circles today on the Supreme court's decision upholding the Indiana chain store tax law indicated that the levy would be passed on to the consuming public by the corporations operating in that state.

H. I. Parsons, president of F. W. Woolworth company, shared that view with some of the bankers who have been identified with the distribution of chain store securities. Mr. Parsons said the decision does not affect his company to any great extent.

"We have 40 stores in Indiana which, under the law, are taxable for a total amount of about $750, the decision cleared the atmosphere on the question of chain store taxation and sets a pattern to be followed by other states involving a reasonable tax that can be easily absorbed by a slight increase in retail prices."

Mr. Parsons took an optimistic view, holding that the decision was by no means "unfavorable."

"The court has taken the position that the chains may be taxed within reasonable limits. The opinion indicates that the court stands ready to give relief if taxation of an oppressive character is attempted. This is a real safeguard which ought to be reassuring to the chain store interests.

"The fact that four members of the court dissented from the opinion suggests that tax legislation which placed an unfair burden on the chains probably would not be upheld.

Under the Indiana law chain stores are required to pay a graduated tax starting at $3. For the first store, $10 for each of the next four and so on up to 20 when the maximum levy of $25 is imposed.

Baltimore Utility Company to Issue $18,000,000 Bonds

In connection with proposed refunding operations of Consolidated Gas Electric Light and Power company of Baltimore, a banking syndicate headed by Aldred & Co., is offering a new issue of $18,000,000 first refunding mortgage sinking fund gold bonds, 4 per cent series, due 1981. Two Members Expelled from Board of Trade

Frank H. Day, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade, was expelled last night after being connected with the exchange for more than forty years. His son, Frank M. Day, was suspended for six months. The charges were violating rules 141 and 205, which prevent members from acting as principal and broker at the same time and from accepting orders from clerks employed by other commission houses without the consent of their employers.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—It was a dismal other altogether dismal day in the Wall street district. The stock market wabbled on to a still soggier level, but failed to fall completely apart as many were looking for it to do after yesterday's rather terrifying exhibition. Nobody had the heart apparently to give it the finishing push.

Scattered issues managed to register slight gains, but there were not enough of them and their efforts were not sufficiently earnest to provide salt for any latent optimism that might remain in the ranks of the sorely tried trading clan. American Can was about the most notable performer of the lot on the upside, bettering its Monday low by about 2 points, but even this left it still below par. United States Steel got above the 108 mark on a mid-morning rally of some pretensions, but couldn't keep the pace and the close found it back to 98¾, or nearly a half point below last night's close. At one time the premier "blue chip" of the list was down to a brand new low of 97.

Three or four others of pivotal rating achieved plus sign honors after having their ups and downs in the earlier trading. American Telephone, which led the utilities on the way down yesterday, was one. Closing time found it boasting an advance of five-eighths of a point. Consolidated Gas did about as well as did General Motors and General Electric. New York Central outdid them all by springing ahead for more than a point. Most of the rails made a show of bracing up after their long decline. In fact, for a few anxious minutes in the forenoon, it looked as if they might be starting a little rally of their own.

Given a Thrill.

The upturn in a section that has been sticking to the bottom of the market like a cow-tick for so long gave the tape watchers something of a thrill, but it was a short lived affair and many of them sagged back to about where they were last night or even below. Short supplies of cattle and hogs halted the downward glide of prices abruptly on yesterday's session and some classes recovered a small part of the big loss recorded on Monday's market. Activity featured the trade and salesmen were encouraged to hold stock off the late market when meager supplies were estimated on the way for today's trade. The drastic cut in quotations has curtailed the movement of cattle and hogs at practically all points.

Following a slow topheavy opening, the hog market improved rapidly and much of the selling in midsession and later was 5@10c above the general market the previous day. The extreme top was unchanged at $7.00, but was paid for lighter weight hogs, while the general average moved up 5c at $6.55. Prevailing quotations are still 35@40c under the best time last week.

September Hogs Bring $7.40.

Three carloads of medium and heavy hogs averaging 210@210 lbs were sold for September delivery at $7.40 on the futures market yesterday. Trading in other months was slow, with bids and offers far apart in most instances. July light were offered at $6.90, but $7.00 was the highest bid. Light weights for September were offered at $7.00 and bid $6.75. On the "to arrive" market hogs averaging 170@210 lbs for today's delivery were bid $7.00.

The range of prices reached the narrowest point in some time on yesterday's market and is the narrowest for this season in many years. Steers of beef merit sold within a range of $6.00@8.15, against $8.50@ 14.25 a year ago this week and $11.50@ 14.85 two years ago. A few head yesterday were sold at $8.50@8.75, but $8.15 was the extreme top for load lots. The bulk changed hands at $6.50@7.75. Jewish holidays late this week, when kosher slaughtering will be suspended, has some effect on shipping demand so far this week. Cows and heifers were mostly steady. Calves were fully steady.

Native Springers $11.50.

Best grades of fat lambs held almost steady yesterday, while others declined 15@25c, some medium to good grades sharing in the loss. Choice 62@65lb native springers were sold at $11.00@ 11.50, while medium grades averaging 60@65 lbs. had to go at $8.00@9.00 and thin light "throw outs" at $7.00. California springers were sorted at $10.00@10.75. Shorn lambs sold largely at $8.25@8.85, while most good wool lambs brought $9.25@9.50. Aged sheep and yearlings were mostly steady.

SHORT COVERING BRINGS RALLY IN WHEAT MARKET

Wet, Cooler Weather Lifts Corn Prices.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Short covering and a strong technical position was largely responsible for a fair upturn yesterday in the grain markets, but there was nothing in the general run of the news to cause any material change in sentiment, and a majority of operators regarded the rally of 1½c from the low on Monday in wheat as only a natural recovery in view of the 5½c decline from the high of last Wednesday.

Speculative interest in wheat was not large and the market easily influenced. Strength in Winnipeg and in Liverpool had some effect here, but a good part of the buying was of a local character and the advance was checked by selling against offers. The finish was at net gains of ⅝c, with July at 59⅝@60c; September, 60⅝c, and December, 64@64⅛c. Old May, after a small dip early, rallied 1c and closed ⅝c higher at 82⅝c.

More Rain in Canada.

Scattered rains were again reported in the Canadian northwest, but were not general, as complaints of dry weather were received from parts of Alberta during the day. Out of 38 points reporting precipitation overnight, only 7 points had ¼-inch or more rain, and the forecast was for generally fair.

Frost was expected overnight in northwestern Kansas and in Nebraska and the Dakotas, which caused a little apprehension on the part of shorts and helped along the upturn in futures, but the general run of reports from the winter wheat belt were as favorable as heretofore. Excessive rains fell at some points in Oklahoma, eastern Kansas and in Missouri, where moisture is not needed at the present time.

There was a fair class of buying of wheat futures at Winnipeg, where a somewhat oversold condition was regarded as existing and the Canadian market closed ⅛@⅜c higher for the day, with July at 60⅝c. Liverpool finished unchanged to ¼d higher, with July 65⅝c. Some improvement was reported in the export demand with sales of 500,000 bu estimated by Winnipeg, and a little business was also put through in hard winters.

May Corn Acts Tight.

Prospects of a decrease of 4,750,000 acres in wheat in Australia for the crop which will be harvested next November failed to attract much attention, nor did the rather unfavorable crop comments from Europe. Weather conditions in parts of Russia and Siberia were against a rapid completion of spring seeding.

A return of wet and cold weather over the corn belt which may delay the completion of planting and also check the movement of cash grain led to short covering, especially in the May, which gained fractionally on the July and closed 1¼c higher at 56⅝c. Deferred futures were ¼@⅝c higher, with July 57⅛@57⅝c, September 56¼@56⅝c, and December 49⅝c. There was some spreading under way between May and the distant deliveries. Commission houses were fair buyers during the day, with the advance checked by selling against offers.

COTTON LOWEST SINCE 1915

Cotton prices broke early yesterday to the lowest since the spring of 1915. Early influences were bearish. Foreign markets were lower. Liquidation was on and for a time the market had support, with a rally of 20 points on short covering to secure profits. Later the break in stocks carried prices down to new low levels, with sentiment extremely bearish. There appeared to be very few contracts wanted and new low prices were made.

Total stocks of all cotton remaining in the United States on April 30, as given by the New York Cotton Exchange service, were 8,536,000 bales, against 6,178,000 bales a year ago and 4,804,000 bales in 1929. Prices follow:

LARD RALLIES AFTER BREAK

Liquidation in lard and bellies early yesterday carried prices down sharply, from which there was a rally later on buying by shorts and support from packing interests. At the close lard prices were 2½c lower on the nearby and unchanged for deferred deliveries. Bellies for July broke from $8.70 to $8.30, with the close at $8.30 on May and $8.40 on July, making losses of 20 to 30c, the latter on July. Cash trade was slow. Liverpool lard was is 9d@1s 6d lower. Exports of lard were 421,000 lbs. and of bacon 468,000 lbs. Hog supplies were not so large as a week or a year ago and prices higher. Prices follow:

TEXAS CORP. REDUCES DIVIDEND FOR FIRST TIME IN NINETEEN YRS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 19.—The first dividend reduction since 1912 was announced today by the board of the Texas corporation. Directors voted in favor of reducing the quarterly disbursement from 75 cents to 50 cents, thereby establishing a $3 annual rate against the $3 payment in force since the old $100 par value stock was split on a four for one basis in 1920. The new rate is payable July 1 to holders of record June 5.

Although the company did not issue any statement in connection with the cut in the rate, it is believed that the falling off in net earnings to $1.63 a share for 1930 and the apparent lack of confidence in the ability of the industry to recover from its current depression exerted a great deal of influence in arriving at this decision.

Directors of Feltman & Curme deferred action on the quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock due at this time.

Crane company directors today declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common, payable June 15 to record of June 1, placing the stock on a $1 annual basis, against $1.25 a share annually, effective with the previous quarterly dividend.

Prior to the first reduction the stock was on a $1.75 annual basis. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred, payable June 15 to record of June 1, was declared.

Directors of the American Surety company reduced the annual dividend basis on the stock to $4 from $6 by declaring a quarterly dividend of $1 a share.

American Colortype company directors declared a quarterly dividend of 20 cents a share on the common stock, placing the stock on an 80 cent annual basis.

REJECT PLAN OF RAIL RATE WAR ON PIPE LINES

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—An attempt of southwestern railroads to meet pipe line competition from the new east Texas oil field by reducing rates on oil on one day's notice was rejected today by the interstate commerce commission.

The carriers had sought to make reductions of from 3 to 5 1-2 cents per hundred pounds on crude petroleum from the new field to Mid-Continent refineries in Missouri, Arkansas, and Oklahoma. The commission's decision merely prohibited the increases on one day's notice but the railroads can now make formal application for the readjustments on longer notice.

"The proposed rates," the railroads contended, "are not only necessary from a commerical sense, but are also necessary in order to keep as much of this oil as possible out of the pipe lines, thereby enabling the rail lines to handle it."

The proposed rate reductions also were sought to establish competition from the new field and the Smackover and Panhandle fields. The commission held it was unable to analyze the proposed general readjustments in time for establishment on one day's notice.

HOG PRICE TRENDS

"Hog prices in the United States and Europe continued to decline during April," says Foreign Crops and Markets. "Indications are that for the next 5 months hog slaughter in the United States will be under that of last year. There is little evidence of any improvement in either domestic or foreign demand for American pork products during that period. European hog numbers and slaughter figures continue at high levels. In spite of the decline in hog prices the production of hogs in most European countries has not been discouraged to any extent, except possibly in western Germany."

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Traders regarded the action of the wheat market in rallying after an early break, as only natural after a decline of around 6 cents within the last few days. While rains in the American and Canadian northwest have been general, they were mostly light, but they tend to check bullish enthusiasm and the disposition on the part of traders is to sell on all bulges so long as crop reports from the southwest continue favorable.

Corn specialists said there was evidence of selling of May and buying of July at ⅞c premium for the latter, which was attributed to one of the largest holders. Light receipts attracted attention, and the inclination of traders is to go slow in selling on breaks.

The Searle Grain company of Winnipeg says reports up to May 18 indicate that wheat seeding is practically completed in all provinces and coarse grains 50 per cent completed. Indicated acreage in wheat is 21,887,000 against 23,935,000 acres last year. They estimate that approximately 50 per cent of the sown wheat is now above ground and condition is 80. Moisture conditions in Alberta are reported as 70, Saskatchewan 75, Manitoba 72 per cent, which should be improved by present general rains.

RAINS IN NORTHWEST

An investigation into moisture conditions in the northwest is being made by R. O. Cromwell, the Lamson Brothers & Co. crop expert. In a wire from Bismarck, N. D., he says: "Aberdeen to Jamestown good rains Sunday, penetrating 6 to 10 inches in new worked ground. With an occasional rain there will be good crops. Planting of flax, barley, and late oats has started from Jamestown to Bismarck. Pastures 10 days late, but beginning to grow well.

"Soil moisture conditions in North Dakota on May 15 were less favorable than at the same time a year ago," says the midmonth report of Ben Klemhuis, federal agriculture statistician at Fargo. "Reserve moisture has been further diminished by further deficiency in precipitation since last October, while prolonged winds in April and early May have caused rapid evaporation of crop soil moisture. Total precipitation during the last eight months, September to April inclusive, for the last three years, has been 6.13 inches in 1930-31, with 7.65 inches in 1929-30, and 5.11 inches in the 1928-29 period, compared with a normal of 7 inches.

ADVISES AGAINST PLAN OF SOUTHERN PACIFIC TO BUY ST. LOUIS LINE

Washington, D. C., May 19.—(AP)—Acquisition by the Southern Pacific company of control of the St. Louis Southwestern [Cotton Belt] railway would be denied under recommendations presented to the interstate commerce commission today by Examiner Thomas F. Sullivan.

Sullivan held that the acquisition would not be in the public interest and that the proposed purchase price for the St. Louis Southwestern's capital stock was not just and reasonable. The commission has yet to pass on the examiner's findings.

Under the commission's consolidation plan the Illinois Central railroad would acquire the St. Louis Southwestern.

Examiner Sullivan held the commission's proposed consolidation represented a carefully considered adjustment of railroad lines made with a view to observing the directions prescribed by congress. He added that "certain fundamental principles have been regarded which may not be upset without throwing the plan into confusion if not actually destroying it."

"One of these principles," he said, "is the denial of access by the principal transcontinental lines to the St. Louis and Memphis gateways."

Under an agreement entered into with Kuhn, Loeb & Co., at the request of the Southern Pacific, the bankers would have acquired 24,700 shares of common and 59,350 shares of preferred stock of the St. Louis Southwestern which the Southern Pacific would have purchased after authorization for the acquisition had been given by the commission. The price agreed upon was $7,837,488 plus interest.

BROOKLYN MANHATTAN TRANSIT.
For the ten months ended April 30 reports net income of $6,137,000 after taxes, charges and minority interest, equal after dividend requirements on the $6 preferred stock to $6.34 a share on 769,911 shares of common stock. This compares with $5,031,592, or $6.08 a common share, in the first ten months of the previous fiscal year. April net income was $717,337, against $718,197 in April last year. Net income of the Brooklyn and Queens Transit system in April was $208,814, as compared with $195,127 in the corresponding month of 1930.

CREOLE PETROLEUM.
In the year ended Dec. 31 showed a net profit of $1,665,045 after federal taxes, depreciation, depletion, amortization and royalties, equal to 25c a share on 6,524,391 shares, against $2,434,189, or 41c a share, on 5,977,573 shares in 1929. The company is controlled by the Standard Oil of New Jersey.

TEXAS PUBLIC SERVICE.
For the twelve months ended March 31 reports operating income of $610,850 after operating expenses, maintenance and ordinary taxes, against $412,956 in the preceding twelve months.

REPORT PROFIT OF $5,800,000 FOR FOX FILM

Net profit of Fox Film corporation for 52 weeks ended Sept. 27, 1930, after interest charges figured on present funded debt was $4,592,726 before taxes. Assuming federal taxes of 12 per cent, or $790,000, there was balance of roughly $5,800,000, or about $2.30 a share for 2,525,000 shares of class A and class B common stock.

This is the report made by auditors for the banking group underwriting the recent offering of $30,000,000 6½ per cent convertible notes and is after deduction of $3,298,165 for amortization of film costs in addition to usual depreciation.

Officials of Warner Brother Pictures corporation are reported to be considering financing with Goldman, Sachs & Co. and Hayden, Stone & Co., the company's bankers, to meet the usual seasonal requirements

REDUCE CHICAGO STOCK LOSSES IN LATE TRADING

Auto Accessory Shares Show Firmness.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Few watchers saw another see-saw session on the Chicago exchange yesterday, which resulted in a large number of small losses, a smattering of small gains and the maintenance of prior quotations in a few stocks. The market was slow to follow the lead of the New York market in its early rally, but when the buying finally got under way it reduced losses in nearly all the active issues and gave the market a fairly good appearance at the close. An early morning upturn had spent itself in short order and was followed by moderate liquidation. Volume of business was comparatively heavy with total sales running around 120,000 shares, which is reasonably large in contrast with the daily turnover over the last month.

Shares Under Pressure.

Automotive accessory shares displayed relative firmness. The selling was directed chiefly at a few miscellaneous shares such as Swift International, U. S. Gypsum, McWilliams Dredging and U. S. Radio. Five chain stores, such as Walgreen and Butler Brothers, were not noticeably influenced by the Supreme court decision affecting the taxing of chain stores.

A theory that has been advanced to explain the heavy liquidation in the public industrial stocks in recent weeks would attribute the selling to investors who are readjusting their holdings to insure safety and regularity of income. It is pointed out that many persons are increasing their holdings of preferred stocks and adjusting their investments in common shares as a result of the dividend reductions and omissions.

Adopted by Trusts.

The same policy has been adopted recently by many investment trusts—of the management type which previously had committed themselves to common stocks, traders assert. The tendency was shown by the changes made in the Continental Chicago corporate portfolio in recent months, as outlined in its report as of April 31.

BULWARKS

The ravages of constant changes in economic status have not made themselves felt upon the underlying soundness and reliability of our strongest banking institutions other than to have created a desirable opposition which has produced added fortifications to the bulwarks upon which these banks were founded.

We have prepared a list of "Bulwarks—American Banking Institutions", whose stocks we feel are in a buying range. You are invited to write for it.

MUST CUT LABOR TO GET BUILDING BANKER STATES

L. K. Boysen Calls It Next Necessary Step.

BY AL CHASE.

Reduction in labor costs is the next necessary step in bringing back a normal building situation, according to Louis K. Boysen, president of the Chicago Mortgage Bankers' association, who spoke last night at the annual banquet and election of that organization at the Palmer house. The subject of his speech was, "The Present Real Estate Bond Situation." Mr. Boysen was reelected for a second term as head of the mortgage bankers. Col. John Stephen Sewell, director of exhibits and assistant manager of the World's Fair also spoke.

LOUIS K. BOYSEN.

"While union labor remains at its peak scale, there has been some decline in the cost of building materials," said Mr. Boysen. "Owing to these reduced material costs and the greater energy of labor, buildings can be constructed today at prices about 25 per cent less than five years ago. This reduction, however, is not sufficient to start a building program.

"There must be a further decline in labor costs before new building is generally justified. Investing capital has learned its lesson and will not finance buildings that cannot produce net incomes sufficient to justify the investment. It is probable that the first evidence of a renewed building program will show itself in the erection of residences for actual home owners."

Cautions Bond Holders.

Mr. Boysen sounded a note of caution to holders of real estate bonds not to be stampeded into selling their securities at a sacrifice or into trading them for something else of questionable value.

At the same time he warned that "until mortgage loans are made salable, real estate operations in Chicago will be negligible, distress on the part of present holders of securities will be great and new construction, except on behalf of well entrenched and well financed corporations, will be almost impossible.

"The curtailment of real estate development means a partial paralysis of many of our other industries. Therefore, the most important problem is to provide the machinery by which confidence in real estate securities can be reestablished and the investing public be willing to make their savings available to finance proper and reasonable real estate undertakings and new construction."

Analyzes Bond Situation.

Mr. Boysen analyzed the realty bond situation, placing the total volume at $1,000,000,000, and dividing it into four classes. The first division, comprising $250,000,000 of bonds, represent those without a possibility of loss.

"In Class 2 are real estate bond issues that have given no evidence of trouble but that are over 75 per cent of the security. These appear all to be workouts without foreclosure or loss and aggregate $200,000,000.

"In Class 3 are loans generally in excess of 75 per cent of present value of security where foreclosure or workout with small loss is probable. Losses in these cases will vary from nothing to a possible 25 per cent. The total in this class is $200,000,000.

"In Class 4 are loans which when originally made were 80 to 100 per cent loans on then existing values. Such loans are now 100 to 150 per cent items on present values with losses ranging from 25 to 70 per cent after foreclosure and sale are completed. These total $350,000,000.

A Word to the Banks.

"It is the duty of every investment house or bank in Chicago to carefully analyse and appraise the present values behind the real estate bond issues which they handled and to group them in some such classification as set out.

"Bonds in classes one and two are well secured and are entitled to a preferred market status and the investment house should endeavor to maintain such a market.

"Each investor should be furnished with information as to the probable liquidation value of items in classes three and four and when possible some price should be maintained by the underwriting house for these bonds."

Mr. Boysen criticised the slowness and expense of liquidating defaulted issues. He stated that the Chicago Mortgage Bankers association was a leader in a move to secure amendments speeding up our foreclosure laws. At the present rate, he said, it will take at least ten years to clear up the foreclosures and get the defaulted bonds out of the way.

Predicts Lower Interest Rate.

He predicted that until the present situation is cleared up there'll be little real estate bond financing done. He also foresaw new issues more in accord with the standards of safety followed by life insurance companies, with lower interest rates to the investor, and with a sharp curtailment of new building projects unless borrowers can be found to furnish the required 40 to 50 per cent margin of security.

In addtion to Mr. Boysen being reelected president, George W. Springer was made first vice president. Edward A. Nelson was reflected second vice president and LeRoy F. Pape, third. Robert F. Wingard is again treasurer and Walter H. Cohrs is the new secretary.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 19.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quieter today, the unsettled refined situation seemed to check new business, and refiners showed little interest, while offerings were more liberal with some duty frees available at concessions of 1-32c or at 3.32c delivered.

The unsettled refined situation and the more liberal offerings in the spot market had a depressing effect in futures and prices were easier, closing at net losses of 4 to 5 points. The day's business aggregated only 17,250 tons. Prices follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. close.

Refined was unsettled. The announcement of an advance to the basis of 4.50c today night by some of the refiners yesterday, was not only rescinded but was followed by a reduction to the basis of 4.35c.

Montgomery Ward.

Will you please give me all the information you have on Montgomery Ward & Co. stock? Enclosed is a self-addressed, stamped envelope.—J. C. G.

Montgomery Ward & Co., Inc., is the second largest mail order company in the United States. In 1928 it commenced opening retail stores. At the end of 1930 it operated approximately 16 retail department stores and 540 retail chain stores.

The additional outlets were reflected in increased sales. Sales in 1927 totaled $186,683,340 which was the high record to that year. For 1928 sales were $214,350,446 and in 1929 the company reported record sales of $267,325,503. For 1930 they totaled $249,097,222. Mail order volume accounted for 74 per cent of the gross in 1928 and 45.6 per cent in 1930. Smaller volume and the sharp decline in commodity prices resulted in lower gross receipts.

Net earnings reached their peak in 1928, showed a decline in 1929 and dropped sharply in 1930. Net of $3,417,202 in the final quarter of 1930 enabled the company to show a net profit in 1930 of $423,311 or $2.06 per class A share. After dividends deficit for the year was $11,234,342. For 1929 net income was $13,434,935 or $2.60 per common share, against $17,703,835 or $4.77 per common share in 1928. Earnings for 1929 were less than those of 1928 despite increased volume of business because of initial costs of establishing new stores and the company's experiment in prepaying freight rates in its mail order division without adjusting prices.

The company has continued to maintain a strong current position. On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $109,936,849 and current liabilities were $7,820,622. This left a working capital of $102,116,227, against $115,689,376 the year before.

Gross sales for the first quarter of 1931 were $49,466,366, against $57,389,069 for the first quarter of 1930. Net loss was $1,783,674, against net loss of $2,218,260 for the like period of 1930. The improved relation between gross sales and net loss was ascribed to drastic reductions in operating expenses and a more favorable inventory situation. Sales for April 1931, totaled $20,558,449, against $23,776,430 for April, 1930.

Capitalization consists of 205,000 $7 cumulative no par class A shares and 4,565,004 no par common shares. Dividends are being paid on the class A, but none has been paid on the common since the 75 cent disbursement on Aug. 15, 1930.

SOMETHING BETTER
Men who know their worth are not satisfied to stand still; they want to progress with the times and in spite of the times. If you are engaged in an occupation not entirely satisfactory from the earning standpoint or from a viewpoint of morale, and you desire to connect yourself with a company that will supply both of these factors of happiness, here is your big chance.

Our organization handles a nationally advertised product. We provide a brief but thorough training course in our proven methods. The positions are permanent with rapid advancement.

Prof. Michael Lewis, a character analyst with a background of 22 years' experience, has been retained by us to give all applicants a free character analysis which may reveal your latest powers and how you can best use them to attain your goal of success and happiness.

Call 10 to 10:30 and 2 to 2:30 today. Suite 1007, 75 E. Wacker-dr.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally advertised Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.
